Jeanne Altmann

Parenting A Life Span Perspective:

Parenting Carole A. Martin, Karen Karal Colbert, 1997 This first edition parenting text is the only book on the market that takes an explicit developmental perspective and provides a balanced treatment of research and applications Both authors are developmental psychologists and therefore utilize research from developmental psychology and provide a strong foundation in actual developmental findings Other parenting texts are more prescriptive or clinically oriented This is the only parenting text that features a lifespan perspective including coverage of parenting from infancy through young adulthood and then addresses grandparenting and other permutations of parenting at the end of the lifespan This text is perfect for the parenting course found in Human Development Family Studies Home Economics and Developmental Psychology departments

Parenting across the Life Span Jeanne Altmann, 2017-09-04 Research on parenting through the life course has developed around two separate approaches Evolutionary biology provides fresh perspectives from life history theory using behavioral ecology and parental investment theory At the same time the social and behavioral sciences integrates research from long term studies of individual development and from the collection of life histories This path breaking book advances evolutionary life history research by integrating perspectives of these two approaches into a biosocial science of the life course It examines parenthood as a commitment extending throughout life and focuses on the impact on parental and child behavior of changes in the timing distribution and intensity of parental investment This perspective is particularly appropriate for research on parenting since the family is the universal human institution within which the bearing and rearing of children has been based and which transmits traditions beliefs and values to the young Parenting Matters National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Committee on Supporting the Parents of Young Children, 2016-11-21 Decades of research have demonstrated that the parent child dyad and the environment of the family which includes all primary caregivers are at the foundation of children s well being and healthy development From birth children are learning and rely on parents and the other caregivers in their lives to protect and care for them The impact of parents may never be greater than during the earliest years of life when a child s brain is rapidly developing and when nearly all of her or his experiences are created and shaped by parents and the family environment Parents help children build and refine their knowledge and skills charting a trajectory for their health and well being during childhood and beyond The experience of parenting also impacts parents themselves For instance parenting can enrich and give focus to parents lives generate stress or calm and create any number of emotions including feelings of happiness sadness fulfillment and anger Parenting of young children today takes place in the context of significant ongoing developments These include a rapidly growing body of science on early childhood increases in funding for programs and services for families changing demographics of the U S population and greater diversity of family structure Additionally parenting is increasingly being shaped by technology and increased access to information about parenting Parenting Matters identifies parenting knowledge attitudes and practices associated with positive developmental outcomes in children ages 0 8 universal preventive and targeted strategies used in a variety of settings that have been effective with parents of young children and that support the identified knowledge attitudes and practices and barriers to and facilitators for parents use of practices that lead to healthy child outcomes as well as their participation in effective programs and services This report makes recommendations directed at an array of stakeholders for promoting the wide scale adoption of effective programs and services for parents and on areas that warrant further research to inform policy and practice It is meant to serve as a roadmap for the future of parenting policy research and practice in the United States

Parenting in Perspective Barry Kislowicz,2016 Some families are blessed with child after child who makes them proud Others seem to face challenges with their children at every turn What separates those who struggle from those who succeed Rabbi Dr Barry Kislowicz believes that a large part of the answer lies in the perspective we bring to parenting In Parenting in Perspective Rabbi Kislowicz draws on psychological research and Torah ideals to provide an insightful framework for truly putting our kids at the center Exploring how parents can inspire and guide their children in areas ranging from morals and mitzvot to the nuanced interactions of day to day life this book aims to help parents develop a deeper understanding of their children while strengthening the parent child relationship This thoughtful approach is then brought to bear on the most challenging areas of parenthood such as effective discipline and managing the teenage years

Parenting Across the Life Span Jane Beckman Lancaster, Research on parenting through the life course has developed around two separate approaches Evolutionary biology provides fresh perspectives from life history theory using behavioral ecology and parental investment theory At the same time the social and behavioral sciences integrates research from long term studies of individual development and from the collection of life histories This path breaking book advances evolutionary life history research by integrating perspectives of these two approaches into a biosocial science of the life course It examines parenthood as a commitment extending throughout life and focuses on the impact on parental and child behavior of changes in the timing distribution and intensity of parental investment This perspective is particularly appropriate for research on parenting since the family is the universal human institution within which the bearing and rearing of children has been based and which transmits traditions beliefs and values to the young death and dying Parenting Beliefs, Behaviors, and Parent-Child Relations Kenneth H. Rubin, Ock Boon Chung, 2013-09-05

The purpose of this book is to present a rather simple argument Parents thoughts about childrearing and the ways in which they interact with children to achieve particular parenting or developmental goals are culturally determined Within any culture children are shaped by the physical and social settings within which they live culturally regulated customs and childrearing practices and culturally based belief systems The psychological meaning attributed to any given social behavior is in large part a function of the ecological niche within which it is produced Clearly it is the case that there are some cultural universals All parents want their children to be healthy and to feel secure However healthy and unhealthy at least in the psychological sense of the term can have different meanings from culture to culture Parenting Martin, 1996-10-01

Family Environment and Intellectual Functioning Elena L. Grigorenko, Robert J. Sternberg, 2001-04-01 What is the impact of the family environment on us particularly with regard to our intellectual functioning Does the role of early family environment wear off as some researchers have suggested or does it maintain or possibly even become more important as we grow older This book examines the interrelationship between family environment and intellectual functioning in a lifespan perspective Covering a wide range of topics it provides the most comprehensive and up to date examination of life span family influences on various aspects of intellectual function For cognitive development lifespan and educational psychologists and scholars studying the family and its influences this volume will help students learn about family effects researchers update themselves in this active area of investigation therapists understand problems in intellectual functioning in their clients and in treating these clients successfully and educators gain a better grasp on how the students they teach are products not only of their genes and environments in general but of their family environments in particular The Time Cure Philip Zimbardo, Richard Sword, Rosemary Sword, 2012-10-02 In his landmark book The Time Paradox internationally known psychologist Philip Zimbardo showed that we can transform the way we think about our past present and future to attain greater success in work and in life Now in The Time Cure Zimbardo has teamed with clinicians Richard and Rosemary Sword to reveal a groundbreaking approach that helps those living with post traumatic stress disorder PTSD to shift their time perspectives and move beyond the traumatic past toward a more positive future Time Perspective Therapy switches the focus from past to present from negative to positive clearing the pathway for the best yet to come the future It helps PTSD sufferers pull their feet out of the quicksand of past traumas and step firmly on the solid ground of the present allowing them to take a step forward into a brighter future Rather than viewing PTSD as a mental illness the authors see it as a mental injury a normal reaction to traumatic events and offer those suffering from PTSD the healing balm of hope The Time Cure lays out the step by step process of Time Perspective Therapy which has proven effective for a wide range of individuals from veterans to survivors of abuse accidents assault and neglect Rooted in psychological research the book also includes a wealth of vivid and inspiring stories from real life PTSD sufferers effective for individuals seeking self help their loved ones

Parenting Tom Luster, Lynn Okagaki, 2006-04-21 Parenting An Ecological Perspective was originally created in 1993 to answer questions such as Why do parents differ markedly in the ways in which they care for their children What factors contribute to individual differences in parenting behavior The framework used for addressing these questions is the ecological perspective developed by Urie Bronfenbrenner who recognized that children's development is influenced by the interactions that they have over time with the people objects and symbols in their immediate environment Luster and Okagaki have updated the original text focusing on parental behavior and also included 6 new chapters covering topics such as fathers gender of parent children with special needs ethnicity and socioeconomic status and parent education The text summarizes the latest research on factors that influence parenting with each chapter providing a look at one important influence and the linkages among these various factors An ecological perspective draws attention to the fact that the lives of parents and children are intertwined and that understanding factors that influence parents is important for understanding the experiences of children Life-Span Developmental Psychology Paul B. Do Parents Matter? Robert A. LeVine, Sarah LeVine, 2016-09-06

When it comes to parenting more isn t always better but it is always more tiring In Japan a boy sleeps in his parents bed until age ten but still shows independence in all other areas of his life In rural India toilet training begins one month after infants are born and is accomplished with little fanfare In Paris parents limit the amount of agency they give their toddlers In America parents grant them ever more choices independence and attention Given our approach to parenting is it any surprise that American parents are too frequently exhausted Over the course of nearly fifty years Robert and Sarah LeVine have conducted a groundbreaking worldwide study of how families work They have consistently found that children can be happy and healthy in a wide variety of conditions not just the effort intensive cautious environment so many American parents drive themselves crazy trying to create While there is always another news article or scientific fad proclaiming the importance of some factor or other it s easy to miss the bigger picture that children are smarter more resilient and more independent than we give them credit for Do Parents Matter is an eye opening look at the world of human nurture one with profound lessons for the way we think about our families
