Parenting Matters National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Committee on Supporting the Parents of Young Children, 2016-11-21 Decades of research have demonstrated that the parent child dyad and the environment of the family which includes all primary caregivers are at the foundation of children's well being and healthy development From birth children are learning and rely on parents and the other caregivers in their lives to protect and care for them The impact of parents may never be greater than during the earliest years of life when a child's brain is rapidly developing and when nearly all of her or his experiences are created and shaped by parents and the family environment Parents help children build and refine their knowledge and skills charting a trajectory for their health and well being during childhood and beyond The experience of parenting also impacts parents themselves For instance parenting can enrich and give focus to parents lives generate stress or calm and create any number of emotions including feelings of happiness sadness fulfillment and anger Parenting of young children today takes place in the context of significant ongoing developments These include a rapidly growing body of science on early childhood increases in funding for programs and services for families changing demographics of the U S population and greater diversity of family structure Additionally parenting is increasingly being shaped by technology and increased access to information about parenting Parenting Matters identifies parenting knowledge attitudes and practices associated with positive developmental outcomes in children ages 0-8 universal preventive and targeted strategies used in a variety of settings that have been effective with parents of young children and that support the identified knowledge attitudes and practices and barriers to and facilitators for parents use of practices that lead to healthy child outcomes as well as their participation in effective programs and services This report makes recommendations directed at an array of stakeholders for promoting the wide scale adoption of effective programs and services for parents and on areas that warrant further research to inform policy and practice It is meant to serve as a roadmap for the future of parenting policy research and practice in the United States From Striving to Thriving Stephanie Harvey, Annie Ward, 2017-10-10 Literacy specialists Stephanie Harvey and Annie Ward demonstrate how to table the labels and use detailed formative assessments to craft targeted personalized instruction that enable striving readers to do what they need above all to find books they love and engage in voluminous reading The Reading Teacher ,1974 Reading Assessment and Instruction for All Learners Jeanne Shay Schumm, 2017-02-13 Weaving together the latest knowledge and best practices for teaching children to read this indispensable text and professional resource provides a complete guide to differentiated instruction for diverse learners. Uniquely integrative, the book places the needs of English language learners and students with disabilities front and center instead of treating them as special topics. Accessible chapters on each of the core components of literacy clearly demonstrate how to link formal and informal assessment to evidence-based instruction. Special features include Research Briefs, Tech Tips, Internet Resources, Reflection and Action Questions, and dozens of reproducible student activities and assessment tools.

Henry A. Bamman, Mildred Agnes Dawson, James Joseph McGovern, 1973      Handbook of Reading Research P. David Pearson, (Section Editor Barr, Michael L. Kamil, Peter B. Mosenthal, Rebecca Barr, 2016-11-18) The influential first volume of the Handbook of Reading Research was published in 1984. This classic work, an essential resource for researchers, students and professionals across the field of reading and literacy education, is now available once again in on-line and print on demand versions.      Literacy, Home and School Peter Hannon, 2013-10-14 Parental involvement in the teaching of reading and writing has often lagged behind practice, though schools in many countries now recognise the importance of parental involvement. The ideas presented in this book offer new ways of thinking about parental involvement and should interest both researchers and practitioners. It relates the recent growth of involvement to broader considerations of the nature of literacy and historical exclusion of parents from the curriculum. Descriptions are given of key findings from research into pre-school literacy work with parents and parents hearing children read, and a framework to underpin practice is offered. The author gives a critique of evaluation methods in the field and suggests how parental involvement should be evaluated together with a view of research findings to date and issues needing further study. The book concludes with an appraisal of what was learned from research and what needs further enquiry.      A Guide to Literacy Coaching Annemarie B. Jay, Mary W.
Strong, 2008-04-22 This practical guide presents effective coaching strategies and best practices for enhancing literacy instruction working with administrators and communities and boosting student performance across all grade levels.

Reading Engagement for Tweens and Teens Margaret K. Merga, 2018-12-01 Identifies evidence-backed and easy to implement strategies for encouraging young people to read and helps you to position your library as an indispensable resource for supporting reading. While most reading research focuses on young children, this book looks at how to support reading beyond the early years and into adulthood. Reporting on strong peer-reviewed research supported by sound theoretical and methodological approaches, it emphasizes the practical implications of these findings, sharing what this means for you in terms of how you can be a powerful positive reading model and influence in young people's lives. Enriched with the voices of today's young people, the book includes quotes that allow readers to decide how to support reading engagement for tweens and teens based on what would make them read more, as expressed in their own words. Engaging and readable, it will be of interest to school and public librarians and can be shared with teachers parents and other literacy instructors and advocates
