Partners In Planning Information Participation And Empowerment:

Partners in Planning Susan B. Rifkin, Pat Pridmore, 2001 Partners in Planning is about how professionals can work with local lay people in an equal partnership to support development programmes particularly in the areas of health and education. It discusses the importance of generating information encouraging active participation by those benefiting from the development programmes and the subsequent empowerment of these people to give them the experience and confidence needed to influence the decisions that affect their daily lives. In particular, this book explores the idea and practice of empowerment through the way information is obtained and used. Health Promotion Practice: Building Empowered Communities Laverack, Glenn, 2007-04-01 The book provides an excellent combination of broad theoretical background with a generous helping of vocational guidance on the practice of health promotion. A very welcome addition to the practical side of health promotion. Laverack's brief and simply worded text weaves together just the right balance of theory, evidence, tips and case studies to satisfy the new learner looking to gain a grasp of health promotion's empowering whole while still offering new insights to the more seasoned practitioner. Ronald Labont, Institute of Population Health, University of Ottawa. How can health promotion practitioners help communities to become more empowered? How do you encourage different communities to work together towards a shared goal? How can you focus your resources to be most effective in building empowered communities? How do you evaluate your success and failures in building empowered communities? Power and empowerment are two complex concepts that are central to health promotion practice. People experience empowerment in many different ways and this book explains an approach that has been used by health promoters to intentionally build and evaluate empowerment. The book provides a special focus on communities and is illustrated throughout with useful field experiences in the United Kingdom, Asia, North America, the Pacific region and Africa. The book aims to provide the reader with an understanding of the key concepts of power and empowerment and the link to improved health outcomes in the context of health promotion programmes. An understanding of practical approaches that can be used in health promotion programming to build and evaluate empowered communities. Case study examples of how communities can be empowered in practice. This unique book offers sound theoretical principles to underpin the practical approaches used to build empowered communities and brings together new and innovative approaches in health promotion practice. Health Promotion Practice is essential reading for health promotion students and practitioners who want to learn more about innovative approaches to build empowered communities in their everyday work. It will inspire them to work in more empowering ways in health promotion practice and to carefully contemplate how they can influence the way others gain power. Health Promotion Practice Will Nutland, Liza Cragg, 2015-05-16 This fully revised public health text offers students and practitioners a grounding in the practice of health promotion and introduces a range of methods that are used in health promotion practice. It also helps to develop skills needed to do health promotion in a range of settings including project management, partnership working needs assessment and evaluation Whether the public health intervention is through face to face contact with individuals or community based or involves strategic policy development this book now also explores recent developments in social media and web based health promotion interventions This second edition provides practical guidance and tools for planning delivering and evaluating health promotion gives greater emphasis to upstream health promotion interventions including Healthy Public Policy and health advocacy includes activities to help you make applications to your own study or practice of health promotion Health Promotion Practice 2nd Edition is an ideal resource for students of public health and health policy public health practitioners and policy makers Understanding Public Health is an innovative series published by Open University Press in collaboration with the London School of Hygiene Tropical Medicine where it is used as a key learning resource for postgraduate programmes It provides self directed learning covering the major issues in public health affecting low middle and high income countries Series Editors Rosalind Plowman and Nicki Thorogood

Space, Place and Inclusive Learning Judy Hemingway, Felicity Armstrong, 2016-04-08 This collection explores ways in which theories of space and place can be used in understanding processes of exclusion and inclusion in education The contributions foreground how the spatial turn and geographical knowledges can inform debates on the relationships between learning space and place understandings of the ways in which space and place affect education and learning familiar research agendas through the application of conceptual perspectives from different disciplines The ten chapters which make up this book are by contributors from Australia Italy and the United Kingdom who draw in very different ways on spatial theory as a means of exploring processes of inclusion and exclusion in education Each one of the authors not only seeks to challenge growing orthodoxies in their respective field but is interested in cross disciplinarity and spatial theory in education This book provides key readings for experienced and beginning teachers studying for bachelors masters and research degrees or professional qualifications It will be particularly useful to equality and diversity post holders lecturers researchers and policy makers working in all education establishments which take issues of inclusion seriously The international content of the diverse papers in Space Place and Inclusive Learning will be of interest not only to those practising in the United Kingdom but to educationists working in other countries who seek to understand how space and place modulate opportunities for inclusion This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Inclusive Education

Speaking Out Linde Zingaro, 2017-03-02 Many professionals in health education and community service roles are caught in a particular bind of identity they live in a complex social borderland of credibility and professional authority while experiencing or having experienced the same discrimination violence or trauma that they are committed to conquering For some the disclosure of their own stories of marginalization has become a tool for advocacy for telling a larger truth for others self disclosure is a more personal action intended to assist isolated others in developing trust and connection Linde Zingaro a lifelong social service worker and activist interviewed several colleagues who have chosen to speak out in this way talking with them about their ethics and intentions and collaborating to identify some of the risks of negative personal and professional consequences for the practitioner She uses their voices and her own to illustrate some of the ways that these people have learned to safely and effectively use the transformative potential of storytelling as significant social action This examination of speaking out as a meaningful social practice may help other workers activists and community researchers in their efforts to be heard in the interests of a more just society Health Activism Glenn Laverack,2013-01-11 Activism is action on behalf of a cause action that goes beyond what is conventional or routine and is relative to the actions by others Health activism is a growing area of interest for many who work to improve health at both national and international levels because it offers a more direct approach to achieve lasting social and political change This book for the first time provides a clear foundation to the theory evidence base and strategies that can be harnessed to bring about change to improve the lives and health of others For anyone working to improve the health of groups and communities this will be thought provoking reading It has particular relevance for postgraduate students and practitioners in public health and health promotion Mixed-Income Housing Development Planning Strategies and Frameworks in the Global South George Okechukwu Onatu,Wellington Didibhuku Thwala,Clinton Ohis Aigbavboa,2023-12-14 Functioning as a toolkit for inclusive urban planning this book acts as both a model for understanding the planning and management of this framework and a foundation for future research IBSS: Sociology: 2002 Vol.52 Compiled by the British Library of Political and Economic Science,2004-03-01 First published in 1952 the International Bibliography of the Social Sciences anthropology economics political science and sociology is well established as a major bibliographic reference for students researchers and librarians in the social sciences worldwide Key features Authority Rigorous standards are applied to make the IBSS the most authoritative selective bibliography ever produced Articles and books are selected on merit by some of the world s most expert librarians and academics Breadth today the IBSS covers over 2000 journals more than any other comparable resource The latest monograph publications are also included International Coverage the IBSS reviews scholarship published in over 30 languages including publications from Eastern Europe and the developing world User friendly organization all non English titles are word sections Extensive author subject and place name indexes are provided in both English and French Place your standing order now for the 2002 volumes of the the IBSS Anthropology 2002 Vol 48 December 2003 234x156 Hb 0 415 32634 6 195 00 Economics 2002 Vol 51 December 2003 234x156 Hb 0 415 32635 4 195 00 Political Science 2002 Vol 51 December 2003 234x156 Hb 0 415 32636 2 195 00 Sociology 2002 Vol 52 December 2003 234x156 Hb 0 415 32637 0 195 00 Health Promotion Theory Cragg, Liza,Davies, Maggie,Macdowall, Wendy,2013-10-01 This fully updated edition will help students and professionals develop an understanding of the core health promotion theories Public Health John Walley,John Wright,2010-01-14 Many of the health problems in the developing world can be tackled or prevented through public health measures such as essential health care improved living conditions water sanitation nutrition immunization and the adoption of healthy lifestyles Public

Optimizing Health: Improving the Value of Healthcare Delivery Franz Porzsolt, Robert M. Kaplan, 2007-07-07 As health care costs soar there is increasing interest in examining what society and particularly patients receive in return for these expenditures Optimizing Health brings together the best thinking from both sides of the Atlantic to explore these issues It employs disciplinary perspectives from economics ethics philosophy psychology clinical practice and epidemiology to explore various ways that value for patients have and can be determined It concludes with a discussion of changes required in practice research and health care systems to maximize the outcomes received from the provision of medical care services from the patient's perspective The first section of the book provides theoretical perspectives from economics and systems thinking that help us to focus on how one might determine the value of medical care for patients The next section considers the ethical and philosophical dilemmas that face developed countries in distributing medical care How is justice served and evidence based medicine employed to increase the value of medical care for patients The section on psychology deals with measuring outcomes from the patient s perspective and involving patients in medical decision making Measuring quality of life and gaining valid quality of life information when patients cannot respond for themselves are important topics covered by these chapters Other chapters consider ways that patients can become more involved in medical decision making with the expectation that this will increase the value of medical care for patients A major section of the book about clinical practice discusses problems that can reduce the value to patients of medical care These include overdiagnosis aggressive treatments that do not result in better patient outcomes findings that earlier diagnosis does not always result in better outcomes and the extent of medical error in treatment The final sections deal with cost effectiveness analyses and applications of clinical epidemiology The chapters include a number of original investigations and applications of new methodologies All in all the volume is must reading for practitioners policy makers and researchers who want to find in one place the state of the art thinking and future directions of valuing medical care from the patient s perspective
