Parent-youth Relations, 2012 Parent-Youth Relations Stephan Wilson, Gary W. Peterson, Suzanne Steinmetz, 2012-12-06. Explore the most fundamental human relationship between parent and child. Western social science has long neglected to acknowledge that family relationships must always be examined from a culturally sensitive perspective. Parent Youth Relations Cultural and Cross Cultural Perspectives fills this void by exploring in depth the most fundamental human relationship between parent and child in different societies around the world. International experts provide a comprehensive collection of original research and theory on how parental styles and the effects of culture are interconnected. Written from diverse perspectives, this unique resource reveals deep insight into these relationships by focusing on the individuals, the structure of the family, and societal and cultural influences. Parental relations and cultural belief systems both play integral parts on how socialization and development occur in children. Parent Youth Relations Cultural and Cross Cultural Perspectives presents several viewpoints, some comparing similarities and differences across societies or nations, others exploring relationships within a single culture. This probing global look at parent youth relations provides sensitively nuanced information valuable for every professional or student in the social sciences. Detailed tables illustrate research data, while thorough bibliographies offer opportunities for further study. Parent Youth Relations Cultural and Cross Cultural Perspectives explores parenting style and its effects on children in Chinese culture, parenting style in problem solving situations in Hong Kong, cross national perspectives on parental acceptance/rejection theory, multinational studies of interparental conflict, parenting and adolescent functioning, the relationship between parenting behaviors and adolescent achievement in Chile and Ecuador, parent/adolescent relations and problem behaviors in Hungary, the Netherlands, Switzerland, and the United States, cross national analysis of family and school socialization and adolescent academic achievement, parent/child contact after divorce from the child's perspective, familial impacts on adolescent aggression and depression in Colombia, predicting Korean adolescents' sexual behavior from individual and family factors, parenting in Mexican society, relations with parents and friends during adolescence and early adulthood, parent/child relationships in childhood and adulthood and their effect on the parent's marriage, the effects of financial hardship, interparental conflict, and maternal parenting in Germany, and more original research studies. Parent Youth Relations Cultural and Cross Cultural

Parenting Beliefs, Behaviors, and Parent-Child Relations Kenneth H. Rubin, Ock Boon Chung, 2013-09-05 The purpose of this book is to present a rather simple argument Parents thoughts about childrearing and the ways in which they interact with children to achieve particular parenting or developmental goals are culturally determined Within any culture children are shaped by the physical and social settings within which they live culturally regulated customs and childrearing practices and culturally based belief systems The psychological meaning attributed to any given social behavior is in large part a function of the ecological niche within which it is produced Clearly it is the case that there are some cultural universals All parents want their children to be healthy and to feel secure However healthy and unhealthy at least in the psychological sense of the term can have different meanings from culture to culture

Esther Goh,2011-05-18 This book explores the effects of China s one child policy on modern Chinese families It is widely thought that such a policy has contributed to the creation of a generation of little emperors or little suns spoiled by their parents and by the grandparents who have been recruited to care for the child while the middle generation goes off to work Investigating what life is really like with three generations in close quarters and using urban Xiamen as a backdrop the author shows how viewing the grandparents and parents as engaged in an intergenerational parenting coalition allows for a more dynamic understanding of both the pleasures and conflicts within adult relationships particularly when they are centred around raising a child Based on both survey data and ethnographic fieldwork the book also makes it clear that parenting is only half the story The children of course are the other Moreover these children not only have agency but constantly put it to work as a way to displace the burden of expectations and steady attention that comes with being an only child in contemporary urban China These lone tacticians as Goh calls them are not having an easy time and not all are living like spoiled children The reality is far more challenging for all three generations The book will be of interest to those in family studies education psychology sociology Asian Studies and social work Childhood and Adolescence Uwe Peter

Gielen,Jaipaul L. Roopnarine,2004 Distinguished authors detail cross cultural issues affecting youngsters including parenting practices gender role socialization risk and resilience in childhood and more The text challenges existing beliefs about childhood development offers current research on childrearing and socialization practices in diverse cultures and examines social and educational policies as they relate to children and adolescents Socialization practices within families communities and educational settings are included This volume which includes both field based and experimental research will appeal to practitioners scholars and students in the fields of child psychology cross cultural psychology anthropology sociology child and family studies and social work Drinking from the Same Well Lydia F.
