Microeconomic Theories of Imperfect Competition

Jean Jaskold Gabszewicz, Jacques François Thisse, 1999 This collection of readings provides a broad overview of the major theoretical concepts in the field and includes papers on industry size quantity and price competition entry barriers product differentiation incomplete information and general equilibrium with imperfect competition

Macroeconomic and

Microeconomic Effects of Migration Dana Schöler, 2009 This book consists of three major studies which are connected through the topic of migration The first chapter gives a general overview of results The second chapter shows that the model specifications which connect high ethnic fractionalisation to lower growth cannot fully explain the negative ethnic fractionalisation effect of the 1990s and Sub Saharan African growth experience Furthermore an empirical investigation provides evidence that ethnic fractionalisation has a positive effect in a nation which is ethnically diverse due to immigration The third chapter sheds light on the behavioural effects of inter family transfers which is still rare Incentive effects of inter family transfers in Indonesia are analysed with improved econometric techniques Moreover different sectors of employment are distinguished in the analysis The empirical analysis indicates that transfers seem to have an adverse influence on work effort in the informal sector of the economy The fourth chapter analyses changes in income portfolios of rural households and its determinants for the case of Ghana in the 1990s Contrary to common beliefs rural Ghana has seen major economic transformation as households increasingly diversify their livelihoods by both increased migration and more local non farm employment These diversification decisions seem to be driven to a large extent by desperation rather than new opportunities in particular with regard to migration

Ahuja H.L., This most popular and proven text takes a further lead with this revision by aligning its contents with the prescribed UGC model curriculum and new Choice Based Credit System CBCS syllabus The book provides carefully tailored content for undergraduate courses in economics across a range of academic disciplines

The Economics of Imperfect Labor Markets Tito Boeri, Jan van Ours, 2013-09-24 Most labor economics textbooks pay little attention to actual labor markets taking as reference a perfectly competitive market in which losing a job is not a big deal The Economics of Imperfect Labor Markets is the only textbook to focus on imperfect labor markets and to provide a systematic framework for analyzing how labor market institutions operate This expanded updated and thoroughly revised second edition includes a new chapter on labor market discrimination quantitative examples data and programming files enabling users to replicate key results of the literature exercises at the end of each chapter and expanded technical appendixes The Economics of Imperfect Labor Markets examines the many institutions that affect the behavior of workers and employers in imperfect labor markets These include minimum wages employment protection legislation unemployment benefits active labor market policies working time regulations family policies equal opportunity legislation collective bargaining early retirement programs education and migration policies payroll taxes and employment conditional incentives Written for advanced undergraduates and beginning graduate students the book carefully defines and measures these institutions to accurately characterize their effects and discusses how these institutions are today being changed by political and economic forces Expanded thoroughly revised second edition New chapter on labor market discrimination New quantitative examples New data sets enabling users to replicate key results of the literature New end of chapter exercises Expanded technical appendixes Unique focus on institutions in imperfect labor markets Integrated framework and systematic coverage Self contained chapters on each of the most important labor market institutions

Behavioral Public Economics Shinji Teraji, 2021-09-26 Behavioral Public Economics shows how standard public economics can be improved using insights from behavioral economics Public economics typically lists four market failures that may justify government intervention in markets imperfect competition or natural monopoly externalities public goods and asymmetric information Under the rational choice paradigm agents choose what is best for them public economics has examined the welfare effects of policy Recent research in behavioral economics highlights a fifth market failure individuals may make mistakes in pursuing their own well being This book calls for a rethinking of assumptions of individual behavior and provides a good foundation for public economic theory Key features Introduces behavioral perspectives into public economics Explains why economic incentives often undermine social preferences Reveals that social incentives matter for public policy This book will be an invaluable resource for researchers and postgraduate students in public economics behavioral economics and public policy

Was the Good Samaritan a Bad Economist? Charles K. Wilber, 2021-05-11 Economics is imbued with individualistic values that result in an economy marked by extreme inequality that in turn restricts social mobility and further marginalizes the poor Catholic social thought provides the moral values required to help make economics capable of building an economy that serves all rich and poor alike

The Theory of Incentives Jean-Jacques Laffont, David Martimort, 2009-12-27 Economics has much to do with incentives not least incentives to work hard to produce quality products to study to invest and to save Although Adam Smith amply confirmed this more than two hundred years ago in his analysis of sharecropping contracts only in recent decades has a theory begun to emerge to place the topic at the heart of economic thinking In this book Jean Jacques Laffont and David Martimort present the most thorough yet accessible introduction to incentives theory to date Central to this theory is a simple question as pivotal to modern day management as it is to economics research What makes people act in a particular way in an economic or business situation In seeking an answer the authors provide the methodological tools to design institutions that can ensure good incentives for economic agents This book focuses on the principal agent model the simple situation where a principal or company delegates a task to a single agent through a contract the essence of management and contract theory How does the owner or manager of a firm align the objectives of its various members to maximize profits Following a brief historical overview showing how the problem of incentives has come to the fore in the past two centuries the authors devote the bulk of their work to exploring principal agent models and various extensions thereof in light of three types of information problems adverse selection moral hazard and non verifiability Offering an unprecedented look at a subject vital to industrial organization labor economics and behavioral economics this book is set to become the definitive resource for students researchers and others who might find themselves pondering what contracts and the incentives they embody are really all about

Microeconomic Policy S. I. Cohen, 2001 This book links principles to settings and shows how theory complements policy and vice versa It links theory to policies and application and will enable students to understand and recognise balance in policy analysis and preparation

Incentives and Political Economy Jean-Jacques Laffont, 2000-03-30 Mainstream economics has recognized only recently the necessity to incorporate political constraints into economic analysis intended for policy advisors Incentives and Political Economy uses recent advances in contract theory to build a normative approach to constitutional design in economic environments The first part of the book remains in the tradition of benevolent constitutional design with complete contracting It treats politicians as informed supervisors and studies how the Constitution should control them in particular to avoid capture by interest groups Incentive theories for the separation of powers or systems of checks and balances are developed The second part of the book recognises the incompleteness of the constitutional contract which leaves discretion to the politicians selected by the electoral process Asymmetric information associates information rents with economic policies and the political game becomes a game of costly redistribution of those rents Professor Laffont investigates the trade offs between an inflexible constitution which leaves little discretion to politicians but sacrifices ex post efficiency and a constitution weighted towards ex post efficiency but also giving considerable discretion to politicians to pursue private agendas The final part of the book reconsiders the modeling of collusion given asymmetric information It proposes a new approach to characterizing incentives constraints for group behaviour when asymmetric information is non verifiable This provides a methodology to characterise the optimal constitutional response to activities of interest groups and to study the design of any institution in which group behavior is important
