Uranium Paris, 1988 The Experience of Occupation in the Nord, 1914-18 James E. Connolly, 2018 This study considers the ways in which locals of the occupied Nord responded to and understood their situation across four years of German domination focusing in particular on key behaviours adopted by locals and the way in which such conduct was perceived Behaviours examined include forms of complicity misconduct disunity criminality and resistance This local case study calls into question overly patriotic readings of this experience and suggests a new conceptual vocabulary to help understand certain civilian behaviours under military occupation Drawing on extensive primary documentation from diaries and letters to posters and police reports this book proposes that a dominant occupied culture

existed among locals This was a moral patriotic framework born of both pre war socio cultural norms and daily interaction with the enemy that guided conduct and was especially concerned with what was considered acceptable and unacceptable behaviour Those who breached the limits of this occupied culture faced criticism and sometimes punishment This study attempts to disentangle perceptions and reality but also argues that the clear beliefs and expectations of the occupied French comprise a fascinating subject of study in their own right They provide an insight into national and local identity and especially the way in which locals understood their role within the wider conflict This book will be useful to undergraduates post graduates and academics interested in an understudied aspect of the history of modern France the First World War and military occupations

Predator-Prey Interactions in the Fossil Record Patricia H. Kelley, Michal Kowalewski, Thor A. Hansen, 2012-12-06 From the Foreword Predator prey interactions are among the most significant of all organism organism interactions It will only be by compiling and evaluating data on predator prey relations as they are recorded in the fossil record that we can hope to tease apart their role in the tangled web of evolutionary interaction over time This volume compiled by a group of expert specialists on the evidence of predator prey interactions in the fossil record is a pioneering effort to collate the information now accumulating in this important field It will be a standard reference on which future study of one of the central dynamics of ecology as seen in the fossil record will be built Richard K Bambach Professor Emeritus Virginia Tech Associate of the Botanical Museum Harvard University
