Transforming Global Health Partnerships Anna Stewart Ibarra, A. Desiree LaBeaud, 2024-12-31 This is a book about the human experience of conducting global health research linked to operational responses to the control and prevention of diseases worldwide Rather than a manual or how to guide we propose a roadmap and vision of equitable sustainable and impactful partnerships shared through a rich interweaving of voices North and South academics and community practitioners senior mentors and trainees multiple generations and multiple disciplines We focus on the stories that need to be told the successes and the failures and visions for a healthier and more compassionate future for humanity This book was written by more than 90 authors from 26 countries bringing diverse perspectives on global health partnerships past present and future Although many of the chapters use examples related to infectious diseases the ideas in this book are relevant to the broader field of global health research and practice This book is organized into three sections broadly related to foundational concepts present experiences case studies and future visions The first section focuses on the historical colonial legacy of global health and the foundations needed for equitable partnerships introducing key themes explored throughout the book These include concepts related to decolonization ethics gender systems approaches and transdisciplinary science Planetary Health One Health team science and communication The book s second section draws on case studies of global health partnerships to understand where we are today in global health Authors share their experiences responding to global health threats including disease outbreaks refugee health stigma and sexually transmitted diseases and post disaster community recovery The book s third section articulates a new vision for global health partnerships to co create a more peaceful equitable and loving world This vision is urgently needed to address the challenges emerging in the context of global climate change the COVID 19 pandemic and other human threats This is an open access book     Managing Care in Context Jeanette Henderson,Dorothy Atkinson,2003 Managing Care in Context looks at the different contexts in which care takes place and considers the impact of policy practice and organisational contexts on managers It explores the complexity and diversity of the management task and the role     Working together to cut crime and deliver justice Great Britain: Office for Criminal Justice Reform,2007-11-15 This document details the Government s strategic plan for the criminal justice system to 2011 based on four priorities effectiveness in bringing offences to justice engaging the public and inspiring their confidence putting the needs of victims at the heart of the justice system and developing simple and efficient processes which make the best use of resources expertise and technology To deliver efficient and effective services the criminal justice agencies including the police prosecution services courts youth justice probation and prison services will need to work closely together through their local criminal justice boards LCJBs and other local partnerships This will also support the Government s wider crime reduction and re offending strategies to make communities safer as set out in the Home Office crime strategy document Cutting crime a new partnership 2008 2011 available at <http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/documents/crime-strategy-07> view Binary     Cutting Crime Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Justice Committee,2010 This is the first report from the Justice Committee in the 2009 10 session and examines the subject of Cutting crime the case for justice reinvestment HCP 94 I ISBN 9780215543080 The report calls for a change in the way we tackle criminal justice and seek to cut re offending The Committee states that the criminal justice system faces a crisis of sustainability if resources continue to be absorbed by an ever expanding programme of prison building rather than on preventing crimes from being committed with prison building not being an effective long term answer to coping with the already record breaking prison population which is predicted to rise further The average prison place costs 41 000 a year plus further capital costs and health and education expenditure on top with the Government s new prisons costing on current estimates up to 4.2 billion over the next 35 years. The Committee believes that a more prudent, rational, effective, and humane use of resources is needed to shift the focus of expenditure away from incarceration and towards rehabilitation and prevention. This would involve investment in local education, health, drug, alcohol, and community programmes in targeted areas based on analyses of where offences occur, where offenders live, and what works in reducing offending. This is known as justice reinvestment. Volume 2 contains oral and written evidence. ISBN 9780215543110. Encyclopedia of Victimology and Crime Prevention. Bonnie S. Fisher, Steven P. Lab, 2010-02-02. Victimology and crime prevention are growing interrelated areas cutting across several disciplines. Victimology examines victims of all sorts of criminal activity from domestic abuse to street violence to victims in the workplace who lose jobs and pensions due to malfeasance by corporate executives. Crime prevention is an important companion to victimology because it offers insight and techniques to prevent situations that lead to crime and attempts to offer ideas and means for mitigating or minimizing the potential for victimization. In many ways the two fields have developed along parallel yet separate paths and the literature on both has been scattered across disciplines as varied as sociology, law, and criminology, public health and medicine, political science and public policy, economics, psychology, and human services, and more. The Encyclopedia of Victimology and Crime Prevention provides a comprehensive reference work bringing together such dispersed knowledge as it outlines and discusses the status of victims within the criminal justice system and topics of deterring and preventing victimization in the first place and responding to victims' needs. Two volumes containing approximately 375 signed entries provide users with the most authoritative and comprehensive reference resource available on victimology and crime prevention both in terms of breadth and depth of coverage. In addition to standard entries, leading scholars in the field have contributed Anchor Essays that in broad strokes provide starting points for investigating the more salient victimology and crime prevention topics. A representative sampling of general topic areas covered includes interpersonal and domestic violence, child maltreatment and elder abuse, street violence, hate crimes, and terrorism, treatment of victims by the media, courts, police, and politicians, community response to crime, victims' physical design for crime prevention, victims of nonviolent crimes, deterrence and prevention, helping and counseling crime victims, international and comparative perspectives, and more.
