Terra 2008 Leslie Rainer, Angelyn Bass Rivera, David Gandreau, 2011-06-14 Earthen architecture constitutes one of the most diverse forms of cultural heritage and one of the most challenging to preserve. It dates from all periods and is found on all continents but is particularly prevalent in Africa where it has been a building tradition for centuries. Sites range from ancestral cities in Mali to the palaces of Abomey in Benin, from monuments and mosques in Iran to Buddhist temples on the Silk Road to Spanish missions in California. This volume's sixty-four papers address such themes as earthen architecture in Mali, the conservation of living sites, local knowledge systems, and intangible aspects, seismic and other natural forces, the conservation and management of archaeological sites, research advances, and training.

The Well Spring of the Goths Ingemar Nordgren, 2004 The Goths, a rumored people first known by history around the river Vistula in present Poland, was the people that more than others contributed to the fall of the Roman Empire. It was however also the Goths who preserved the Roman culture against other Germanic tribes. Earlier it has been generally assumed the Goths originated in Scandinavia but during the 20th c many scholars have grown skeptical. The author has, using both Classical and Nordic sources and supplementary sciences, made probable there is an intimate connection between the Goths and the Nordic countries.

Consequently, it is quite possible that at least part of the Goths have a Nordic origin. The book rests on the basic hypothesis that the Goths are not a people but a number of tribes and peoples united through a common religious cultic origin. The old dispute concerning the relationship between Svear and Gautar also gets quite a new meaning. The book is interdisciplinary and embraces history, religion, arts, linguistics, and archaeology. In 1999 Ingemar Nordgren received his Ph.D. at Odense University, Denmark. The book builds to a considerable extent on his dissertation but has been updated and partly rewritten with brand new material.

Deep Time of the Media Siegfried Zielinski, 2008-02-15 A quest to find something new by excavating the deep time of media's development, not by simply looking at new media's historic forerunners but by connecting models, machines, technologies, and accidents that have until now remained separated. Deep Time of the Media takes us on an archaeological quest into the hidden layers of media development, dynamic moments of intense activity in media design and construction that have been largely ignored in the historical media archaeological record. Siegfried Zielinski argues that the history of the media does not proceed predictably from primitive tools to complex machinery. In Deep Time of the Media, he illuminates turning points of media history, fractures in the predictable that help us see the new in the old. Drawing on original source materials, Zielinski explores the technology of devices for hearing and seeing through two thousand years of cultural and technological history. He discovers the contributions of dreamers and modelers of media worlds from the ancient Greek philosopher Empedocles and natural philosophers of the Renaissance and Baroque periods to Russian avant-gardists of the early twentieth century. Media are spaces of action for constructed attempts to connect what is separated, Zielinski writes. He describes models and machines that make this connection, including a theater of mirrors in sixteenth century Naples an automaton for musical composition created by the seventeenth century Jesuit Athanasius Kircher and the eighteenth century electrical tele writing machine of Joseph Mazzolari among others Uncovering these moments in the media archaeological record Zielinski says brings us into a new relationship with present day moments these discoveries in the deep time media history shed light on today's media landscape and may help us map our expedition to the media future Biofilms in Wastewater Treatment Stefan Wuertz, Paul L. Bishop, Peter A. Wilderer, 2003-04-30 The central theme of the book is the flow of information from experimental approaches in biofilm research to simulation and modeling of complex wastewater systems Probably the greatest challenge in wastewater research lies in using the methods and the results obtained in one scientific discipline to design intelligent experiments in other disciplines and eventually to improve the knowledge base the practitioner needs to run wastewater treatment plants The purpose of Biofilms in Wastewater Treatment is to provide engineers with the knowledge needed to apply the new insights gained by researchers The authors provide an authoritative insight into the function of biofilms on a technical and on a lab scale cover some of the exciting new basic microbiological and wastewater engineering research involving molecular biology techniques and microscopy and discuss recent attempts to predict the development of biofilms This book is divided into 3 sections Modeling and Simulation Architecture Population Structure and Function and From Fundamentals to Practical Application which all start with a scientific question Individual chapters attempt to answer the question and present different angles of looking at problems In addition there is an extensive glossary to familiarize the non expert with unfamiliar terminology used by microbiologists and computational scientists The colour plate section of this book can be downloaded by clicking here PDF Format 1 MB

Functional Integration Cécile Dewitt-Morette, Antoine Folacci, 2013-11-11 The program of the Institute covered several aspects of functional integration from a robust mathematical foundation to many applications heuristic and rigorous in mathematics physics and chemistry It included analytic and numerical computational techniques One of the goals was to encourage cross fertilization between these various aspects and disciplines The first week was focused on quantum and classical systems with a finite number of degrees of freedom the second week on field theories During the first week the basic course given by P Cartier was a presentation of a recent rigorous approach to functional integration which does not resort to discretization nor to analytic continuation It provides a definition of functional integrals simpler and more powerful than the original ones Could this approach accommodate the works presented by the other lecturers Although much remains to be done before answering Yes there seems to be no major obstacle along the road The other courses taught during the first week presented a solid introduction to functional numerical techniques A Sokal and their applications to functional integrals encountered in chemistry N Makri b integrals based on Poisson processes and their applications to wave propagation S K Foong in particular a wave restorer or wave designer algorithm yielding the initial wave profile when one can only observe its distortion through a dissipative medium c the formulation of a quantum equivalence principle H Kleinert
