A Desert Named Peace Benjamin Claude Brower, 2011 In the mid nineteenth century French colonial leaders in Algeria started southward into the Sahara beginning a fifty year period of violence Lying in the shadow of the colonization of northern Algeria which claimed the lives of over a million people French empire in the Sahara sought power through physical force as it had elsewhere yet violence in the Algerian Sahara followed a more complicated logic than the old argument that it was simply a way to get empire on the cheap A Desert Named Peace examines colonial violence through multiple stories and across several fields of research It presents four cases the military conquests of the French army in the oases and officers predisposition to use extreme violence in colonial conflicts a spontaneous nighttime attack made by Algerian pastoralists on a French village as notable for its brutality as for its obscure causes the violence of indigenous forms of slavery and the colonial accommodations that preserved it during the era of abolition and the struggles of French Romantics whose debates about art and politics arrived from Paris with disastrous consequences Benjamin Claude Brower uses these different perspectives to reveal the unexpected causes of colonial violence such as France's troubled revolutionary past and its influence on the military's institutional culture the aesthetics of the sublime and its impact on colonial thinking the ecological crises suffered by Saharan pastoralists under colonial rule and the conflicting paths to authority inherent in Algerian Sufism Directly engaging a controversial history A Desert Named Peace offers an important backdrop to understanding the Algerian war for independence 1954-1962 and Algeria's ongoing internal war begun in 1992 between the government and armed groups that claim to fight for an Islamist revolution

Environmental Imaginaries of the Middle East and North Africa Diana K. Davis, Edmund Burke III, 2011-11-13 The landscapes of the Middle East have captured our imaginations throughout history Images of endless golden dunes camel caravans isolated desert oases and rivers lined with palm trees have often framed written and visual representations of the region Embedded in these portrayals is the common belief that the environment in most places has been deforested and desertified by centuries of misuse It is precisely such orientalist environmental imaginaries increasingly undermined by contemporary ecological data that the eleven authors in this volume question This is the first volume to critically examine culturally constructed views of the environmental history of the Middle East and suggest that they have often benefitted elites at the expense of the ecologies and the peoples of the region The contributors expose many of the questionable policies and practices born of these environmental imaginaries and related histories that have been utilized in the region since the colonial period They further reveal how power in the form of development programs notions of nationalism and hydrological maps for instance relates to environmental knowledge production Contributors Samer Alatout Edmund Burke III Shaul Cohen Diana K Davis Jennifer L Derr Leila M Harris Alan Mikhail Timothy Mitchell Priya Satia Jeannie Sowers and George R Trumbull IV

An Early Modern Dialogue with Islam Antonio de Sosa, 2011 Eastern Orthodox and Anglicans is the first sustained study of inter Orthodox relations the special role of the Anglican Church and the problems of Orthodox nationalism in the modern age Despite many challenges the interwar years were a time of intense creativity in the Russian Orthodox Church Russian migrants freed from enforced isolation in the wake of the Russian Revolution found themselves in close contact with figures from other Orthodox churches and from the Roman Catholic Church and all varieties of Protestant confessions For many reasons Russian exiles found themselves drawn to the Anglican Church in particular The interwar years thus witnessed a concentrated effort to bridge the gap between Orthodox and Anglican Geffert's book is a detailed history of that effort It is the story of efforts toward rapprochement by two churches and their ultimate failure to achieve formal unity The same political diplomatic historical personal and religious forces that first inspired contact were the ones that ultimately undermined the effort Bryn Geffert recounts the history of an important chapter in the history of Christian ecumenism one that is relevant to contemporary efforts to achieve meaningful interfaith dialogue At a time when the sun seems to have set on the twentieth century's long labor to reunite a divided Christendom historians and theologians do well to remember what the dawn was like Bryn Geffert provides for the first time a full and revealing history of one of the most central and fascinating episodes of modern ecumenism Historically precise and theologically acute Geffert's book allows us to appreciate the complex motives that fueled the ecumenical hopes of a distinguished generation and also to understand why so much intelligence and good will fell so far short of its goal Bruce Marshall Southern Methodist University Bryn Geffert brings a tremendous amount and considerable variety of source material to bear on the story of Anglican Orthodox relations from the nineteenth century to around 1945 He also skillfully presents the secular political and diplomatic context in which Anglican Orthodox church relations unfolded This work will generate interest beyond the circle of church historians and ecumenists

Political and diplomatic historians interested in the religious dimensions of European Middle Eastern Russian history will find Geffert's work very useful. Paul Valliere Butler University. Geffert's is the only work of its kind. Even among related studies this one is singular in the depth of its coverage of Anglican Orthodox and other ecumenical connections in the years between the world wars while tracing the earlier nineteenth century developments that led up to the intense period of ecumenical engagement roughly from 1920 to 1937. The narration is superb; the author knows how to tell a most complex story with clarity and color. Michael Plekon, Baruch College.

Prison Journal, 1940-1945 Edouard Daladier, 1995-03-21. The French Prime Minister who signed the Munich Agreement in 1938 and who one year later led his country into war against Hitler's Germany. Edouard Daladier was arrested by the Vichy regime and imprisoned in France and Germany until the war's end. As a pastime and a catharsis Daladier wrote. He wrote about what had happened to him and to his country about day to day conditions in captivity and about what he could glean of the anti-Nazi war effort through newspaper accounts from the visits of his friends and family and from his well hidden radio receiver. He wrote of the accusations made against him by his former proteges and comrades in arms and of his trial during which the charges oddly metamorphosed from having declared war on Germany to not having sufficiently prepared France for battle; the charges were of little importance as the verdict had been previously decided. Ever the statesman Daladier wrote most of all about his hopes and fears for France and Europe which hung so heavily at first upon the battlefield successes of the British, American and Allied forces and later upon the Allies' refusal to recognize in Soviet power the danger of the very totalitarianism that they had been fighting to eliminate At the war s end witnessing the devastation of Germany Daladier wrote with a poignant sympathy that is unexpectedly moving Daladier s notes remained forgotten and unpublished until twenty years after his death when they were discovered and compiled by his son Jean They are presented here in English for the first time By turns sorrowful enraged humorous and philosophical this lively narrative gives fresh insights into the tangled politics of the era
