Architecture of Human Living Fascia Jean Claude Guimberteau, Colin Armstrong, 2024-02-21 This unique book illustrates the structure of the fascia in the living human being Dr Guimberteau's photographs provide a detailed account of fascial architecture He is the first person to publish video movies showing the structure of the fascia and how the fascia responds to it The accompanying text explains what the photographs mean clarifies the importance of the fascia and sets out the implications of these findings for everyday therapeutic practice This beautifully illustrated book provides an introduction to Dr Guimberteau's groundbreaking work Based on what can be seen he has developed his own concept of the multifibrillar structural organisation of the body wherein the microvacuole is the basic functional unit His films confirm the continuity of fibres throughout the body thereby seeming to confirm the tensegrity theory which provides the basis of many manual therapy and bodywork teachings His work ties in with that of Donald Ingber on tensegrity within the cytoskeleton and adds to the evidence linking the cytoskeleton to the extracellular matrix as described by James Oschman The book provides for the first time an explanatory introduction and explanation of these theories This material will be highly valued by osteopaths massage therapists chiropractors and others as it provides part of the scientific underpinning of their techniques as well as an explanation of what is happening when they use those techniques to treat their clients So Guimberteau's material confirms what manual therapists already believed but didn't fully understand He has provided an explanation of how fascial layers slide over each other and how adjacent structures can move independently in different directions and at different speeds while maintaining the stability of the surrounding tissues

Time Machines Richard Taws,2025-01-21 A riveting exploration of the relationship between art and telegraphy and its implications for understanding time and history in nineteenth century France In Time Machines Richard Taws examines the relationship between art and telegraphy in the decades following the French Revolution The optical telegraph was a novel form of visual communication developed in the 1790s that remained in use until the mid 1850s This pre electric telegraph based on a semaphore code irrevocably changed the media landscape of nineteenth century France Although now largely forgotten in its day it covered vast distances and changed the way people thought about time It also shaped and was shaped by a proliferating world of images What happens Taws asks if we think about art telegraphically Placed on prominent buildings across France for several years there was one on top of the Louvre the telegraph's waving limbs were a ubiquitous sight shifting how public space was experienced and represented The system was depicted by a wide range of artists who were variously amused appalled irritated or seduced by the telegraph's intractable coded messages and the uncanny environmental and perceptual disruption it caused Clouds architecture landscapes and gestures all signified differently in the era of telegraphy and the telegraph became a powerful means to comprehend France's technological and political past While

Paris's famous arcades began to crisscross the city at ground level a more enigmatic network was operating above Shifting attention from the streets to the skies this book shows how modern France took shape quite literally under the telegraph's sign
