Microcomputers In African Development Critical Perspectives:

Microcomputers In African Development Suzanne Grant Lewis, 2021-10-28 Drawing on recent research in the Sudan Ivory Coast Kenya and Tanzania the contributing authors analyze broad patterns of social and political change brought about by the rapidly increasingly use of microcomputer technology in Africa Information Technology Ethics: Cultural Perspectives Hongladarom, Soraj, Ess, Charles, 2006-12-31 This book is the first publication that takes a genuinely global approach to the diverse ethical issues evoked by Information and Communication Technologies and their possible resolutions Readers will gain a greater appreciation for the problems and possibilities of genuinely global information ethics which are urgently needed as information and communication technologies continue their exponential growth Provided by publisher

Handbook of Research on Technoethics Luppigini, Rocci, Adell, Rebecca, 2008-08-31 This book traces the emergence of the new interdisciplinary field of technoethics by exploring its conceptual development important issues and key areas of current research Compiling 50 authoritative articles from leading researchers on the ethical dimensions of new technologies Provided by publisher Ethics in intercultural and international Communication Fred L. Casmir, 2013-10-18 There has been an increased interest in both intercultural and international communication as well as ethical aspects of such interactions In spite of this there are no books which address this specific subject matter beyond limited surveys of different types or forms of ethics or attempted comparisons between various ethical or value systems This book intends to engage readers rather than trying to teach them about ethics or how to be ethical It is questionable that ethics can be taught as academic subject matter or that such instructions will result in meaningful applications in the daily lives of students By considering specific challenges affecting ethical behavior in various intercultural and international interactions and by suggesting interactive dialogic behavioral models as well as examples the authors seek to create an atmosphere of involvement and discussion which will lead researchers to consider the ethics undergirding their own lives as well as any resulting ethical or unethical practices Profiles of Electronic Networking Initiatives in Africa Gail Kostinko, 1994

Disconnected William Wresch, 1996 In the Information Age information is power Who produces all that information how does it move around who uses it to what ends and under what constraints Who gets that power And what happens to the people who have no access to it Disconnected begins with a striking vignette of two men One is the thriving manager of a company selling personal computers and computer services The other is just one among thousands of starving laborers He has no way to find the information that might help him find a job he cannot afford newspapers rarely sees television cannot understand the dialect of local radio broadcasts will probably never touch a computer These two men happen to live in Windhoek Namibia but this is not a story about Africa it is a story that could be repeated almost anywhere in the world even next door With vivid anecdotes and data William Wresch contrasts the opportunities of the information rich with the limited prospects of the information poor Surveying the range of information personal public organizational commercial that has become the currency of exchange in today's world he shows how each represents a form of power He analyzes the barriers that keep people information poor geography tyranny illiteracy psychological blinders noise crime Technology alone he demonstrates is not the answer Even the technology rich do not always get access to important information or recognize its value Wresch spells out the grim consequences of information inequity for individuals and society Yet he ends with reasons for optimism and stories of people who are working to pull down the impediments to the flow of information Information Technology and Social Justice Rooksby, Emma, Weckert, John, 2006-10-31 The term digital divide is still used regularly to characterize the injustice associated with inequalities in access to information and communication technologies ICTs As the debate continues and becomes more sophisticated more and more aspects of the distribution of ICTs are singled out as relevant to characterizations of the digital divide and of its moral status The best way to articulate the digital divide is to relate it to other aspects of social and distributive justice using a mixture of pre-existing theories within moral and political philosophy These theories are complemented with contributions from sociology communication studies information systems and a range of other disciplines Information Technology and Social Justice presents conceptual frameworks for understanding and tackling digital divides It includes information on access and skills access and motivation and other various levels of access It also presents a detailed analysis of the benefits and value of access to ICTs Perspectives on Global Development and Technology ,2002 Zambezia ,2002 Information Security and Ethics Hamid R. Nemati, 2008 This compilation serves as the ultimate source on all theories and models associated with information privacy and safeguard practices to help anchor and guide the development of technologies standards and best practices to meet these challenges Provided by publisher International Afro Mass Media James Jeter, 1996-01-23 This guide represents the first serious academic assessment of the relationships between peoples in Africa and of African descent and Afro mass media around the world Experts on communications in sub-Saharan and North Africa and the Caribbean and African American media in the United States characterize the settings and philosophical contexts for media in the countries that they survey the development of often difficult relationships between government society and the media the education and training of media personnel and the implications of new technologies and future challenges Designed for students teachers and professionals in communications and in the social sciences broadly This comparative study of Afro mass media the impact of social and political systems of culture and ideology of different communications mechanisms and of special problems is designed for students teachers and professionals in all areas of communications and mass media and in government sociology economics and African and African American studies U.S. Imprints on Sub-Saharan Africa ,1992 Joint Acquisitions List of Africana ,1994 The Journal of Developing Areas ,1993 Africa Today ,1992 Fostering Technological Dynamism United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, 1996 Internet Resources ,1995 Coping with Crisis Unesco, 1994 This book analyzes the findings of a series of UNESCO ILO studies on the effects of
