Passion For The Past Creative Teaching Of United States History:

A Passion for the Past James A. Percoco, 1998 James Percoco demonstrates how using applied history you can bring to life the people places and events of our nation's history inspiring in your students a passion for the past Bring History Alive! Kirk Ankeney, 2011-06-15 History Education 101 Wilson J. Warren, D. Antonio Cantu, 2008-01-01 Historians and teacher educators nationwide are now engaged in discussions about the importance of history teacher preparation Interest within the history profession about the teaching of K 12 history has increased significantly during the past two decades particularly since the controversy over the National Standards for History's publication This attention is evident not only in the historical professions various publications but also in the federal government's multi million dollar Teaching American History Program and the No Child Left Behind Act Professional historians are increasingly committed to improving the teaching of history at the K 12 level through many forms of collaboration History Education 101's thirteen essays are organized into three sections context practice and new directions The essays contributors tenured faculty who teach history teaching methods courses in colleges and universities throughout the United States focus on how history education has is and will be taught to new K 12 teachers throughout the United States Perhaps more than ever it is critical for Americans to understand the role of higher education in the preparation of future middle and high school history teachers This book provides important insights for academics in history and education departments as well as other individuals who are concerned with the status and improvement of history teaching in the schools particularly current and future elementary and secondary teachers and administrators Teaching U.S. History Beyond the Textbook Yohuru R. Williams, 2008-11-11 Written by a history educator this exciting guide provides a unique approach that makes it easy for middle and high school teachers to engage students critical thinking in history and social studies Using a CSI approach to history the author's six powerful strategies tap into students natural curiosity and investigative instincts Students become detectives of the past as they ghost hunt in their neighborhoods solve historical crimes prepare arguments for famous court cases and more Each ready to use technique Demonstrates how students can use primary and secondary sources to solve historical mysteries Includes sample lessons and case studies for Grades 5 12 Aligns with national standards making the book useful for both teachers and curriculum developers Features review questions reflections and Web and print resources in every chapter for further reading Incorporate these strategies into your classroom and watch as students discover just how thrilling and spine chilling history can be Book jacket Imperialism Primary Sources History Kit Teacher Created Material (TCM), 2013

Document-Based Assessment Activities Cynthia Boyle, Blane Conklin, Kathleen Vest, 2009-07-15 Take students beyond textbook history to explore various people and events from ancient Egypt through the 20th Century using primary sources Students will develop critical thinking and essay writing skills as they analyze the various documents including photographs posters letters maps and more Multiple social studies topics are included for grades K 3 4 8 and 9 12 This resource includes engaging digital resources and is aligned to College and Career Readiness and other state standards "Why Won't You Just Tell Us the Answer?" Bruce Lesh, 2023-10-10 Every major measure of students historical understanding since 1917 has demonstrated that students do not retain understand or enjoy their school experiences with history Bruce Lesh believes that this is due to the way we teach history lecture and memorization Over the last fifteen years Bruce has refined a method of teaching history that mirrors the process used by historians where students are taught to ask questions of evidence and develop historical explanations And now in his new book Why Won't You Just Tell Us the Answer he shows teachers how to successfully implement his methods in the classroom Students may think they want to be given the answer Yet when they are actively engaged in investigating the past the way professional historians do they find that history class is not about the boring memorization of names dates and facts Instead it's challenging fun Historical study that centers on a question where students gather a variety of historical sources and then develop and defend their answers to that question allows students to become actual historians immersed in an interpretive study of the past Each chapter focuses on a key concept in understanding history and then offers a sample unit on how the concept can be taught Readers will learn about the following Exploring Text Subtext and Context President Theodore Roosevelt and the Panama Canal Chronological Thinking and Causality The Rail Strike of 1877 Multiple Perspectives The Bonus March of 1932 Continuity and Change Over Time Custer's Last Stand Historical Significance The Civil Rights Movement Historical Empathy The Truman MacArthur Debate By the end of the book teachers will have learned how to teach history via a lens of interpretive questions and interrogative evidence that allows both student and teacher to develop evidence based answers to history's greatest questions Primary

Diem, Michael J. Berson, 2010-06-01 January 2009 marked the 25th anniversary of one of the most famous three minutes of television history It was during half time of the 1984 Super Bowl that APPLE showcased its new Macintosh Computer in an avant guard commercial In the following three weeks sales of the new computer in both the public and private sectors took off leading some to note this occasion as the true start of the information age At the same time schools joined this so called information revolution and began to use the new technology in various forms in a much more serious manner Given both the changing nature of technology as well as its classroom applications over the past quarter century this work s goal is to capture the historical trends of both use and application of information technology in the social studies during this era This is done by providing a retrospective view from 1984 through 2009 of where we ve been where we are and a view of new tools and strategies and possible studies that are emerging that can enhance our understanding of the effects that technology has and will have on the social studies

The Future of Dark Tourism Philip R. Stone, Daniel W.M. Bringing History to Life Ronald Vaughan Morris, 2009-06-16 Imagine a Founding Father visiting a classroom today or a sailor from the War of 1812 an Amish man a 19th century pioneer or even a Civil War veteran Ronald Morris has spent more than 25 years bringing these characters into classrooms and inspiring other educators to do the same. In this book he synthesizes his vast knowledge and experience into a resource for all types of educators who help elementary and middle school children develop a love of history. Pre-service teachers can use this book as a model for developing their own styles of teaching social studies. Museum educators can use Bringing History to Life to enliven their presentations with students. Teachers in the classroom can use this resource to help their students develop first-person presentations by reading about many examples across the grades. This resource is especially important as school districts reduce their budgets for field trips to popular museums that interpret history using this popular method. With this book as inspiration, educators can continue Bringing History to Life for their students. Resources in Education, 1999-10

The Teaching American History Project, Beyond the Textbook David Kobrin, 1996. Describes a method of teaching history in which students act as historians researching documents and primary sources; provides accounts of how this curriculum worked in actual classrooms and includes sample handouts and excerpts from student writings. Teaching History, 2000. The Practice of University History Teaching Alan Booth, Paul Hyland, 2000. This work provides a guide to good practice and its development in the teaching and learning of history in universities and colleges. It examines recent thinking on the teaching of the subject, surveys practices and provides advice to teachers. Lies My Teacher Told Me James W. Loewen, 2008. Criticizes the way history is presented in current textbooks and suggests a more accurate approach to teaching American history.
