Paroled But Not Free Rosemary J. Erickson, 1973      The Second Chance Club Jason Hardy, 2021-02-16 A former parole officer shines a bright light on a huge yet hidden part of our justice system through the intertwining stories of seven parolees striving to survive the chaos that awaits them after prison in this illuminating and dramatic book Prompted by a dead end retail job and a vague desire to increase the amount of justice in his hometown Jason Hardy became a parole officer in New Orleans at the worst possible moment Louisiana's incarceration rates were the highest in the US and his department's caseload had just been increased to 220 offenders per parole officer whereas the national average is around 100 Almost immediately he discovered that the biggest problem with our prison system is what we do and don't do when people get out of prison Deprived of social support and jobs these former convicts are often worse off than when they first entered prison and Hardy dramatizes their dilemmas with empathy and grace He's given unique access to their lives and a growing recognition of their struggles and takes on his job with the hope that he can change people's fates but he quickly learns otherwise The best Hardy and his colleagues can do is watch out for impending disaster and help clean up the mess left behind But he finds that some of his charges can muster the miraculous power to save themselves By following these heroes he both stokes our hope and fuels our outrage by showing us how most offenders even those with the best intentions end up back in prison or dead because the system systematically fails them Our focus should be he argues to give offenders the tools they need to re-enter society which is not only humane but also vastly cheaper for taxpayers As immersive and dramatic as Evicted and as revelatory as The New Jim Crow The Second Chance Club shows us how to solve the cruelest problems prisons create for offenders and society at large      Parole, Desistance from Crime, and Community Integration National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Law and Justice, Committee on Community Supervision and Desistance from Crime, 2007-12-26 Every day about 1 600 people are released from prisons in the United States Of these 600 000 new releasees every year about 480 000 are subject to parole or some other kind of postrelease supervision Prison releasees represent a challenge both to themselves and to the communities to which they return Will the releasees see parole as an opportunity to be reintegrated into society with jobs and homes and supportive families and friends Or will they commit new crimes or violate the terms of their parole contracts If so will they be returned to prison or placed under more stringent community supervision Will the communities to which they return see them as people to be reintegrated or people to be avoided And the institution of parole itself is challenged with three different functions to facilitate reintegration for parolees who are ready for rehabilitation to deter crime and to apprehend those parolees who commit new crimes and return them to prison In recent decades policy makers researchers and program administrators have focused almost exclusively on recidivism which is essentially the failure of releasees to refrain from crime or stay out of prison In contrast for this study the National Institute of Justice NIJ of the U S Department of Justice asked the National Research Council to focus on desistance which broadly covers continued absence of criminal activity and requires reintegration into society Specifically the committee was asked 1 to consider the current state of parole practices new and emerging models of community supervision and what is necessary for successful reentry and 2 to provide a research agenda on the effects of community supervision on desistance from criminal activity adherence to conditions of parole and successful reentry into the community To carry out its charge the committee organized and held a workshop focused on traditional and new models of community supervision the empirical underpinnings of such models and the infrastructure necessary to support successful reentry Parole Desistance from Crime and Community Integration also reviews the literature on desistance from crime community supervision and the evaluation research on selected types of intervention

Federal Parole Decision-making: No title, 1982

When Prisoners Come Home Joan Petersilia, 2003-03-20 Every year hundreds of thousands of jailed Americans leave prison and return to society Largely uneducated unskilled often without family support and with the stigma of a prison record hanging over them many if not most will experience serious social and psychological problems after release Fewer than one in three prisoners receive substance abuse or mental health treatment while incarcerated and each year fewer and fewer participate in the dwindling number of vocational or educational pre release programs leaving many all but unemployable Not surprisingly the great majority is rearrested most within six months of their release What happens when all those sent down the river come back up and out As long as there have been prisons society has struggled with how best to help prisoners reintegrate once released But the current situation is unprecedented As a result of the quadrupling of the American prison population in the last quarter century the number of returning offenders dwarfs anything in America's history What happens when a large percentage of inner city men mostly Black and Hispanic are regularly extracted imprisoned and then returned a few years later in worse shape and with dimmer prospects than when they committed the crime resulting in their imprisonment What toll does this constant churning exact on a community And what do these trends portend for public safety A crisis looms and the criminal justice and social welfare system is wholly unprepared to confront it Drawing on dozens of interviews with inmates former prisoners and prison officials Joan Petersilia convincingly shows us how the current system is failing and failing badly Unwilling merely to sound the alarm Petersilia explores the harsh realities of prisoner reentry and offers specific solutions to prepare inmates for release reduce recidivism and restore them to full citizenship while never losing sight of the demands of public safety As the number of ex convicts in America continues to grow their systemic marginalization threatens the very society their imprisonment was meant to protect America spent the last decade debating who should go to prison and for how long Now it's time to decide what to do when prisoners come home

President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice,1967 This report of the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice established by President Lyndon Johnson on July 23 1965 addresses the causes of crime and delinquency and recommends how to prevent crime and delinquency and improve law enforcement and the administration of criminal justice In developing its findings and recommendations the Commission held three national conferences conducted five national surveys held hundreds of meetings and interviewed tens of thousands of individuals Separate chapters of this report discuss crime in America juvenile delinquency the police the courts corrections organized crime narcotics and drug abuse drunkenness offenses gun control science and technology and research as an instrument for reform Significant data were generated by the Commission's National Survey of Criminal Victims the first of its kind conducted on such a scope The survey found that not only do Americans experience far more crime than they report to the police but they talk about crime and the reports of crime engender such fear among citizens that the basic quality of life of many Americans has eroded The core conclusion of the Commission however is that a significant reduction in crime can be achieved if the Commission's recommendations some 200 are implemented The recommendations call for a cooperative attack on crime by the Federal Government the States the counties the cities civic organizations religious institutions business groups and individual citizens They propose basic changes in the operations of police schools prosecutors employment agencies defenders social workers prisons housing authorities and probation and parole officers *LeFebvre V. Parole and Beyond Ruth Armstrong, Ioan Durnescu, 2017-07-21 This book provides an assessment of contemporary international knowledge about the experiences of life after release from prison For over 100 years people leaving prison have been supervised by probation services but little has been written about how those who are supervised experience this process or how this process influences experiences post release Research suggests that the success or failure of supervision in terms of reoffending may be related to how it is experienced but little has been written about how supervision interacts with these experiences Despite this lack of grounded knowledge post prison supervision continues to grow internationally This book addresses issues relating to life after release through providing a vision of contemporary life after prison in different social and economic climates from those who are the subjects of this growing and changing form of penal power An engaging and timely study this book will be of particular interest to scholars of criminal justice and punishment     Library Book Catalog United States.
