Parent-teacher Conferencing Joseph C. Rotter, Edward H. Robinson, 1982 Effective parent teacher conferences have the potential to be the single most educationally valuable event for the student during the school year With increased parental involvement in the day to day operation of the schools and greater parental awareness of the educational process it becomes apparent that educators need to be prepared to respond to renewed parental interest in the education of their children From both an ethical and a legal perspective communication between parents and teachers is imperative However inappropriate procedures and inadequate skills and knowledge can create greater problems than may have existed before the meeting This publication is intended to help teachers to improve their parent teacher conferencing skills First it examines the historical background and research relating to parent teacher conferences Then it suggests effective ways for teachers to improve their communication skills with parents and to involve parents in the educational personal and social development of their children The core elements of effective conferencing listening perceiving attending responding and initiating are identified and discussed A list of 78 references is appended JD

The Broken Compass Keith Robinson, Angel L. Harris, 2014-01-06 It seems like common sense children do better when parents are involved in their schooling But does the evidence stack up The Broken Compass puts this question to the test across socioeconomic groups and the surprising finding is that no clear connection exists between parental involvement and improved student performance
