Child Psychology and Pedagogy Maurice Merleau-Ponty,2010-06-30 Maurice Merleau Ponty is one of the few major phenomenologists to engage extensively with empirical research in the sciences and the only one to examine child psychology with rigor and in such depth His writings have recently become increasingly influential as the findings of psychology and cognitive science inform and are informed by phenomenological inquiry Merleau Ponty's Sorbonne lectures of 1949 to 1952 are a broad investigation into child psychology psychoanalysis pedagogy phenomenology sociology and anthropology They argue that the subject of child psychology is critical for any philosophical attempt to understand individual and intersubjective existence Talia Welsh's new translation provides Merleau Ponty's complete lectures on the seminal engagement of phenomenology and psychology Performing Black Masculinity Bryant Keith Alexander, 2006-07-24 Alexander's linked essays on the African American male experience

English Studies/culture Studies Isaiah Smithson, Nancy Ruff, 1994 The phrase English studies culture studies denotes a shift from the New Critical concept of the text and the reader separable from each other and from their culture to an affirmation that texts writers readers and culture are intertwined Teachers working within culture studies accept that they are working with multiple expanding canons and with students who are increasingly aware of diverse ethnic heritages Marxism feminism and cultural critique are major influences so are ethnic studies programs and the British cultural studies movement Understanding Pedagogy Peter Mortimore, 1999-10-26 I commend it to anyone with a concern for teaching in any of its forms School Leadership Management In this controversial book Peter Mortimore and a team from London University's Institute of Education explore what is meant by the term pedagogy They investigate its context and describe some of the recent shifts in thinking about it Pedagogy affects the way hundreds of thousands of learners of different ages and stages are taught Yet until recently it has been a neglected topic Instead of having access to systematic evidence about its impact innovative teachers have been guided only by ideological positions folk wisdom and fashionable enthusiasms for particular approaches Manifesto for a Post-Critical Pedagogy Naomi Hodgson, Joris Vlieghe, Piotr Zamojski, 2018-01-09 The belief in the transformative potential of education has long underpinned critical educational theory But its concerns have also been largely political and economic using education as the means to achieve a better or ideal future state of equality and social justice Our concern is not whether such a state can be realized Rather the belief in the transformative potential of education leads us to start from the assumption of equality and to attend to what is educational about education In Manifesto for a Post Critical Pedagogy we set out five principles that call not for an education as a means to achieve a future state but rather that make manifest those educational practices that do exist today and that we wish to defend The Manifesto also acts as a provocation as the starting point of a conversation about what this means for research pedagogy and our relation to our children each other and the world Manifesto for a Post Critical Pedagogy invites a shift from a critical pedagogy premised on revealing what is wrong with the world and using education to solve it to an affirmative stance that acknowledges what is educational in our existing practices It is focused on what we do and what we can do if we approach education with love for the world and acknowledge that education is based on hope in the present rather than on optimism for an eternally deferred future Critical Digital Pedagogy Jesse Stommel, Chris Friend, Sean Michael

Morris,2020-07-17 The work of teachers is not just to teach We are also responsible for the basic needs of students Helping students eat and live and also helping them find the tools they need to reflect on the present moment This is exactly in keeping with Paulo Freire s insistence that critical pedagogy be focused on helping students read their world but more and more we must together reckon with that world Teaching must be an act of imagination hope and possibility Education must be a practice done with hearts as much as heads with hands as much as books Care has to be at the center of this work For the past ten years Hybrid Pedagogy has worked to help craft a theory of teaching and learning in and around digital spaces not by imagining what that work might look like but by doing asking after changing and doing again Since 2011 Hybrid Pedagogy has published over 400 articles from more than 200 authors focused in and around the emerging field of critical digital pedagogy A selection of those articles are gathered here This is the first peer reviewed publication centered on the theory and practice of critical digital pedagogy The collection represents a wide cross section of both academic and non academic culture and features articles by women Black people indigenous people Chicanx and Latinx writers disabled people queer people and other underrepresented populations The goal is to provide evidence for the extraordinary work being done by teachers librarians instructional designers graduate students technologists and more work which advances the study and the praxis of critical digital pedagogy Radical Feminism, Writing, and Critical Agency Jacqueline Rhodes,2012-02-01

This book traces the intersection of radical feminism composition and print culture in order to address a curious gap in feminist composition studies the manifesto writing collaborative action taking radical feminists of the 1960s and 1970s Long before contemporary debates over essentialism radical feminist groups questioned both what it was to be a woman and to perform womanhood and a key part of that questioning took the form of very public very contentious texts by such writers and groups as Shulamith Firestone the Redstockings and WITCH the Women s International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell Rhodes explores how these radical women s texts have been silenced in contemporary rhetoric and composition and compares their work to that of contemporary online activists finding that both point to a network literacy that blends ever shifting identities with ever changing technologies in order to take action Ultimately Rhodes argues the articulation of radical feminist textuality can benefit both scholarship and classroom as it situates writers as rhetorical agents who can write resist and finally act within a network of discourses and identifications PRAXIS World Language Pedagogy - Test
