Paris From The Air:

Paris: From the Air Jeffrey Milstein, 2021-04-13 Combining daring aerial photography with the restricted airspace over Paris provides both breathtaking and unparalleled views From sunrise to sunset Paris is one of the most photographed cities in the world Shooting with the newest high resolution medium format professional cameras while leaning out of helicopters making steep turns with the door off Milstein captures the highly detailed iconic straight down images that set his work apart Milstein's distinctive style straight down leads to fresh insights of the urban design of this great city In a way that is impossible from street level you can see the old neighborhoods of Montmartre and Montparnasse iconic historical monuments like the Eiffel Tower Arc de Triomphe or the Invalides and modern Paris like La Defense or the new neighborhoods around the Bibliothèque Nationale As a bonus there is a portfolio of images of the gardens and buildings of Louis XIV's great palace Versailles Milstein brings his unique and unmatched aerial vistas of Paris to life every angle every moment every season This is sure to be treasured by tourists and Parisians alike

Paris to the Moon Adam Gopnik, 2001-12-18 Paris The name alone conjures images of chestnut lined boulevards sidewalk cafés breathtaking façades around every corner in short an exquisite romanticism that has captured the American imagination for as long as there have been Americans In 1995 Adam Gopnik his wife and their infant son left the familiar comforts and hassles of New York City for the urbane glamour of the City of Light Gopnik is a longtime New Yorker writer and the magazine has sent its writers to Paris for decades but his was above all a personal pilgrimage to the place that had for so long been the undisputed capital of everything cultural and beautiful It was also the opportunity to raise a child who would know what it was to romp in the Luxembourg Gardens to enjoy a croque monsieur in a Left Bank café a child and perhaps a father too who would have a grasp of that Parisian sense of style we Americans find so elusive So in the grand tradition of the American abroad Gopnik walked the paths of the Tuileries enjoyed philosophical discussions at his local bistro wrote as violet twilight fell on the arrondissements Of course as readers of Gopnik's beloved and award winning Paris Journals in The New Yorker know there was also the matter of raising a child and carrying on with day to day not so fabled life Evenings with French intellectuals preceded middle of the night baby feedings afternoons were filled with trips to the Musée d'Orsay and pinball games weekday leftovers were eaten while three star chefs debated a culinary crisis As Gopnik describes in this funny and tender book the dual processes of navigating a foreign city and becoming a parent are not completely dissimilar journeys both hold new routines new languages a new set of rules by which everyday life is lived With singular wit and insight Gopnik weaves the magical with the mundane in a wholly delightful often hilarious look at what it was to be an American family man in Paris at the end of the twentieth century We went to Paris for a sentimental reeducation I did anyway even though the sentiments we were instructed in were not the ones we were expecting to learn which I believe is why they call it an education

The Paris Review Book for Planes, Trains, Elevators, and Waiting Rooms The Paris Review, Paris Review, 2004-07 This ingeniously useful compendium organized to suit whatever time that the reader has available at that moment offers reading material to fill those gray in between moments in life with beauty wonder insight and emotion

The Great Stink of Paris and the Nineteenth-Century Struggle against Filth and Germs David S. Barnes, 2006-06-06 The scientific and social history surrounding the 1880 incident of a foul odor in Paris and the development of public health culture that followed Late in the summer of 1880 a wave of odors enveloped large portions of Paris As the stench lingered outraged residents feared that the foul air would breed an epidemic Fifteen years later when the City of Light was in the grips of another Great Stink the public conversation about health and disease had changed dramatically Parisians held their noses and protested but this time few feared that the odors would spread disease Historian David S Barnes examines the birth of a new microbe centered science of public health during the 1880s and 1890s when the germ theory of disease burst into public consciousness Tracing a series of developments in French science medicine politics and culture Barnes reveals how the science and practice of public health changed during the heyday of the Bacteriological Revolution Despite its many innovations however the new science of germs did not entirely sweep away the older sanitarian view of public health The longstanding conviction that disease could be traced to filthy people places and substances remained strong even as it was translated into the language of bacteriology Ultimately the attitudes of physicians and the French public were shaped by political struggles between republicans and the clergy by aggressive efforts to educate and civilize the peasantry and by long term shifts in the public s ability to tolerate the odor of bodily substances A well developed study in medically related social history it tells an intriguing tale and prompts us to ask how our own cultural contexts affect our views and actions regarding environmental and infectious scourges here and now New England Journal of Medicine Both a captivating story and a sophisticated historical study Kudos to Barnes for this valuable and insightful book that both physicians and historians will enjoy Journal of the American Medical Association

The Paris Hours Alex George, 2020-05-05 Like All the Light We Cannot See The Paris Hours explores the brutality of war and its lingering effects with cinematic intensity The ending will leave you breathless Christina Baker Kline author of Orphan Train and A Piece of the World One day in the City of Light One night in search of lost time Paris between the wars teems with artists writers and musicians a glittering crucible of genius But amidst the dazzling creativity of the city s most famous citizens four regular people are each searching for something they ve lost Camille was the maid of Marcel Proust and she has a secret when she was asked to burn her employer s notebooks she saved one for herself Now she is desperate to find it before her betrayal is revealed Souren an Armenian refugee performs puppet shows for children that are nothing like the fairy tales they expect Lovesick artist Guillaume is down on his luck and running from a debt he cannot repay but when Gertrude Stein walks into his studio he wonders if this is the day everything could change And Jean Paul is a journalist who tells other people s stories because his own is too painful to tell When the quartet s paths finally cross in an unforgettable climax each discovers if they will find what they are looking for Told over the course of a single day in 1927 The Paris Hours
