

Loose Participation

Loose participation

Physical attraction is different thing

What does it bring?

When needed for entertainment

Or for that matter some change in movement

Mind ventures if in open field

The eyes are held

Constantly on scene

That has been rare and never seen

So any intelligent man may need some change

And he or she wills manage

Mix with people of less inferior quality

And talk of politics that has no quality

Energy will never come into clash

And flash

With another energy as an outcome

There shall be new emergence and shall stand welcome

Despite being intelligent

Or brilliant in approach

You may need someone for solace

And that shall be got from simple face

Here intelligence doesn't work

The sharpness is lost with words

So it will enter into an agreement

There shall be loose participation and attachment

How to Play a Poem Don Bialostosky, 2017-04-24 Approaching poems as utterances designed and packaged for pleasurable reanimation How to Play a Poem leads readers through a course that uses our common experience of language to bring poems to life It mobilizes the speech genres we acquire in our everyday exchanges to identify signs of life in poetic texts that can guide our co creation of tone How to Play a Poem draws on ideas from the Bakhtin School usually associated with fiction rather than poetry to construct a user friendly practice of close reading as an alternative to the New Critical formalism that still shapes much of teaching and alienates many readers. It sets aside stock questions about connotation and symbolism to guide the playing out of dynamic relations among the human parties to poetic utterances as we would play a dramatic script or musical score. How to Play a Poem addresses critics ready to abandon New Criticism teachers eager to rethink poetry readers eager to enjoy it and students willing to give it a chance inviting them to discover a lively and enlivening way to animate familiar and unfamiliar poems.

Participating in Christ Michael J. Gorman, 2019-09-17 World renowned scholar Michael Gorman examines the important Pauline theme of participation in Christ and explores its contemporary significance for Christian life and ministry. One of the themes Gorman explores is what he calls resurrectional cruciformity that participating in Christ is simultaneously dying and rising with him and that cross shaped living infused with the life of the resurrected Lord is life giving. Throughout the book Gorman demonstrates the centrality of participating in Christ for Paul's theology and spirituality.

Love That Dog Sharon Creech, 2014-12-23 The Newbery Medal winning author of Walk Two Moons Sharon Creech brings readers a story with enormous heart. Love That Dog shows how one boy named Jack finds his voice with the help of a teacher a pencil some yellow paper and of course a dog. Written as a series of free verse poems from Jack's point of view this novel is perfect for kids and teachers too. Jack hates poetry. Only girls write it and every time he tries to his brain feels empty. But his teacher Miss Stretchberry won't stop giving her class poetry assignments and Jack can't avoid them. But then something amazing happens. The more he writes the more he learns that he does have something to say. I guess it does look like a poem when you see it typed up like that.

The Hatred of Poetry Ben Lerner, 2016-06-07 No art has been denounced as often as poetry. It's even bemoaned by poets. I too dislike it wrote Marianne Moore. Many more people agree they hate poetry. Ben Lerner writes than can agree what poetry is. I too dislike it and have largely organized my life around it and do not experience that as a contradiction because poetry and the hatred of poetry are inextricable in ways it is my purpose to explore. In this inventive and lucid essay Lerner takes the hatred of poetry as the starting point of his defense of the art. He examines poetry's greatest haters beginning with Plato's famous claim that an ideal city had no place for poets who would only corrupt and mislead the young and both its greatest and worst practitioners providing inspired close readings of Keats Dickinson McGonagall Whitman and others. Throughout he attempts to explain the noble failure at the heart of every truly great and truly horrible poem the impulse to launch the experience of an individual into a timeless communal existence In The Hatred of Poetry Lerner has crafted an entertaining personal and entirely original examination of a vocation no less essential for being impossible A Guide to Observation, Participation, and Reflection in the Classroom Arthea J. Heller,1997

Cuban author Jose Lezama Lima 1910-76 produced some of the most enigmatic and important poetry in the Spanish language. He did this during a turbulent moment in Cuban history: a period of social unrest, radical change in political systems, and attempts at cultural self-definition. While some have argued that his poetry evades these circumstances, Assimilation Generation Resurrection adopts a contextual approach and reveals the extent of Lezama's engagement with the defining political and cultural issues of his day. It also lays bare the underlying connection of this poetry to a weave of intertexts. Lezama's productive interaction with several traditions, intimidating in its philosophical scope and linguistic complexity, Lezama's poetry has received far less critical attention than his prose. The present study rectifies this critical imbalance, foregrounding the poetry while discussing three issues that link disparate areas of Lezama's literary production. These issues—cultural assimilation, generation, and resurrection—are central elements in Lezama's poetics yet are also pertinent to wide-ranging debates on Latin American cultural identity. This study reads key poems from each of his published books of poetry using an interpretive approach forged from diverse yet cohering sources, including Lezama's own theories on reading and writing. After a brief methodological excursus and a first contextualization of Lezama's poetics vis-à-vis a number of other Cuban writers, this study considers Lezama's early assimilation of a number of initiatory texts as well as his indirect but crucial response to the social concerns of the 1930s. Assimilation Generation Resurrection makes clear that Lezama's poetry owes its existence to an engagement with cultural artifacts and social circumstances more generally. Yet it is far more than a response. It constantly attempts to go beyond, generating the new at the intersection of the old and the as-yet-uncreated. The result of this practice is a poetry that claims the power both to translate over distance and to resurrect by virtue of the image.

Rhyme and Rhyming in Verbal Art, Language, and Song Venla Sykärä, Nigel Fabb, 2022-12-05 This collection of thirteen chapters answers new questions about rhyme with views from folklore, ethnopoeitics, the history of literature, literary criticism, and music criticism, psychology, and linguistics. The book examines rhyme as practiced or as understood in English, Old English, and Old Norse, German, Swedish, Norwegian, Finnish, and Karelian, Estonian, Medieval Latin, Arabic, and the Central Australian language Kaytetye. Some authors examine written poetry, including modernist poetry, and others focus on various kinds of sung poetry, including rap, which now has a pioneering role in taking rhyme into new traditions. Some authors consider the relation of rhyme to other types of form, notably alliteration. An introductory chapter discusses approaches to rhyme and ends with a list of languages whose literatures or song traditions are known to have rhyme. Poetry Aloud Here!

Social Cognition, Motivation, and Interaction: How Do People Respond to Threats in Social Interactions? Eva Jonas, Christina Mühlberger, 2018-01-12 If we want to understand people's responses to threats in social interactions we can distinguish between three levels of analysis On a social level of analysis we can describe people's interpersonal behavior on a cognitive level we can identify corresponding information processing mechanisms and on a neural level we can specify neural systems which underlie these processes In this Research Topic we want to present research connecting these three levels of analysis and propose their functional interconnection in social interaction We propose that threats in social interactions activate basic motivational processes which manifest in neural processes related to behavioral inhibition vs activation in a social situation This shapes our attention to new information and affects our cognitions about social identities belief systems and worldviews These changes in social cognition in turn affect people's behavior in social interactions and lead to corresponding reactions on behalf of the interaction partner Thus we assume that people's reactions to threat in interactions can be described as sequences of broader attentional processes resulting from basic motivational tendencies leading to specific social cognitions and subsequent behavior within social interactions We can analyze this sequence in order to contribute to a better understanding of social interactions The three levels of analyses social cognitive neural shed light on social interactions from different angles On the social level we can analyze how the behaviors of the interaction partners mutually affect each other and how this is accompanied by specific cognitive emotional and motivational processes On the cognitive level we can analyze people's perception of a social situation leading to attentional and reasoning processes with regard to their interaction partner's which may be accompanied by certain emotional and motivational processes and determines the behavior towards the partner's Finally we can focus on the neural mechanisms underlying cognitive emotional and motivational processes in social interactions

The Groove of the Poem Jacques Rancière, 2016-11-22 Music is the brute that shows It is the avowal of materials And stutters between its clanging of things How should one think this musical groove of the poem whose back and forth motion shuffles the material of ordinary language and revives the frozen speech of old chants This question by renowned French thinker Jacques Rancière is the entry point for his earnest and careful reading of one of France's most singular and important contemporary poets For Rancière Philippe Beck sets himself the task of a poetry after poetry whereby Beck rewrites and transforms the poems of the past reanimating faded genres poetizing the prose of popular tales and even commentaries regarding poems To read and follow this groove traced as such cannot simply be done by way of taking the poems as objects of study It supposes a dialogue regarding what these poems attempt to do as well as an idea of a poetry which serves as their foundation This book on Philippe Beck is thus also a book made with him
