Paris Review 169:

Work in Progress Rieke Jordan, 2019-05-02 Work in Progress Curatorial Labor in Twenty First Century American Fiction interrogates contemporary texts that showcase forms of reading practices that feel anachronistic and laborious in times of instantaneity and short buffering times Objects of analysis include the graphic narrative Building Stories by Chris Ware the music album Song Reader by the indie rock artist Beck Hansen and the computer game Kentucky Route Zero by the programming team Cardboard Computer These texts stage their fragmentary nature and alleged unfinishedness as a quintessential part of both their narrative and material modus operandi These works in and of progress feel both contemporary and retro in the 21st century They draw upon and work against our expectations of interactive art in the digital age incorporating and likewise rejecting digital forms and practices This underlines the material and narrative flexibilities of the objects for no outcome or reading experience is the same or can be replicated It becomes apparent that the texts presuppose a reader who invests her spare time in figuring these texts out diagnosing a contorted work leisure dichotomy working these stories out is a significant part of the reading experience for the reader curatorial labor This conjures up a reader who as the author argues is turned into a curator and creative entity of and in these texts for she implements and reassembles the options made available

Kafka and Pinter R. Armstrong, 1998-11-16 Kafka and Pinter is the first major study to focus on the extraordinary affinity between these two heavyweights of twentieth century literature As well as offering a bold new interpretation of Kafka's portrayal of the struggle between father and son in his classic stories The Judgement and The Metamorphosis the book seeks to assess and document through a detailed exposition of textual and other evidence the extent to which Pinter's treatment of the same theme has been influenced by Kafka's example Three of Pinter's plays The Homecoming Family Voices and Moonlight are examined in depth the last two more comprehensively perhaps than ever before Clearly written and replete with all manner of fascinating parallels and interconnections this book commends itself not only to students of Kafka and or Pinter but also to those with a more general interest in such areas as comparative literature theatre studies religion and psychology

Translation/re-Creation Duncan Poupard,2021-11-29 This book is a study of European language translations of Naxi ritual manuscripts the ritual literature of a small ethnic group living in southwest China s Yunnan Province The author discusses the translations into European languages in English French and German from the late nineteenth century to the second half of the twentieth century revealing a history of fragmentary yet interconnected translation efforts in the West By exploring this network he shows how translation can be understood as a metonymic recreation of textual worlds As Naxi manuscripts are semi oral texts representing an oral formulaic tradition their translation involves a metonymic relay of partial incorporations from manuscript image to reading spoken language Therefore the book engages in a series of textual excavations to uncover the previously occluded contemporaneous readings that would have led to the translations we can consult today particularly in an attempt to understand how the Naxi literature came to be part of Ezra Pound s Cantos Scholars in the field of ethnic minority literature in China and translation studies will find this book beneficial and it will make new contributions to comparative literature between the East and West Medical Review of Reviews ,1899
