supplemented by The Research Libraries of The New York Publica Library Freedom to Play Norah L. Lewis, 2010-09-29 When we were children we made our own fun is a frequent comment from those who were children in pre television times But what games activities and amusements did children enjoy prior to the mid 1950s Recollections of older Canadians selections from writings by Canadian authors and letters written to the children's pages of agricultural publications indicate that for most children play was then as now an essential part of childhood Through play youngsters developed the physical mental and emotional skills that helped them cope with life and taught them to get along with other children In both rural and urban settings children were generally free to explore their environment They were sent outdoors to play by both parents and teachers Their games were generally self organized and physically active with domestic animals acting as important companions and playmates Children frequently made their own toys and equipment and since playing rather than winning was important most children were included in games Special days holidays and organizations for children and youth provided welcome breaks from daily routines Their lives were busy but there was always time for play always time for fun Norah Lewis has provided an entertaining view of the toys games and activities in Canada and pre confederate Newfoundland from approximately 1900 through 1955 Her book will be of interest to historians educators and sociologists as well as anyone who lived through or wants to know more about those early years in Canada and the games children used to Parenting Through Pop Culture JL Schatz, 2020-03-02 With the ever increasing amount of media children are play consuming it has become important for parents to learn how to help them navigate this consumption productively All too often the only approach to screen time by parents is a question of limiting how much and what kind Instead if parents and educators can adopt a more nuanced relationship to media and education adults and children can come together in order to engage with and deconstruct the messages that are embedded in popular culture This enables children to become more informed citizens This collection seeks to do just that by providing a series of essays on strategies to engage children with varying topics and programming to ensure that media consumption is an active process that promotes social and political awareness instead of apathetic entertainment A Parent's Guide to Children's Reading Mary Graham Bonner, 1925

Home Literacy Environment and Literacy Acquisition George Georgiou, Tomohiro Inoue, 2025-06-14 if supportLists This book provides a comprehensive and up to date overview of the literature on home literacy environment and its association with literacy skills in different languages and contexts Home literacy environment HLE an umbrella term that encompasses various activities parents engage in with their children has been studied extensively by psychologists linguists behavioral geneticists and educators However no systematic effort has been put into synthesizing this growing body of research in a coherent manner making it difficult for researchers and various stakeholders to understand the key points of past research while keeping up with the latest research findings To address this need the first part of the book provides an overview of the current literature on conceptualizations of HLE covering prominent theoretical models the measurement of HLE the potential extension and generalizability of models across contexts the intersections between home learning environment in literacy numeracy and other domains and the genetic and environmental etiology of literacy development The second section of the book hosts a wide variety of studies from all over the world conducted in English speaking countries UK U S Canada Finland Greece Turkey China Japan the Philippines and other Southeast Asian countries and Chile and other Latin American and Caribbean countries while it includes chapters with both typically developing children and children at familial risk of dyslexia The third section of this book offers a comprehensive collection of chapters on intervention studies examining the role of family literacy programs dialogic reading and onscreen digital access Together the 22 chapters of this book elucidate the complex nature of HLE and provide future research directions and instructional recommendations on how parents and policymakers can improve home literacy practices around the world As such this book is valuable for researchers educators and other professionals and the readership ranges from graduate students and scholars to parents and policymakers world's leading authorities on the psychology of technology this new handbook provides a thoughtful and evidence driven examination of contemporary technology s impact on society and human behavior Includes contributions from an international array of experts in the field Features comprehensive coverage of hot button issues in the psychology of technology such as social networking Internet addiction and dependency Internet credibility multitasking impression management and audience reactions to media Reaches beyond the more established study of psychology and the Internet to include varied analysis of a range of technologies including video games smart phones tablet computing etc Provides analysis of the latest research on generational differences Internet literacy cyberbullying sexting Internet and cell phone dependency and online risky behavior Plotting the Reading Experience Paulette M. Rothbauer, Kjell Ivar Skjerdingstad, Lynne (E.F.) McKechnie, Knut Oterholm, 2016-06-30 This book is about the experience of reading what reading feels like how it makes people feel how people read and under what conditions what drives people to read and conversely what halts the individual in the pursuit of the pleasures of reading The authors consider reading in all of its richness as they explore readers relationships with diverse textual and digital forms This edited volume is divided into three sections Theory Practice and Politics The first provides insights into ways of seeing thinking and conceptualizing the experience of reading The second features a variety of individual and social practices of reading The third explores the political and ethical aspects of the reading experience raising questions about the role that reading plays in democracy and civic participation With contributions from multidisciplinary scholars from around the world this book provides provocative insights into what it means to be a reader reading in and across various social cultural and political contexts Its unifying theme of the reader s experience of reading is put into dialogue with theories practices and politics making this a rewarding read for graduate students faculty researchers and librarians working across a range of academic fields Romanticism and Parenting Carolyn Weber, 2009-03-26 If the child is the father of the man as William Wordsworth so famously declared then what of the father that child grows to become How does a daughter born of her mother s death as in the case of Mary Shelley navigate the politics of production and reproduction within a loaded language of mythological allusion between generational authorships How do the visual arts perpetuate or challenge cultural agendas such as portraying patriarchal anxieties about the effeminization of homeland by the foreign other or attempting iconically to save the soul of a nation How do parents both encode and decode our world With the rise of the cult of the child in the later 18th and 19th centuries Romantic writers of Britain and Europe and eventually of North America were perfectly positioned to explore by extension what it meant to parent whether it be in within the domestic or the political sphere The essays in Romanticism and Parenting Image Instruction and Ideology offer a fresh timely and cutting edge contribution to the field of Romantic studies The collection has its roots in conference proceedings from the 2005 Romanticism and Parenting Conference held at Seattle University in Seattle Washington Essays acknowledge traditional discussions of such guintessentially Romantic themes as the child education and familial politics while building upon contemporary innovative arguments within the contexts of Romanticism As a result chapters in the collection range from examining didactic children's literature to complicating constructions of the family politic at personal communal and nationalistic levels While challenging and deepening an understanding of Romantic studies the collection also points to current dynamic issues such as the burgeoning discussion of the experience that actual parents face in academia Consequently the collection reveals how the Romantic period has come to profoundly influence our own current constructions of the politics of parenting The Challenge of Children's Rights for Canada, 2nd edition Katherine Covell, R. Brian Howe, J.C. Blokhuis, 2018-08-30 More than a guarter of a century has passed since Canada promised to recognize and respect the rights of children under the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child Ratification of the Convention cannot however guarantee that everyone will abandon proprietary notions about children or that all children will be free to enjoy the substance of their rights in every social and institutional context in which they find themselves including and perhaps especially within families This disconnect remains one of the most important challenges to the recognition of children's rights in Canada The authors argue that social toxins are as harmful to children's independent welfare and developmental interests as environmental toxins and that both must be eradicated if Canada is to fulfill its commitments under the Convention They also argue that if Canada wishes to ensure the substance of the rights outlined in the Convention are socially guaranteed an attitudinal or cultural shift is required concerning the moral and legal status of children This revised expanded and updated edition of the bestselling Challenge of Children's Rights for Canada will be of interest to academics policymakers parents teachers social workers and human service professionals indeed to anyone who cares about and for children Early Childhood Development: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Management Association, Information Resources, 2018-12-07 A focus on the developmental progress of children before the age of eight helps to inform their future successes including their personality social behavior and intellectual capacity However it is difficult for experts to pinpoint best learning and parenting practices for young children Early Childhood Development Concepts Methodologies Tools and Applications is an innovative reference source for the latest research on the cognitive socio emotional physical and linguistic development of children in settings such as homes community based centers health facilities and school Highlighting a range of topics such as cognitive development parental involvement and school readiness this multi volume book is designed for educators healthcare professionals parents academicians and researchers interested in all aspects of early childhood development Official Report of the Debates of the House of Commons Canada.
