Partners In Peace And Prosperity A Premier And A Governor In Bermuda:

Partners in Peace and Prosperity Allison Moir, Peter Ramsbotham, Sir David Gibbons, 2000 In 1977 Bermuda the tranquil and beautiful vacationland erupted in race riots The island was in a state of anxiety and upheaval Partners in Peace and Prosperity A Premier and a Governor in Bermuda 1977 1981 recalls this volatile time in Bermuda's history Two men led Bermuda through this tumultuous intense and important chapter in her history an era that began with executions and race riots and ended with the initiation of greater political social and economic opportunities for all Bermudians The Premier of Bermuda David Gibbons was ensconced in business politics culture and society in Bermuda and was deeply dedicated to the country's success and happiness The Governor of Bermuda Sir Peter Ramsbotham brought to Bermuda the wisdom experience and intelligence of a lifelong diplomat Together they navigated Bermuda and her people through these turbulent times Allison Moir has written an engaging record of this era She conducted extensive interviews with Gibbons and Ramsbotham as well as with many other prominent Bermudians and Americans Partners in Peace and Prosperity offers an in depth look at an important chapter in Bermuda's recent history The Washington Embassy M. Hopkins, S. Kelly, J. Young, 2009-04-28 This book is the first study of the role of British Ambassadors in shaping Anglo American relations during the first generation of the special relationship As well as showing how ambassadors wielded influence in Washington and helped to formulate British foreign policy it offers insights into the role of the embassy in modern diplomacy Bermuda National Bibliography Bermuda Library. Technical Services, 1999 Virgin Islands Verna P. Moll, 1991 The Overseas Territories Great Britain. Foreign and Commonwealth Office, 2012 The Government in consultation with the Territories and other stakeholders has developed a strategy of re engagement strengthening links between the Territories and the UK strengthening governance and enhancing support to the Territories This White Paper sets out priorities for action in terms of defending the Territories supporting successful economic development preserving the Territories rich environmental heritage and addressing the challenges of climate change making government work better community issues and strengthening links with international and regional organisations or other countries Taking this forward will require a partnership between the UK Government and Territory Governments The UK wants to strengthen political engagement between Ministers in the UK and the Territories particularly through the proposed Joint Ministerial Council and is determined to live up to its responsibilities to the Territories Toward the Charter Christopher MacLennan, 2003 At the end of the Second World War a growing concern that Canadians civil liberties were not adequately protected coupled with the international revival of the concept of universal human rights led to a long public campaign to adopt a national bill of rights While these initial efforts had been only partially successful by the 1960s they laid the foundation for the radical change in Canadian human rights achieved by Pierre Elliott Trudeau in the 1980s In Toward the Charter Christopher MacLennan explores the origins of this dramatic revolution in Canadian human rights from its beginnings in the Great Depression to the critical developments of the 1960s Drawing heavily on the experiences of a diverse range of human rights advocates the author provides a detailed account of the various efforts to resist the abuse of civil liberties at the hands of the federal government and provincial legislatures and the resulting campaign for a national bill of rights The important roles played by parliamentarians such as John Diefenbaker and academics such as F R Scott are placed alongside those of trade unionists women and a long list of individuals representing Canada s multicultural groups to reveal the diversity of the bill of rights movement At the same time MacLennan weaves Canadian made arguments for a bill of rights with ideas from the international human rights movement led by the United Nations to show that the Canadian experience can only be understood within a wider global context

UNESCO science report UNESCO, 2015-11-09 There are fewer grounds today than in the past to deplore a North South divide in research and innovation This is one of the key findings of the UNESCO Science Report towards 2030 A large number of countries are now incorporating science technology and innovation in their national development agenda in order to make their economies less reliant on raw materials and more rooted in knowledge Most research and development R D is taking place in high income countries but innovation of some kind is now occurring across the full spectrum of income levels according to the first survey of manufacturing companies in 65 countries conducted by the UNESCO Institute for Statistics and summarized in this report For many lower income countries sustainable development has become an integral part of their national development plans for the next 10 20 years Among higher income countries a firm commitment to sustainable development is often coupled with the desire to maintain competitiveness in global markets that are increasingly leaning towards green technologies The quest for clean energy and greater energy efficiency now figures among the research priorities of numerous countries Written by more than 50 experts who are each covering the country or region from which they hail the UNESCO Science Report towards 2030 provides more country level information than ever before The trends and developments in science technology and innovation policy and governance between 2009 and mid 2015 described here provide essential baseline information on the concerns and priorities of countries that could orient the implementation and drive the assessment of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in the years to come not appear to have a clear and co-ordinated strategy for its relations with the Commonwealth. The moral authority of the Commonwealth has too often been undermined by the repressive actions of member governments. The Committee is disturbed to note the ineffectiveness of the mechanisms for upholding the Commonwealth's values and expresses support for the Eminent Persons Group's proposal for a Commonwealth Charter. The Committee also says that it is not convinced that member states are making the most of the economic and trading opportunities offered by the Commonwealth. The report welcomes the fact that the Commonwealth continues to attract interest from potential new members and the report says that there are advantages in greater diversity and an extended global reach for the Commonwealth; however, the application process should be rigorous. There is also concern at the continuing evidence of serious human rights abuses in Sri Lanka and the Committee urges the Prime Minister to state publicly his unwillingness to attend the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting in Colombo unless he receives convincing and independently verified evidence of substantial and sustainable improvements in human and political rights in Sri Lanka.

Subcommittee on Terrorism (and International Operations), 1992. Whom Shall I Fear? Ewart Brown, 2022-02-22. Outspoken accomplished and frequently controversial physician and political leader Ewart F Brown has been a longtime champion of racial equality, human rights and economic and social justice. In this event-filled memoir, the former Premier of Bermuda shares the experiences that shaped him as a physician, politician committed to progressive change and that defined his often tumultuous time in office. Brown's journey began with a childhood in a politically engaged family in a Bermuda then still legally segregated. He spent his pivotal high school years in Jamaica where he excelled in both academics and athletics, then rose to national U.S. media attention as a leader of civil rights-based student activism at Howard University in the late 1960s and early 1970s. After practicing as a physician in inner-city Los Angeles in the 1970s and 1980s, Brown entered electoral politics in Bermuda in the 1990s as a member of the Progressive Labour Party (PLP) and served as Premier from 2006 to 2010. Brown explains how he fought for human rights and racial equality in the face of intense pushback from racist forces of entrenched financial and political power. These conflicts made global headlines in June 2009 when Brown's administration gave asylum to four innocent Uighurs being released from the U.S. military prison at Guantanamo Bay. Brown's account of that decision includes his secret negotiations with President Barack Obama's White House as well as the opposition campaign to discredit him that followed. Enlivened by memorable interactions with figures as varied as activists Stokely Carmichael, Cleve Sellers, Minister Louis Farrakhan and Rev. Al Sharpton, music legend Bob Marley, leading members of the U.S. Congressional Black Caucus, senior officials in the administrations of Presidents George W. Bush and Barack Obama and the U.K. governments of Prime Ministers Tony Blair, Gordon Brown and David Cameron, as well as a vividly drawn cast of Bermudians from all walks of life, Whom Shall I Fear? tells a story rich in human and political insight that will fascinate readers interested in the global African diaspora and its continuing quest for racial justice and equality
