Transforming Schools Miranda Jefferson, Michael Anderson, 2017-02-09 Transforming Schools demonstrates how transformation is no longer an option in teaching and learning it has become a necessity Changes in the way we work and the challenges of issues such as climate change poverty and migration mean that teaching and learning need to alter to incorporate capacities that will help us meet those challenges The 4Cs Creativity Critical Reflection Communication and Collaboration have long been present in education but Transforming Schools demonstrates how schools can change teaching and leadership to embed and enact the 4Cs to make them central to dynamic and exciting learning Miranda Jefferson and Michael Anderson demonstrate how a renewed approach to teaching that integrates the 4Cs can better equip today's learners. They draw on their own international research and experiences in school transformation in a variety of school settings working in partnership with practitioners, researchers, students and the community. The authors consider how schools might reorganise themselves to become more relevant to their students and to the community. Practical strategies for transformation are included throughout the chapters to demonstrate how learning can be supported and how the 4Cs can be made explicit in schools. These examples will support school leadership teams and teachers to explicitly teach the 4Cs in relevant and challenging ways. This book is essential reading for those looking to transform schools and more effectively meet the needs of today's learners.

Reconceptualizing Curriculum Development James Henderson, and Colleagues, 2014-12-05. Reconceptualizing Curriculum Development provides accessible, clear guidance on curriculum problem solving and educational leadership through the practice of a synoptic curriculum study. This practice integrates three influential interpretations of curriculum: curriculum as deliberative artistry, curriculum as complicated conversation, and curriculum as currere with John Dewey's lifetime work on reflective inquiry. At its heart, the book advances a way of studying as a way of living with reference to the question: How might I live as a democratic educator? The study guidance is organized as an open-ended scaffolding of three embedded reflective inquiries informed by four deliberative conversations. Study recommendations are provided by a carefully selected team. The field-tested, study-based approach is illustrated through a multi-layered, multi-voiced narrative collage of four experienced teachers' personal journeys of understanding in a collegial study context. Applying William Pinar's argument that a conceptual montage enabling teachers to lead complicated conversations should be the focus for curriculum development in the field's current post-reconceptualist moment, the book moves forward the educational aim of facilitating a holistic subject-self-social understanding through the practice of a balanced hermeneutics of suspicion and trust. It closes with a discussion of cross-cultural collaboration and advocacy reflecting the interest of curriculum scholars in a wide range of countries in this study-based, lead-learning approach to curriculum development.
