Teacher Education: Curriculum and change David Hartley, Maurice Whitehead, 2006      Routledge Library Editions: Special Educational Needs Various, 2021-07-29 This set of 62 volumes originally published between 1951 and 1999 amalgamates a wide breadth of literature on Special Educational Needs with a particular focus on inclusivity class management and curriculum theory This collection of books from some of the leading scholars in the field provides a comprehensive overview of the subject how it has evolved over time and will be of particular interest to students of Education and those undertaking teaching qualifications      Professionalism and Ethics in Teaching David Carr, 2005-06-20 Professionalism and Ethics in Teaching presents a thought provoking and stimulating study of the moral dimensions of the teaching professions After discussing the moral implications of professionalism Carr explores the relationship of education theory to teaching practice and the impact of this relationship on professional expertise He then identifies and examines some central ethical and moral issues in education and teaching Finally David Carr gives a detailed analysis of a range of issues concerning the role of the teacher and the managements of educational issues Professionalism and Ethics in Teaching presents a thought provoking and stimulating study of the moral dimensions of the teaching professions      Rethinking Special Needs in Mainstream Schools Alan Dyson, Charles Gains, 2018-09-03 First published in 1993 This book critically analyses the state of provision for special needs exploring the problems faced by practitioners and suggesting that the area is fraught with such tensions that a radical reconceptualization is necessary It considers how the field may be rethought and developed over the next decade and presents examples of innovatory practice which point the way forward to future provision and which are illustrative of the themes raised throughout the book      New Teacher Identity and Regulative Government Tony Brown, Olwen McNamara, 2006-03-30 This book seeks to address the question of how the task of teaching mathematics to young children might be better understood But rather than starting out with a conception of mathematics derived from the many histories mathematics might claim as its own we centre the analysis instead within the social practices that surround the teaching of the subject to children aged four to eleven in English primary schools today That is we do not commence with an a priori conception of mathematics and see what people are saying about it Rather we start from what people are saying and see where this points We probe how the desires of society have manifested themselves in a societal decision to teach mathematics and how this decision now shapes that which is called mathematics We focus on the operation of the noun mathematics and verb mathematical and consider how the meanings of these terms derive from the social domain in which they are being used This extends and develops a conception of how language intervenes in the task of mathematics education presented elsewhere Brown 2001 In this present book however we have a particular focus on trainee and newly qualified teachers with a view to pinpointing how this conception of mathematics manifests itself in their evolving practices We question how such teachers with many years of experience as a pupil in school might now re orient themselves towards the demands of teaching mathematics in schools      Quality Mentoring for Student Teachers Della Fish, 2013-10-31

First Published in 1995 This book is directed at setting the feet of mentors on a path towards a principled approach to practice built upon the twin foundations of seeking better understanding of issues and continual refinement of practice This book is addressed to both primary and secondary teachers who are preparing to undertake new mentoring roles in initial teacher education ITE The concerns of this publication are with knowledge understanding capacities and skills that are common to such mentoring across all age ranges      Liberalism, Education and Schooling T.H. tribute collection of essays edited by author's colleagues and friends      Evidence-Based Practice Liz Trinder, 2008-04-30

Evidence based practice is an idea whose time has come Few concepts can have achieved the status of unchallengeable common sense in such a short space of time and across such a broad range of professional activity As yet there have been few opportunities to take stock and reflect on the evidence for evidence based practice or the implications of its adoption How effective or feasible is it in medicine Is it really different What are the consequences of not basing practice on research Can evidence based practice be used in non clinical settings where practitioners must deal with the complexity of multi problem individuals families and organizations This text introduces the key concept of Evidence Based Practice and accounts for its emergence and rapid expansion within and beyond medicine It then goes on to describe how evidence based practice is being translated in key areas medicine nursing mental health education and social welfare while critically appraising the strengths and weaknesses of evidence based practice as it applies in a range of fields of professional practice      Teacher Supply and Teacher Quality Gerald Rupert Grace, Martin Lawn, 1991 When Sir Claus Moser said in his Presidential Address to the British Association 1990 that central to all school problems is the state of the teaching profession he was expressing a widely held view The decade of the 1980s in many English speaking countries has done little to improve the morale and work conditions of teachers in publicly provided education The gap between the public rhetoric which acknowledge the importance of teachers and the realities which teachers experience remains very great With reference to England and Wales this timely and critically stimulating book examines the issues which have to be addressed in the 1990s It provides an agenda for educational policies and practices which take seriously the importance of teachers as key agents for realizing equal educational opportunities for all      Trends in Dutch Teacher Education Gerard M. Willems, Jos H. J. Stakenborg, 2000

Mentoring: Perspectives on School-based Teacher Education Hagger, H., McIntyre, D., Wilkin, Margaret (Lecturer in Education, University of Cambridge), 2013-07-04 A series of essays on mentoring issues in education which includes discussion of the political and historical aspects of mentoring the mentor student relationship and the generic skills approach to mentoring      Beyond Liberal Education Robin Barrow, Patricia White, 2013-01-11 This collection of essays by philosophers and educationalists of international reputation all published here for the first time celebrates Paul Hirst's professional career The introductory essay by Robin Barrow and Patricia White outlines Paul Hirst's career and maps the shifts in his thought about education showing how his views on teacher education the curriculum and educational aims are interrelated Contributions from leading names in British and American philosophy of education cover themes ranging from the nature of good teaching to Wittgensteinian aesthetics The collection concludes with a paper in which Paul Hirst sets out his latest views on the nature of education and its aims The book also includes a complete bibliography of works by Hirst and a substantial set of references to his writing

Mentorship In The Primary School Robin Yeomans, John Sampson, 2019-06-10
First Published in 1994 The growing interest in work of mentors within school based initial teacher training courses in England and Wales is a phenomenon of the recent past The development of innovative schemes within secondary education such as the Oxford Internship scheme Benton 1990 generated a national debate about the nature of partnership between schools and higher education institutions which the government joined when it introduced experimental forms of initial teacher education in the Licensed and Articled Teacher schemes DES 1988 and 1989 These were extensively school based and included both secondary and primary Mentor like behaviour may come from many sources within a school and the appointed mentor may engage in such unmentor like activities as making formal summative assessments of students with career shaping implications of passing and failing This volume is an attempt to provide some illumination and indicate some of the central issues to be addressed However we hope that the following chapters will provide an informative base from which to launch research into these and other aspects of primary school student teacher mentoring as well as being of value for those engaged in mentoring and mentor training

School Improvement Zijian Li, Michael Williams, 2006 School improvement is at the centre of educational reform and is perceived by many as a key to social and economic advance It contributes to determining the personal fulfilment and career paths of individual students and consequently engages the interest of parents and community members It is an ever present commitment of teachers and managers in schools Policy makers and politicians at international national and local levels devote much time and effort to their search for better schools School improvement has also attracted the attention of researchers and scholars in many countries They have been drawn from various disciplines and fields within the educational studies community including psychology sociology history evaluation and studies in curriculum and assessment There is now an established body of findings from studies conducted in many contexts This book brings together leading experts drawn from many countries and several continents reflecting diverse approaches to educational policy and practice evaluation and research Variations between countries and between local communities within countries are highlighted The possibilities and difficulties inherent in transferring evidence from one educational system at a number of levels to another are clearly discussed What emerges from the cross national and cross cultural evidence are several significant threads currently under active investigation including school structure and management classroom organisation school leadership teacher training and staff development curriculum and assessment community involvement lifelong learning and special provision for students with special educational needs School

Improvement International Perspectives is written for national educational policy makers teachers and student teachers governing bodies and parents from various levels of schooling and university researchers and scholars Power to Teach Wendy Robinson,2004-06-01 This book illustrates hitherto unexamined connections between the present state of teacher education in the UK and past models of practice It locates contemporary debates within ongoing historical tensions over what constitutes a sound and proper start to a career in teaching Questions as to the constituents of a professional training the essential skills knowledge and attitudes desired of an effective teacher the most suitable locus of expertise the relative roles of participants and the balance of theory and practice lie at the heart of this book The book reviews apprenticeship and teach exemplar models of training expert novice relationships model and demonstration teaching school based practice and the elaboration of core pedagogical principles in educational debate and research These developments are assessed against recent initiatives in ITT such as partnership models of ITT school based mentoring advanced skills teaching training schools a standards driven model of assessment for student teachers and models of effective teaching Central to the book is the concept of the power to teach By reclaiming this notion the book offers challenging new perspectives on current policy and practice in teacher education today and adds to existing histories of teacher training of the past EBOOK: Learning Teaching from Teachers: Realising the Potential of School-Based Teacher Education Hazel Hagger,Donald McIntyre,2006-10-16 The impressive strengths of this book are its breadth of scope the depth of its grounding in the real life of schools its clarity of structure and argument and its far reaching suggestions for reforming school based teacher education The book also demonstrates in every chapter the authors unwavering though not uncritical regard for the profession of teaching Lesley Saunders Professional Development Today The move to school based initial teacher education has opened up exciting opportunities for student teachers to learn from practising teachers expertise However making the most of these opportunities is not straightforward since much of that expertise is embedded in practice and rarely articulated The book Brings together a wide range of research on teachers expertise and beginning teachers learning Reports a research project on helping student teachers to gain access to experienced teachers expertise Considers the wider implications of that research for the development of school based initial teacher education Explores how school based initial teacher education can be improved if it is professionally planned in an informed and well thought out way Shows how curricula can be developed to help student teachers learn from experienced teachers and from everyday life in schools Makes suggestions for initiatives to improve school based initial teacher education Examines the conditions that are necessary for school based initial teacher education to realize its full potential Learning Teaching from Teachers is a key text for all teacher educators including school based mentors It is also important reading for teachers involved in Masters courses in mentoring and teacher education Sharing Expertise In Teacher Ed Mike Turner,Leslie Bash,1999-04-01 A commentary on changes in the initial and continuing education of teachers The authors combine reviews of the available literature with research and offer suggestions as to how teacher education may be improved Also included is a comparative research project on teacher education in the USA     Mentors in Schools (1996) Hazel Hagger,Donald McIntyre,2018-02-06 First published in 1996 this book brings together the work of teams in six universities involved in school based partnerships for teacher education Professionals from Oxford University the Manchester Metropolitan University Keele Sussex Swansea and Leicester University come together to explore the distinctive work of school based teacher educators discussing the role of the teacher mentor in both primary and secondary schools Topics covered include mentoring in the primary school issues in the managing of mentoring working with new teachers and mentoring and continuing professional development All involved in school based teacher education whether as mentors teacher trainers in higher education school senior management advisers or inspectors should find the range of experience presented here invaluable in their own work     Becoming a Mathematics Teacher Tony Brown,Olwen McNamara,2011-02-08 The book is centered on how major curriculum reform shapes mathematics and the professional practices of teachers This book documents in real time the implementation of a major government numeracy programme and its receipt by trainee and new teachers It documents the complete life span of that initiative The account is targeted at an international readership in terms of how curriculum reform more generally shapes mathematics in schools and the practices of teachers A key dimension of the book is an alternative view of mathematics education research in which the task of teacher development is understood at policy level where large numbers of teachers were interviewed to assess how policies were being processed through individuals The book provides an easy and accessible commentary utilising contemporary theory to describe how such teachers reconcile their personal aspirations with the external demands they encounter in negotiating their identities as professional teachers     Effective Curriculum Management Neil Kitson,John O'Neill,2002-09-11 Written by experienced teachers and teacher trainers this book focuses on the issues which curriculum co ordinators need to consider how best to manage the learning of pupils within the school how to promote a quality curriculum across the key stages factors affecting the wider curriculum such as IT differentiation the use of outside agencies and the role of the head teacher It also takes each subject area in turn and for each examines the key areas of knowledge skills and understanding teaching styles learning approaches
