Stopping Domestic Violence Pamela J. Jenkins, Barbara Parmer

Davidson, 2012-12-06 In the field of domestic violence, community collaboration has been an essential part of both prevention and intervention. However, there have been vast differences in perspective, methodology, understanding, interpretations, and concerns among the various partners. This volume examines models of collaboration between personnel in social service agencies, women's centers, domestic violence programs, medical and mental health settings, and law enforcement. Techniques are detailed that allow knowledge about domestic violence and primary prevention to be integrated into a community response by all those involved. Further, the authors describe in detail how the possibilities for communities to respond to domestic violence victims is based on how these various groups perceive the victim, how an individual agency personally responds, and how it is possible to provide safety for women in their own homes and communities. Stopping Domestic Violence: How a Community Can Prevent Spousal Abuse is an excellent resource for educators, social workers, public health professionals, clinicians, medical and mental health professionals, and law enforcement personnel.

Prevention of Intimate Partner Violence Sandra Stith, 2013-04-15 Stop intimate partner violence before it starts. Intimate partner violence touches everyone. With more than 1 million cases reported each year, this pervasive social problem has devastating effects on victims, families, and communities. Prevention of Intimate Partner Violence presents a comprehensive overview of the wide range of efforts and approaches that have been successful in preventing physical, emotional, and verbal abuse. A growing frustration with the limits of therapeutic intervention and with the costs imposed on society by intimate partner violence has created a need for greater emphasis on state of the art prevention programs that really work Prevention of Intimate Partner Violence addresses the challenges of conducting and evaluating such programs gaps that exist in programming and research and future trends in those areas A panel of domestic violence experts researchers and healthcare professionals examines how to change the ways individuals and the current health care system think about and respond to intimate partner violence how to change the ways young people deal with anger in intimate relationships and the ways society can support families to reduce the occurrence of violence in intimate relationships Prevention of Intimate Partner Violence examines identifying risk factors the cost benefit of universal and targeted programs the effectiveness of parenting stress management and substance abuse programs community capacity theory community development social networks media and public awareness campaigns healthcare screening programs and much more Prevention of Intimate Partner Violence documents the effectiveness of prevention interventions encouraging prevention specialists to use evidence based interventions to enhance the effectiveness of their own work This powerful book is an invaluable professional resource for social workers family life educators researchers and practitioners
