Patient Safety and Quality: section 1, Patient safety and quality ; section 2, Evidence-based practice ; section 3, Patient-centered care Ronda Hughes, 2008 Nurses play a vital role in improving the safety and quality of patient care not only in the hospital or ambulatory treatment facility but also of community based care and the care performed by family members. Nurses need to know what proven techniques and interventions they can use to enhance patient outcomes. To address this need, the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ) with additional funding from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation has prepared this comprehensive 1,400 page handbook for nurses on patient safety and quality. Patient Safety and Quality: An Evidence Based Handbook for Nurses AHRQ Publication No. 08-0043 online AHRQ blurb <http://www.ahrq.gov/qual/nursesdbk>

Families Caring for an Aging America National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Health Care Services, Committee on Family Caregiving for Older Adults, 2016-12-08 Family caregiving affects millions of Americans every day in all walks of life. At least 17.7 million individuals in the United States are caregivers of an older adult with a health or functional limitation. The nation's family caregivers provide the lion's share of long-term care for our older adult population. They are also central to older adults' access to and receipt of health care and community-based social services. Yet the need to recognize and support caregivers is among the least appreciated challenges facing the aging U.S. population. Families Caring for an Aging America examines the prevalence and nature of family caregiving of older adults and the available evidence on the effectiveness of programs, supports, and other interventions designed to support family caregivers. This report also assesses and recommends policies to address the needs of family caregivers and to minimize the barriers that they encounter in trying to meet the needs of older adults. The Future of Home Health Care National Research Council, Institute of Medicine, Division on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Forum on Aging, Disability, and Independence, 2015-08-04 Individuals with disabilities, chronic conditions, and functional impairments need a range of services and supports to keep living independently. However, there often is not a strong link between medical care provided in the home and the necessary social services and supports for independent living. Home health agencies and others are rising to the challenges of meeting the needs and demands of these populations to stay at home by exploring alternative models of care and payment approaches, the best use of their workforces, and technologies that can enhance independent living. All of these challenges and opportunities lead to the consideration of how home health care fits into the future health care system overall. On September 30 and October 1, 2014, the Institute of Medicine and the National Research Council convened a public workshop on the future of home health care. The workshop brought together a spectrum of public and private stakeholders and thought leaders to improve understanding of the current role of Medicare home health care in supporting aging in place and in helping high-risk, chronically ill, and disabled Americans receive health care in their communities. Through presentations and discussion

participants explored the evolving role of Medicare home health care in caring for Americans in the future including how to integrate Medicare home health care into new models for the delivery of care and the future health care marketplace The workshop also considered the key policy reforms and investments in workforces technologies and research needed to leverage the value of home health care to support older Americans and research priorities that can help clarify the value of home health care This summary captures important points raised by the individual speakers and workshop participants

Dying in America Institute of Medicine, Committee on Approaching Death: Addressing Key End-of-Life Issues, 2015-03-19 For patients and their loved ones no care decisions are more profound than those made near the end of life Unfortunately the experience of dying in the United States is often characterized by fragmented care inadequate treatment of distressing symptoms frequent transitions among care settings and enormous care responsibilities for families According to this report the current health care system of rendering more intensive services than are necessary and desired by patients and the lack of coordination among programs increases risks to patients and creates avoidable burdens on them and their families Dying in America is a study of the current state of health care for persons of all ages who are nearing the end of life Death is not a strictly medical event Ideally health care for those nearing the end of life harmonizes with social psychological and spiritual support All people with advanced illnesses who may be approaching the end of life are entitled to access to high quality compassionate evidence based care consistent with their wishes Dying in America evaluates strategies to integrate care into a person and family centered team based framework and makes recommendations to create a system that coordinates care and supports and respects the choices of patients and their families The findings and recommendations of this report will address the needs of patients and their families and assist policy makers clinicians and their educational and credentialing bodies leaders of health care delivery and financing organizations researchers public and private funders religious and community leaders advocates of better care journalists and the public to provide the best care possible for people nearing the end of life Caring, 2009 Homemaker Helen Huber, Audree Spatz, 1993 This newly revised best seller has been updated to reflect the curriculum guidelines recommended by OBRA along with the latest OSHA and CDC guidelines for infection control Ívens saga Foster Warren Blaisdell, 1979 The Caring Class Richard Schweid, 2021-03-15 The number of elderly and disabled Americans in need of home health care is increasing annually even as the pool of people almost always women willing to do this job gets smaller and smaller The Caring Class takes readers inside the reality of home health care by following the lives of women training and working as home health aides in the South Bronx Richard Schweid examines home health care in detail focusing on the women who tend to our elderly and disabled loved ones and how we fail to value their work They are paid minimum wage so that we might be absent getting on with our own lives The book calls for a rethinking of home health care and explains why changes are urgent the current system offers neither a good way to live nor a good way to die By improving the job of home health aide Schweid shows we can reduce income inequality and create a pool of qualified competent home health care providers who would contribute to the well being of us all The Caring Class also serves as a guide into the world of our home health care system Nearly 50 million US families look after an elderly or disabled loved one This book explains the issues and choices they face Schweid explores the narratives histories and people behind home health care in the United States examining how we might improve the lives of both those who receive care and those who provide it Psychiatric Home Care Anita Ward Finkelman, 1997 Pharmacology Telemedicine DIANE Publishing Company, 1995-07 THE STORY In August of 1937 in a small town in eastern North Carolina we meet the Avery family Roma Avery is the widowed matriarch who still maintains a hold on her recently married son Neal He and his wife Taw a former school teacher rent a room The Massachusetts register, 1987 Literature Search National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1984 Forced to Care Evelyn Nakano Glenn, 2012-03-05 The United States faces a growing crisis in care The number of people needing care is growing while the ranks of traditional caregivers have shrunk The status of care workers is a critical concern Evelyn Nakano Glenn offers an innovative interpretation of care labor in the United States by tracing the roots of inequity along two interconnected strands unpaid caring within the family and slavery indenture and other forms of coerced labor By bringing both into the same analytic framework she provides a convincing explanation of the devaluation of care work and the exclusion of both unpaid and paid care workers from critical rights such as minimum wage retirement benefits and workers compensation Glenn reveals how assumptions about gender family home civilization and citizenship have shaped the development of care labor and been incorporated into law and social policies She exposes the underlying systems of control that have resulted in women especially immigrants and women of color performing a disproportionate share of caring labor Finally she examines strategies for improving the situation of unpaid family caregivers and paid home healthcare workers This important and timely book illuminates the source of contradictions between American beliefs about the value and importance of caring in a good society and the exploitation and devalued status of those who actually do the caring
