

HE'S JUST A LITTLE BOY

He stands at the plate with his heart pounding fast.
The bases are loaded, the die has been cast.
Mom and Dad cannot help him, he stands all alone.
A hit at this moment would send his team home.
The ball meets the plate, he swings and he misses.
There's a groan from the crowd, with some boos and some hisses.

A thoughtless voice cries, "Strike out the bum."
Tears fill his eyes, the game's no longer fun.
So open up your heart and give him a break,
for it's moments like this, a man you can make.
Keep this in mind when you hear someone forget,
He is just a little boy, and not a man yet.

Pitcher Ron Wolforth, 2013-02-13 Coach Ron Wolforth reveals truths about pitching that are rarely shared with the public In Survival Guide for the Parent of the Elite Pitcher you'll find straight talk from America's Go To Guy on Pitching Relying on first hand experience in this type of arena can be quite costly Imagine if you could avoid injury for your son's arm or body Would you want him to learn the hard way Baseball is a game that requires a ton of perspective from a parent's viewpoint All that matters when your son is 12 or 16 or 18 is that along the development curve he has a chance to reach his potential Regardless of what that potential ceiling is relying on first hand knowledge with the possibility of injury and ineffectiveness is not secure As a kid I was a great reader and from A Z it seemed like I'd read every available book on pitching even skimming biographies for inspiration I never got my hands on Ron's method until I was already in the major leagues which by that time I'd already had enough injuries to essential body parts Perhaps if my family and myself could rewind the clock then I might have been able to avoid some of the injuries and their lasting effects A saying you learn in the minor leagues nobody gets sent to the big leagues from the training room Find a way to make yourself stronger more stable mechanically and mentally by working on the right program and having a bit of perspective It's more important to improve and if you are going for the top you better do what you can to keep yourself in one piece C J Wilson Major League Pitcher Los Angeles Angels 2011 American League All Star
