The Moral Circle: Who Matters, What Matters, and Why (A Norton Short) Jeff Sebo,2025-01-28 A philosopher calls for a revolution in ethics suggesting we expand our moral circle to include insects AI systems and even microbes Today human exceptionalism is the norm Despite occasional nods to animal welfare we prioritize humanity often neglecting the welfare of a vast number of beings As a result we use hundreds of billions of vertebrates and trillions of invertebrates every year for a variety of purposes often unnecessarily We also plan to use animals AI systems and other nonhumans at even higher levels in the future Yet as the dominant species humanity has a responsibility to ask Which nonhumans matter how much do they matter and what do we owe them in a world reshaped by human activity and technology In The Moral Circle philosopher Jeff Sebo challenges us to include all potentially significant beings in our moral community with transformative implications for our lives and societies This book explores provocative case studies such as lawsuits over captive elephants and debates over factory farmed insects and compels us to consider future ethical quandaries such as whether to send microbes to new planets and whether to create virtual worlds filled with digital minds Taking an expansive view of human responsibility Sebo argues that building a positive future requires the shedding of human exceptionalism and radically rethinking our place in the world The Wisdom of Mark Twain Seymour

Mark Twain's Speeches Mark Twain, 1910 These Mark Twain speeches will address themselves to the minds and hearts of those who read them but not with the effect they had with those who heard them Clemens himself would have said not with half the effect I have noted elsewhere how he always held that the actor doubled the value of the author's words and he was a great actor as well as a great author In the words of author William Dean Howells These speeches will address themselves to the minds and hearts of those who read them but not with the effect they had with those who heard them Clemens himself would have said not with half the effect I have noted elsewhere how he always held that the actor doubled the value of the author's words and he was a great actor as well as a great author He was a most consummate actor with this difference from other actors that he was the first to know the thoughts and invent the fancies to which his voice and action gave the color of life Representation is the art of other actors his art was creative as well as representative it was nothing at second hand I never heard Clemens speak when I thought he quite failed some burst or spurt redeemed him when he seemed flagging short of the goal and whoever else was in the running he came in ahead His near failures were the error of a rare trust to the spontaneity in which other speakers confide or are believed to confide when they are on their feet He knew that from the beginning of oratory the orator's spontaneity was for the silence and solitude of the closet where he mused his words to an imagined audience that this was the use of orators from Demosthenes and Cicero up and down He studied every word and syllable and memorized them by a system of mnemonics peculiar to himself consisting of an arbitrary arrangement of things on a table knives forks salt cellars inkstands pens boxes or whatever was at hand which stood for points and clauses and climaxes and were at once indelible diction and constant suggestion He studied every tone and every gesture and he forecast the result with the real audience from its result with that imagined audience Therefore it was beautiful to see him and to hear him he rejoiced in the pleasure he gave and the blows of surprise which he dealt I have been talking of his method and manner the matter the reader has here before him and it is good matter glad honest kind just W D HOWELLS

The Ethics of Space Exploration James S.J. Schwartz, Tony Milligan, 2016-07-25 This book aims to contribute significantly to the understanding of issues of value including the ultimate value of space related activities which repeatedly emerge in interdisciplinary discussions on space and society Although a recurring feature of discussions about space in the humanities the treatment of value questions has tended to be patchy of uneven quality and even on occasion idiosyncratic rather than drawing upon a close familiarity with state of the art ethical theory One of the volume's aims is to promote a more robust and theoretically informed approach to the ethical dimension of discussions on space and society While the contributions are written in a manner which is accessible across disciplines the book still withstands scrutiny by those whose work is primarily on ethics At the same time it allows academics across a range of disciplines an insight into current approaches toward how the work of ethics gets done The issues of value raised could be used to inform debates about regulation space law and protocols for microbial discovery as well as longer range policy debates about funding

Climate change and sustainable development Thomas Potthast, Simon Meisch, 2012-08-13 Climate change is a major framing condition for sustainable development of agriculture and food Global food production is a major contributor to global greenhouse gas emissions and at the same time it is among the sectors worst affected by climate change This book brings together a multidisciplinary group of authors exploring the ethical dimensions of climate change and food Conceptual clarifications provide a necessary basis for putting sustainable development into practice Adaptation and mitigation demand altering both agricultural and consumption practices Intensive vs extensive production is reassessed with regard to animal welfare efficiency and environmental implications Property rights play an ever increasing role as do shifting land use practices agro energy biotechnology food policy to green consumerism And last but not least tools are suggested for teaching agricultural and food ethics Notwithstanding the plurality of ethical analyses and their outcome it becomes apparent that governance of agri food is faced by new needs and new approaches of bringing in the value dimension much more explicitly This book is intended to serve as a stimulating collection that will contribute to debate and reflection on the sustainable future of agriculture and food production in the face of global change Lessons from life, animal and human. A compendium of moral teachings [ed. by R.T.] with an intr. by H. Macmillan Lessons,1897

Understanding Moral Sentiments Hilary Putnam,2017-09-08 This volume brings together leading scholars to examine Darwinian perspectives on morality from widely ranging disciplines evolutionary biology anthropology psychology philosophy and theology They bring not only varied expertise but also contrasting judgments about which and to what extent differing evolutionary accounts explain morality They also consider the implications of these explanations for a range of religious and non religious moral traditions The book first surveys scientific understandings of morality Chapters by Joan Silk and Christopher Boehm ask what primatology and anthropology tell us about moral origins Daniel Batson and Stephen Pinker provide contrasting accounts of how evolution shapes moral psychology and Jeffrey Schloss assesses a range of biological proposals for morality and altruism Turning to philosophical issues Martha Nussbaum argues that recognizing our animal nature does not threaten morality Stephen Pope and Timothy Jackson explore how Darwinian accounts of moral goodness both enrich and require understandings outside the sciences Hilary Putnam and Susan Neiman ask whether Darwin is truly useful for helping us to understand what morality actually is and how it functions The book is a balanced effort to assess the scientific merits and philosophical significance of emerging Darwinian perspectives on morality The Art of Growing

Older Wayne C. Booth,1996-12-15 Culled chiefly from great literary works this unusual compendium of prose and poetry excerpts highlights the physical and emotional aspects of aging Although Booth The Rhetoric of Fiction age 71 includes such cheery banal verse as I Haven't Lost My Marbles Yet Minnie Hodapp he has tailored this collection to encompass the unpleasant truths about aging William Butler Yeats's Sailing to Byzantium and excerpts from Simone de Beauvoir's The Coming of Age offer realistic assessments of the perils and possible consolations of aging The thoughtful commentary with which Booth connects the selections reminds readers that physical decay and fear of death are conditions common to us all This provocative collection braces rather than comforts Buddhist Ecological Protection of Space Daniel

Capper,2022-10-21 This book provides essential guidance that we need to act as responsible ecological citizens while we expand our reach beyond Earth The author not only examines the science and morals behind ecological pitfall scenarios but he also provides groundbreaking policy responses founded upon ethics from both Buddhists and American ethnographers alike Works Mark Twain,1923
