Mick Walkers British Racing Motorcycles:

Japanese Production Racing Motorcycles Mick Walker,2004-09-02 As this book explains the Japanese did not suddenly become proficient in the design and development of motorcycles when they first appeared in Europe at the end of the 1950s. Instead the Japanese had been involved with motorcycles since the beginning of the 20th century. True early Japanese motorcycles copied Western design a trend that continued for several years after WWII. But soon they designed a succession of highly innovative machinery not only to the Grand Prix world's benefit but to the paying over the counter customer too. Honda, Kawasaki, Suzuki and Yamaha plus Bridgestone and Tohatsu have all built and sold racing motorcycles which the public could also buy and enjoy.

Motorcycle Mick Walker,2006-10-02 An illustrated guide to the history of motorcycle design that profiles bikes from around the world describes technical and stylistic innovations and includes photographs.

Mick Walker's British Racing Motorcycles Mick Walker,1998 British Motorcycle Racing Circuits Since 1907 Mick Walker,2009-02 Mick Walker has produced the definitive book on British motorcycle racing circuits. Here for the first time is every circuit from Aberdare Park to Waterbeach with hundreds both well known and now long forgotten in between. Fully illustrated by way of colorful program covers, circuit maps and period photographs, this is a must have for any real racing enthusiast. Motorcycle racing in Great Britain began in 1907 with the opening of Brooklands near Weybridge in Surrey, the first purpose built circuit in Europe and the inaugural staging of the Isle of Man TT. Then during the interwar period came venues such as Cadwell Park, Crystal Palace, Siston and Donington Park. However it was after the end of the World War Two in 1945 that really saw circuit racing establish itself. Not only with the influx of former wartime airfields including Boreham, Haddonham, Ibsley, Thruxton, Silverstone and Snetterton but also Brands Hatch, Alton Towers, Scarborough and Oulton Park to name but a few. North of the border came Beveridge Park, Errol and Charterhall while across the Irish Sea the Ulster Grand Prix and the North West 200 were bolstered by a myriad of new road courses.

Mick Walker's European Racing Motorcycles Mick Walker,2000 While the history of European competition motorcycles has been largely dominated by Italian, British and German marques, other builders around the continent have also played significant roles from the turn of the century to the present. Arranged by nation, this book examines more than two dozen important marques including Bultaco, CZ, Elf, Husqvarna, KTM, Ossa, Peugeot and many others. A wealth of rare photography, including a special color section, includes candid shots of the top personalities and the bikes both at rest and at speed.

Classic Japanese Racing Motorcycles Mick Walker,1991 After World War II the Japanese motorcycle industry sought to improve competitiveness in the export field against entrenched European marques and racing was seen as the obvious way to improve credibility and gain publicity. Walker looks at the men, the machines and the events.

The BSA Gold Star Mick Walker,2004-09 This full color book covers every aspect of one of the best loved classic racing machines from its beginnings back in Small Heath through the Brooklands days, Trials, the Caf Racer scene to the classic scene of today. Lavishly illustrated.

German motorcycles were often in the vanguard of technical progress, were good enough to win world titles. In this respect the top names in the solo categories were NSU and Kreidler, while BMW Fath Munch K nig did the business on three wheels. Like Japan, Germany was faced with rebuilding a shattered country following World War II. Like the Japanese they overcame all the problems, not only to create an economic miracle but also to construct world beating motorcycles. Germany's success contributed to the development of the sport in a wide variety of ways: engineers, machines, riders, circuits, even record breakers. Mick Walker's Japanese Grand Prix Racing Motorcycles Mick Walker, 2002. Never in the history of motorcycle racing has there been a more popular champion than Mike the Bike Hailwood. In this new study, which comes almost 25 years after Mike's untimely death, Mick Walker examines his long career from his first race, aged 17 at Oulton Park in April 1957, to his final race at Mallory Park in June 1979. In the course of his competitive career, Mike rode in more races than any other rider and he could ride any bike. In his time he straddled everything from a 49cc Iom single cylinder two stroke to a 1000cc Dunstall Suzuki GS1000 four cylinder superbike. He could switch capacity sizes and makes at the same meeting on the same day and give breathtaking winning performances regardless. Among his many achievements, he could count 12 TT victories, 10 World titles and 76 Grand Prix victories. Mike's larger than life father, Stan, a multi millionaire who could ensure his son always had access to the best bikes, put Mike on the path to success, but it soon became clear that
