Manual: Community forest economy and use patterns : participatory rural appraisal (PRA) methods in south Gujarat, India ,1992 Community Forestry in Nepal Richard Thwaites,Robert Fisher,Mohan Poudel,2017-12-11

Community forestry focuses on the link between forest resources and livelihoods and contributes to forest conservation and reforestation It is widespread in Nepal with a very high proportion of the rural population involved and is widely recognized as one of the most successful examples of community forestry in Asia Through a combination of literature reviews and original research this volume explores key experiences and outcomes of community forestry in Nepal over the last four decades as a model for improving forest management and supporting local livelihoods The book takes a critical approach recognizing successes especially in forest conservation and restoration along with mixed outcomes in terms of poverty reduction and benefits to forest users It recognizes the way that community forestry has continued to evolve to meet new challenges including the global challenges of climate change environmental degradation and conservation as well as national demographic and social changes due to large scale labour migration and the growing remittance economy In addition to examining the changes and responses the book explores ways that community forestry in Nepal might move forward Lessons from Nepal have relevance to community forestry and community based approaches to natural resource management around the world that are also experiencing global pressures and opportunities Local Forest Management David Stuart Edmunds,Eva Karoline Wollenberg,2013-06-17 A well written book astutely organized Development and Change Local Forest Management is built around careful and illuminating case studies of the effects of devolution policies on the management of forests in several Asian countries The studies demonstrate that devolution policies contrary to the claims of governments actually increased governmental control over the management of local resources and did so at lower cost The controversial findings show that if local forest users are to exercise genuine control over forest management they must be better represented in the processes of forming implementing and evaluating devolution policies In addition the guiding principle for policy discussions should be to create sustainable livelihoods for local resource users especially the poorest among them rather than reducing the cost of government forest administration This book is essential reading for forest and other natural resource managers policy makers development economists and forestry professionals and researchers

Integrating Geomatics and Participatory Techniques for Community Forest Management Gavin H. Jordan,1998 Forests, Business and Sustainability Rajat Panwar,Robert Kozak,Eric Hansen,2015-12-14 Forests are under tremendous pressure from human uses of all kinds and one of the most significant threats to their sustainability comes from commercial interests This book presents a comprehensive examination of the interactions between the forest products sector and the sustainability of forests It captures the most current sustainability concerns within the forestry sector and various sustainability oriented initiatives to address these Experts from around the world analyze interconnected topics including market mechanisms regulatory mechanisms voluntary actions and governance and outline their effectiveness potential and limitations By presenting a novel overview of the burgeoning field of business sustainability within the forestry sector this book paves a way forward in understanding what is working what is not working and what could potentially work to ensure sustainable business practices within the forestry sector

80 Tools for Participatory Development , Participatory Approaches to the Conservation and Use of Plant Genetic Resources Esbern Friis-Hansen,Bhuwon Ratna Sthapit,2000 Visualizing sustainable landscapes : understanding and negotiating conservation and development trade-offs using visual techniques Agni Klintuni Boedhihartono,2012 Banko Janakari ,2001 Conflict and Cooperation in Participating Natural Resource Management R. Jeffery,B. Vira,2001-07-18 Over the past one hundred years in particular there has been a steady process by which natural resources such as ground water forests fishing grounds and grazing land have been increasingly managed by centralised institutions Governments and other national agencies have argued that this promotes efficiency equity and other wide national goals Recently this orthodoxy has been challenged by rising numbers of experiments that show how centralised management tends to fail Global national and local goals are more likely to be met at lower cost and with other benefits such as promoting better democratic institutions by involving local populations in collaborative management agreements This volume based on detailed case studies from around the world subjects some of these experiments to critical study and suggests limits to the participative approach as well as ways it can be improved and made suitable for new contexts

A Handbook on Using Participatory Monitoring and Learning Tools G. Jayanthi,Janet Geddes,Ashis Mondal,2008-09 Addressing the concepts behind participatory monitoring and learning PM L such as collaborative review and problem solving through the generation and use of information on a regular basis this reference focuses on how this system leads to corrective action and improvement within a project based on shared decision making from a number of stakeholders Offering field tested techniques from an initiative that experimented with PM L within three World Bank assisted rural development areas this resource provides facilitators with practical information on how to prepare and apply these tools as well as how to present the results

Forestry and Environmental Change John L. Innes,Gordon M. Hickey,H. F. Hoen,2005 Considerable emphasis has been placed on the interactions between environmental change and forests in recent years Reports have been produced detailing scenarios of forest development associated with particular changes in climate Similarly scenarios have been produced looking at likely trends in air quality However many studies have failed to recognize that some of the biggest changes for forests are related to the socioeconomic environment rather than the physical environment This book considers the interactions between forestry and environmental climatic change from social and economic perspectives Participatory Methods Toolkit Nikki Slocum, 2003 Innovation Africa Pascal

Sanginga, Ann Waters-Bayer, Susan Kaaria, Jemimah Njuki, Chesha Wettasinha, 2012-05-04 Agricultural research extension and education can contribute greatly to enhancing agricultural production in a sustainable way and to reducing poverty in the developing world but achievements have generally fallen short of expectations in Africa In recent years growing economic and demographic pressures coupled with the entry of new market forces and actors have created a need and an opportunity for more interactive approaches to development Understanding the existing innovation processes recognizing the potential for catalysing them and learning how to support joint innovation by different groups will be the key to success This book covers new conceptual and methodological developments in agricultural innovation systems and showcases recent on the ground experiences in different contexts in Africa The contributions show how innovation is the outcome of social learning through interaction of individuals and organizations in both creating and applying knowledge It brings examples of how space and incentives have been created to promote collaboration between farmers research extension and the private sector to develop better technologies and institutional arrangements that can alleviate poverty In 25 broad ranging chapters the book reflects cutting edge thinking and practice in support of innovation processes in agriculture and management of natural resources Criteria and Indicators of Sustainability in Community Managed Forest Landscapes: An Introductory

Guide Bill Ritchie, Cynthia McDougall, Mandy Haggith, Nicolette Burford de Oliveira, 2000-01-01 Community managed forest systems embody a considerable portion of the wisdom knowledge and practical skills and management necessary for the sustainability of forest resources globally These systems however are under threat in many ways including from the rapid rate of change of their political socio economic and biophysical contexts Adapting forest management sufficiently quickly and effectively to meet these changes is both urgent and very challenging This Guide introduces criteria and indicators of sustainability for community managed forest landscapes CMF C I as a potential learning and communication tool that can help meet that challenge It draws on CIFOR's collaborative research on CMF C I in Brazil Indonesia and Cameroon to propose a flexible step by step approach to developing and implementing self or collaborative forest monitoring systems and gives examples of C I developed by communities in these countries The approach is targeted to communities and their partners in forest management such as NGOs government or development projects who are seeking strategies to improve local well being and forest sustainability through more effective learning collaboration and decision making in local forest management
