The Use of Force in UN Peace Operations Trevor Findlay, Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 2002 One of the most vexing issues that has faced the international community since the end of the Cold War has been the use of force by the United Nations peacekeeping forces UN intervention in civil wars as in Somalia Bosnia and Herzegovina and Rwanda has thrown into stark relief the difficulty of peacekeepers operating in situations where consent to their presence and activities is fragile or incomplete and where there is little peace to keep Complex questions arise in these circumstances When and how should peacekeepers use force to protect themselves to protect their mission or most troublingly to ensure compliance by recalcitrant parties with peace accords Is a peace enforcement role for peacekeepers possible or is this simply war by another name Is there a grey zone between peacekeeping and peace enforcement Trevor Findlay reveals the history of the use of force by UN peacekeepers from Sinai in the 1950s to Haiti in the 1990s He untangles the arguments about the use of force in peace operations and sets these within the broader context of military doctrine and practice Drawing on these insights the author examines proposals for future conduct of UN operations including the formulation of UN peacekeeping doctrine and the establishment of a UN rapid reaction force
