The Great Compassion Norm Phelps, 2004 Buddhism ought to be an animal rights religion par excellence It has long held that all life forms are sacred and considers kindness and compassion the highest virtues Moreover Buddhism explicitly includes animals in its moral universe Buddhist rules of conduct including the first precept Do not kill apply to our treatment of animals as well as to our treatment of other human beings Consequently we would expect Buddhism to oppose all forms of animal exploitation and there is in fact wide agreement that most forms of animal exploitation are contrary to Buddhist teaching Yet many Buddhists eat meat although many do not and monks priests and scholars sometimes defend meat eating as consistent with Buddhist teaching The Great Compassion studies the various strains of Buddhism and the sutras that command respect for all life Norm Phelps a longtime student of Buddhism and an acquaintance of His Holiness the Dalai Lama answers the central questions of whether Buddhism demands vegetarianism and whether the Buddha ate meat He is not afraid to examine anti animal statements in Buddhist lore particularly the issues of whether Buddhists in non historically Buddhist countries need to keep or to jettison the practices of their historical homelands Baxter's Explore the Book J. their ancient reciprocity with the natural world What will it take for us to recover a sustaining relation with the breathing earth In The Spell of the Sensuous David Abram draws on sources as diverse as the philosophy of Merleau Ponty Balinese shamanism Apache storytelling and his own experience as an accomplished sleight of hand of magician to reveal the subtle dependence of human cognition on the natural environment He explores the character of perception and excavates the sensual foundations of language which even at its most abstract echoes the calls and cries of the earth On every page of this lyrical work Abram weaves his arguments with a passion a precision and an intellectual daring that recall such writers as Loren Eiseley Annie Dillard and Barry Lopez
