He begins from the premiss that two modes of verse, free and metrical, engage the creative energies of poetry, now creating a rich, fertile environment capable of yielding work valuable to poetry itself and to the society which has given it life. With a practitioner's empathy, Silkin reads the poetry of Whitman, Hopkins, Eliot, Pound, Lawrence, Dylan, Thomas, Bunting, and eight British poets from the post-second World War period to illustrate how free and metrical verse create separately or together a poetic harmony. Additionally, he includes crucial statements on modern poetry from poets themselves, concluding with a fine memoir of Basil Bunting by Connie Pickard, published in book form for the first time. The American Theatrical Film John C. Tibbetts, 1985 This book provides needed information on the collaborations between filmmakers and theater personnel before 1930 and completes our understanding of how two art forms influenced each other. It begins with the vaudeville and faerie dramas captured in brief films by the Edison and Biograph companies, follows the development of feature-length Sarah Bernhardt and James O'Neill films after 1912, examines the formation of theater-film combination companies in 1914-15, and details later collaborations during the talking picture revolution of 1927. Includes detailed analyses of important theatrical films like The Count of Monte Cristo, The Virginian, Coquette, and Paramount on Parade. The Experience of Disaster in Early Modern English Literature Sophie Chiari, 2022-04-27 This book addresses the concept of disaster through a variety of literary texts dating back to the early modern period While Shakespeare's age which was an era of colonisation certainly marked a turning point in men and women's relations with nature the present times seem to announce the advent of environmental justice in spite of the massive ecological destructions that have contributed to reshape our planet Between then and now a whole history of climatic disasters and of their artistic depictions needs to be traced The literary representations of eco catastrophes in particular have consistently fashioned the English identity and led to the progress of science and the advancement of learning They have also obliged us to adapt recycle and innovate How could the destructive process entailed by ecological disasters be represented on the page and thereby transformed into a creative process encouraging meditation preservation and resilience in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries To this question this book offers nuanced contextualised and perceptive answers Divided into three main sections Extreme Conditions Tempestuous Skies and Biblical Calamities it deals with the major environmental issues of our time through the prism of early modern culture and literature The American Bibliography of Slavic and East European Studies Patt Leonard, Rebecca Routh, 2020-02-27 This bibliography first published in 1957 provides citations to North American academic literature on Europe Central Europe the Balkans the Baltic States and the former Soviet Union Organised by discipline it covers the arts humanities social sciences life sciences and technology
