Elisabeth Young-Bruehl,2025-09-01 The study of creativity is as old as western thought In recent times any crisis of confidence is likely to involve anxiety about the loss of creativity scientific artistic technological and to set off a new search for creativity s definition
In Creative Characters originally published in 1991 Elisabeth Young Bruehl reflects on the long search for an understanding of creativity and offers a novel approach She notes that studies of creativity fall into types Some look at the act of creation others focus on the creators while others stress the conscious or unconscious motivations of creative people
All these approaches share certain limitations They lack an integrative perspective and they search for a common denominator one definition of the creative process a single creative type which obscures the diversity of creative people and their work
Young Bruehl here offers an original analysis of creativity based on a theory of character Creative people she argues create in the medium of their characters They develop usually unconsciously an image of their characters or in other terms an ideal for the organization of their minds and lives which they both aspire to and project into whatever they create
This character ideal appears in their works their social visions their philosophies of nature and also their understandings of creative processes their own and others What creative people wish for themselves is what they wish for in their lives and works
Young Bruehl suggests that there are three broad character and creative types each comprised of many variations She displays these ways of getting one s psychic act together or getting a product together by turning to three ancient Greek theorists of creativity Plato Aristotle and Zeno and three modern theorists Nietzsche Freud and Proust She then proceeds by clustering biographical vignettes and portraits of ideas in which she can show rather than try to define the creativity as well as the character ideal she has in mind
Of special interest to Young Bruehl is what individuals say about their own creativity especially when creativity is not explicitly their topic Her approach is primarily psychoanalytic but she also uses philosophical analysis literary criticism history of science and biography Psychoanalysts and psychologists will find the book not only a new approach to creativity but a new way of doing applied psychoanalysis there have been many psychobiographies but no effort has been made to survey them and draw conclusions Philosophers will discover a major contribution to the theory of character one of the most neglected subfields of philosophy Finally in Creative Characters biography readers will see how the study of individual lives can lead to reflection on larger questions Mirrorshades Bruce Sterling,1988 Short stories labeled Mirroshade Neuromanatic Cyberpunk etc by such authors as Greg Bear Pat Cadigan William Gibson Rudy Rucker Lewis Shiner John Shirley and others Quotationary Leonard Roy Frank,2000-09 Spain Caren Beilin,2018 Literary Nonfiction Women s Studies Here we are in Spain Caren Beilin s travelogue lays out a new path for the genre SPAIN is sly cultural criticism Blanchot to The Shining feminist wink post breakup corrective and portrait of the artist as a young mansplained woman Our narrator finds herself skeptically at an artist residency in Spain rendering her life into vivid fragments that pop and sting With acerbic flair Beilin swings an axe into the stuff of memoir I don t care to dine with anyone she proclaims Reader pull up a chair While the other art colonists around her are making the world soft photographers setting day long exposures and textile artists felting cocoons Caren Beilin s SPAIN is hard made and re made in its mosaic shards Abject affronted and audacious the resilient narrator who incidentally might faint at a thought if it s a rigorous thought who might then rouse wherever in the company of countryside sheep is on the perilous cusp of insight on multiple fronts She looks up from her book in her book to assert that form is a better heroine than Emma in Madame Bovary and proceeds to read against what was happening The beginning of the end of fiction Brian Blanchfield Caren Beilin s SPAIN is like a Hostel ization of Ben Lerner s Leaving the Atocha Station Beilin s protagonist isn t in Spain on a Fulbright Rather she s paying her own way at a dubious artist residency with the proceeds of a defunct relationship with an older wealthy man SPAIN is a fantastic poetic and realistic account of travel in a post travel world Chris Kraus SPAIN is a genre bending document of the narrator s female migratory writing life through the wounded binoculative molested soul of her nipples SPAIN is stuffed with poetic axing bicycling pussyng traveloguing Rilke ing Claire Denis ing reading anti Spain ing This highly inventive highly imaginative book relentlessly disrupts the contemporary order of memoir writing Beilin goes to the moon and back and is not afraid to be scandalous or poetic or whimsical or ethical at a moment s notice Vi Khi Nao
