

5 Reasons to Use Discussion Strategies in the Classroom

01 ENHANCED COMPREHENSION.

Active discussions help students process and understand complex concepts by breaking them down into digestible components.

02 CRITICAL THINKING.

Engaging in discussions challenges students to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate information from various sources and perspectives.

03 ACTIVE LEARNING.

Engaging in discussions requires students to participate in the process through listening, even if they are not talking at the moment.

04 CONFIDENCE BUILDING.

As students learn to express their thoughts, they gain more confidence and ownership of their own thinking and participation in academic discussions.

05 CONTINUOUS FEEDBACK.

Discussions provide opportunities for immediate feedback from peers and teachers, which helps students self-identify gaps in their understanding.

Parents Learn Through Discussion:

Parenting Matters National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Committee on Supporting the Parents of Young Children, 2016-11-21

Decades of research have demonstrated that the parent child dyad and the environment of the family which includes all primary caregivers are at the foundation of children's well being and healthy development. From birth children are learning and rely on parents and the other caregivers in their lives to protect and care for them. The impact of parents may never be greater than during the earliest years of life when a child's brain is rapidly developing and when nearly all of her or his experiences are created and shaped by parents and the family environment. Parents help children build and refine their knowledge and skills charting a trajectory for their health and well being during childhood and beyond. The experience of parenting also impacts parents themselves. For instance parenting can enrich and give focus to parents' lives generate stress or calm and create any number of emotions including feelings of happiness sadness fulfillment and anger. Parenting of young children today takes place in the context of significant ongoing developments. These include a rapidly growing body of science on early childhood increases in funding for programs and services for families changing demographics of the U.S. population and greater diversity of family structure. Additionally parenting is increasingly being shaped by technology and increased access to information about parenting. Parenting Matters identifies parenting knowledge attitudes and practices associated with positive developmental outcomes in children ages 0-8 universal preventive and targeted strategies used in a variety of settings that have been effective with parents of young children and that support the identified knowledge attitudes and practices and barriers to and facilitators for parents' use of practices that lead to healthy child outcomes as well as their participation in effective programs and services. This report makes recommendations directed at an array of stakeholders for promoting the wide scale adoption of effective programs and services for parents and on areas that warrant further research to inform policy and practice. It is meant to serve as a roadmap for the future of parenting policy research and practice in the United States.

Transforming the Workforce for Children Birth Through Age 8 National Research Council, Institute of Medicine, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Committee on the Science of Children Birth to Age 8: Deepening and Broadening the Foundation for Success, 2015-07-23

Children are already learning at birth and they develop and learn at a rapid pace in their early years. This provides a critical foundation for lifelong progress and the adults who provide for the care and the education of young children bear a great responsibility for their health development and learning. Despite the fact that they share the same objective to nurture young children and secure their future success the various practitioners who contribute to the care and the education of children from birth through age 8 are not acknowledged as a workforce unified by the common knowledge and competencies needed to do their jobs well. Transforming the Workforce for Children Birth Through Age 8 explores the science of child development particularly looking at implications for the professionals who work with children This report examines the current capacities and practices of the workforce the settings in which they work the policies and infrastructure that set qualifications and provide professional learning and the government agencies and other funders who support and oversee these systems This book then makes recommendations to improve the quality of professional practice and the practice environment for care and education professionals These detailed recommendations create a blueprint for action that builds on a unifying foundation of child development and early learning shared knowledge and competencies for care and education professionals and principles for effective professional learning Young children thrive and learn best when they have secure positive relationships with adults who are knowledgeable about how to support their development and learning and are responsive to their individual progress Transforming the Workforce for Children Birth Through Age 8 offers guidance on system changes to improve the quality of professional practice specific actions to improve professional learning systems and workforce development and research to continue to build the knowledge base in ways that will directly advance and inform future actions The recommendations of this book provide an opportunity to improve the quality of the care and the education that children receive and ultimately improve outcomes for children DHHS Publication No. (OHDS). ,19?? Making Choices for Multicultural Education Christine E.
