Nischik, 2007-10-25 In the last thirty years of the twentieth century Canadian federal governments offered varying degrees of support for literary and other artistic endeavour A corollary of this patronage of culture at home was an effort to make the resulting works available for audiences elsewhere in the world Current developments in the study of translation and its influence as cultural transfer have made possible new assessments of such efforts to project a national image abroad Translating Canada examines cultural materials exported by Canada in addition to those selected for acquisition by German publishers theatres and other culture brokers It also considers the motivations of particular translators and the reception by German reviewers of works by a wide variety of Canadian writers novelists and poets playwrights and children s authors literary and social critics Above all the book maps for its readers a number of significant though frequently unsuspected roles that translation assumes in the intercultural negotiation of national images and values The chapters in this collection will be of value to students teachers and scholars in a number of fields Informed lay readers too will appreciate the authors insights into the different ways in which translation has contributed to German reception of Canadian books and culture Pier 21 Steven Schwinghamer, Jan Raska, 2020-08-26 Between 1928 and 1971 nearly one million immigrants landed in Canada at Pier 21 in Halifax Nova Scotia During those years it was one of the main ocean immigration facilities in Canada including when it welcomed home nearly 400 000 Canadians after service overseas during the Second World War In the immediate postwar period Pier 21 became the busiest ocean port of entry in the country Today people across Canada still enjoy connections to Pier 21 through family history and stories of arrival at the site Since 1998 researchers at the Pier 21 Interpretive Centre and now the Canadian Museum of Immigration have been conducting interviews reviewing archival materials gathering written stories and acquiring photographs documents and other objects reflecting the history of Pier 21 Pier 21 A History builds upon the resulting collection It presents a history of this important Canadian ocean immigration facility during its years of operation and later emergence as a site of public commemoration Published in English Also available in French Quai 21 Une histoire Who We are Rudyard Griffiths, 2009 Canadians have come to embrace their country as a postmodern state a nation that downplays its history and makes few demands on its citizens allowing them to find their allegiances where they may in their region their ethnic heritage or the language they speak The notion of a Canadian national identity with shared responsibilities and a common purpose is considered out of date even a disadvantage in a borderless world of transnational economies resurgent regions and global immigration In his timely and provocative book Who We Are Rudyard Griffiths argues that this vision of Canada is an intellectual and practical dead end Without a strong national identity and robust Canadian civic values and engagement the country will be hard pressed to meet the daunting challenges that lie ahead the social costs of an aging population the unavoidable effects of global warming and the fallout of a dysfunctional immigration system What is needed is a rediscovery of the founding principles that made Canada the nation it is today core values that can form a civic creed for our own times In a passionate call to revitalize our shared Canadian citizenship Griffiths reminds us of who we are and what we've accomplished
