The Bird Way Jennifer Ackerman, 2021-05-04 From the New York Times bestselling author of The Genius of Birds a radical investigation into the bird way of being and the recent scientific research that is dramatically shifting our understanding of birds how they live and how they think There is the mammal way and there is the bird way But the bird way is much more than a unique pattern of brain wiring and lately scientists have taken a new look at bird behaviors they have for years dismissed as anomalies or mysteries What they are finding is upending the traditional view of how birds conduct their lives how they communicate forage court breed survive They are also revealing the remarkable intelligence underlying these activities abilities we once considered uniquely our own deception manipulation cheating kidnapping infanticide but also ingenious communication between species cooperation collaboration altruism culture and play Some of these extraordinary behaviors are biological conundrums that seem to push the edges of well birdness a mother bird that kills her own infant sons and another that selflessly tends to the young of other birds as if they were her own a bird that collaborates in an extraordinary way with one species ours but parasitizes another in gruesome fashion birds that give gifts and birds that steal birds that dance or drum that paint their creations or paint themselves birds that build walls of sound to keep out intruders and birds that summon playmates with a special call and may hold the secret to our own penchant for playfulness and the evolution of laughter Drawing on personal observations the latest science and her bird related travel around the world from the tropical rainforests of eastern Australia and the remote woodlands of northern Japan to the rolling hills of lower Austria and the islands of Alaska's Kachemak Bay Jennifer Ackerman shows there is clearly no single bird way of being In every respect in plumage form song flight lifestyle niche and behavior birds vary It is what we love about them As E O Wilson once said when you have seen one bird you have not seen them all

Alex & Me Irene Pepperberg, 2013 A moving tribute that beautifully evokes the struggles the initial triumphs the setbacks the unexpected and often stunning achievements while uncovering cognitive abilities in Alex that no one believed were possible Publishers Weekly On September 6 2007 an African Grey parrot named Alex died prematurely at age thirty one

His last words to his owner Irene Pepperberg were You be good I love you What would normally be a quiet very private event was in Alex s case headline news Over the thirty years they had worked together Alex and Irene had become famous two pioneers who opened an unprecedented window into the hidden yet vast world of animal minds Alex s brain was the size of a shelled walnut and when Irene and Alex first met birds were not believed to possess any potential for language consciousness or anything remotely comparable to human intelligence Yet over the years Alex proved many things He could add He could sound out words He understood concepts like bigger smaller more fewer and none He was capable of thought and intention Together Alex and Irene uncovered a startling reality We live in a world populated by thinking conscious creatures The fame that resulted was extraordinary Yet there was a side to their relationship that never made the papers They were emotionally connected to one another They shared a deep bond far beyond science Alex missed Irene when she was away He was jealous when she paid attention to other parrots or even people He liked to show her who was boss He loved to dance He sometimes became bored by the repetition of his tests and played jokes on her Sometimes they sniped at each other Yet nearly every day they each said I love you Alex and Irene stayed together through thick and thin despite sneers from experts extraordinary financial sacrifices and a nomadic existence from one university to another The story of their thirty year adventure is equally a landmark of scientific achievement and of an unforgettable human animal bond Parrots in Color William H.
