Animal-Assisted Psychotherapy Nancy Parish-Plass, 2013-07-15 The integration of animals into the therapy setting by psychotherapists has been a growing trend Psychological problems treated include emotional and behavioral problems attachment issues trauma and developmental disorders An influential 1970s survey suggests that over 20 percent of therapists in the psychotherapy division of the American Psychological Association incorporated animals into their treatment in some fashion. Anecdotal evidence suggests that the number is much higher today. Since Yeshiva University psychologist Boris Levinson popularized the involvement of animals in psychotherapy in the 1960s, Israel has come to be perhaps the most advanced country in the world in the area of animal assisted psychotherapy (AAP). This is true especially in the areas of academic training, programs, theory building, and clinical practice. Great effort has been put into understanding the mechanisms behind AAP as well as into developing ethical guidelines that take into account the therapist's responsibility toward both client and animal. This book exposes the world to the theory and practice of AAP as conceived and used in Israel. It emphasizes evidence-based and clinically sound applications with psychotherapeutic goals as differentiated from other animal-assisted interventions such as AAE (animal assisted education) and AAA (animal assisted activities) which may have education or skills-oriented goals. Not just anyone with a dog can call him or herself an animal-assisted therapist. This volume demonstrates not only the promise of animal-assisted psychotherapeutic approaches but also some of the challenges the field still needs to overcome to gain widespread legitimacy. Introduction to Pastoral Counseling Loren Townsend, 2009-06-01

Grounded in empirical research and richly illustrated with case studies, this introduction continues the theoretical, practical, and theological expansion of Pastoral Care and Counseling. Because of increasing cultural diversity and the fact that more training is done outside of seminaries in non-seminary-related colleges and universities, there is fragmentation in the discipline. This makes a coherent orientation to pastoral care and counseling as a ministry increasingly difficult. To address this confusion, author Loren Townsend calls us to readdress basic understandings. He also makes the case that pastoral identity can function as a unifying concept. Parish Counseling Edgar Newman Jackson, 1983 Pastoral Counseling: A Ministry of the Church John H. Patton, 2002-08-27 Pastoral counseling is unique and John Patton, widely known practitioner and teacher, explains that uniqueness in the context of other forms of therapy available. He then determines what pastoral counseling is and how it is done. His theory focuses on the centrality of the pastoral relationship, reclaiming pastoral counseling as a legitimate ministry of the church. He shows that the pastoral relationship is common to both the generalist and the specialist in counseling and explains how his concept of relational humanness is the norm for Christian pastoral counseling. The accountability of the pastoral counselor in regard to the story of Jesus in terms of his/her role and function as minister and in relation to the community, the church, which ordains and the peers in ministry is discussed. How to structure a pastoral counseling interview, how to determine the unit of care, and how healing occurs in pastoral counseling are all important facets of this excellent book. Case studies, an index, and notes are included. Pastoral Care Dr. John Patton, 2010-09-01 The essentials of pastoral care involve the pastor's distinctive task of caring for those who are estranged, the lost sheep. Taken from the biblical image of the shepherd, the pastor, by virtue of his or her professional calling, cultivates wise judgment in order to hear the hurting and offer guidance, reconciliation, healing, sustaining presence, and empowerment.

to those in need This book will outline the quintessential elements pastors need to wisely minister in today's context by discussing four major kinds of loss: grief, illness, abuse, and family challenges The purpose of the Abingdon Essential Guides is to fulfill the need for brief substantive yet highly accessible introductions to the core disciplines in biblical theological and religious studies Drawing on the best in current scholarship written with the need of students foremost in mind addressed to learners in a number of contexts Essential Guides will be the first choice of those who wish to acquaint themselves or their students with the broad scope of issues, perspectives, and subject matters within biblical and religious studies

Pastoral Counseling James E. Dittes, 1999-01-01 In this invaluable resource for pastors and seminarians James Dittes offers answers to some of a minister's basic counseling questions: how do I guide counseling conversations yet empower those who feel helpless? How do I negotiate relationships with people who I may counsel on one day and from whom I must seek a housing allowance on the next? Can I be psychologically adept while remaining theologically faithful? Dittes offers a wealth of insight into these and other fundamental issues

Hope in Pastoral Care and Counseling Andrew D. Lester, 1995-01-01 In this ground-breaking book, pastoral counselor Andrew Lester demonstrates that pastoral theology, as well as social and behavioral sciences, has neglected to address effectively the predominant cause of human suffering: a lack of hope, a sense of futurelessness Lester examines the reasons that pastoral theology and other social and behavioral sciences have overlooked the importance of hope and despair in the past He then offers a starting point for the development of addressing these significant dimensions of human life He provides clinical theories and methods for pastoral assessment of and intervention with those who despair He also puts forth strategies for assessing the future stories of those who despair and offers a corrective to these stories through deconstruction, reframing, and reconstruction This book will be invaluable to pastoral caregivers who are looking for a vantage point from which to provide care and to pastoral theologians who are seeking to develop a theological lens through which to understand the human condition
