Passions and Virtue Servais Pinckaers, 2017-05-30 This book the last that noted moral theologian Servais Pinckaers OP wrote before his death was conceived as a follow up to his previous work Plaidoyer pour la vertu An Appeal for Virtue 2007 Pinckaers aim in Passions and Virtue was to show the positive and essential role that our emotions play in the life of virtue His purpose is part of a larger project of renewing moral theology a theology too often experienced as an ethics of obligation rather than as a practical guide to living virtuously To this end Pinckaers sketches a positive psychology of the passions as found in the biblical tradition in the writings of the Fathers of the Church in pagan authors and especially in the writings of Saint Thomas Aquinas

All Passion Spent Vita Sackville-West, 2017-07-11 Irreverently funny and surprisingly moving All Passion Spent is the story of a woman who discovers who she is just before it is too late After the death of elder statesman Lord Slane a former prime minister of Great Britain and viceroy of India everyone assumes that his eighty eight year old widow will slowly fade away in her grief remaining as proper decorative and dutiful as she has been her entire married life But the deceptively gentle Lady Slane has other ideas First she defies the patronizing meddling of her children and escapes to a rented house in Hampstead There to her offspring s utter amazement she revels in her new freedom recalls her youthful ambitions and gathers some very unsuitable companions who reveal to her just how much she had sacrificed under the pressure of others expectations Passion's Shadow Nicole Conn,1995-01-01 Lindsay Brennan is a Portland architect whose devotion to her work takes the place of other things in her life Sondra Pinchot an interior designer has always depended on the comfort of alcohol And Samantha Sondra s dutiful daughter is trapped in an affair that s become nothing but a habit Now fate brings the three women together and their private addictions give way to deeper passions But sometimes love can be an addiction too Originally published by Simon Schuster 1995 Rational Choice Michael Allingham,1999-07-05 The primary purpose of this book is to develop and unify the theory of rational choice Michael Allingham produces a framework in which the problems of pure choice choice under uncertainty strategic choice and social change are united A secondary purpose is to comment on attitudes to risk and of the concept of knowledge to examine how these problems impact on rational choice theory George Campbell Arthur E. Fulfilled Living Wayne Phillips Bourne,2007-11 This is a story of a woman who tries to run away from the struggles of abuse to a life that she thought would be a better life to life that she thought would be a less painful life than that she had been living as an abused wife and a mother of three kids As she ran away and began her life all over again only to struggle even harder to survive and only to have so many doors that seemed to be closed in her face and still look forward and reach out her hand to anyone who needed it and doing it with three girls and no help And it seems as if though she finally places the pieces of her life together as best as she could and then she dies and leaves three girls behind that would soon know what her struggle was about as they had seen some of her life through their own eyes and they had some of the same doors shut in their face as she had shut in hers and they learn some of the pains that she had been through as a person and anything that they didn't understand anything that they couldn't see when she stood there in front of them anything that they didn't realize they now would understand as they watch some of her life unfold in their own lives not placing themselves any higher than any one else in her life but knowing and understanding and saying mother we see Salvation Through

Temptation Benjamin E. Heidgerken, 2021-06-04 Salvation through Temptation describes the development of predominant Greek and Latin Christian conceptions of temptation and of the work of Christ to heal and restore humankind in the context of that temptation focusing on Maximus the Confessor and Thomas Aquinas as well developed examples of Greek and Latin thought on these matters Maximus and Thomas represent two trajectories concerning the woundedness of human emotionality in the wake of the primordial human sin Heidgerken argues that Maximus stands in essential continuity with earlier Greek ascetic theology which conceives of the weakness of fallen humankind in demonological categories so that the Pauline law of sin is bound to external demonic agents that act upon the human mind through thoughts desires and sensory impressions For Thomas on the other hand this wound consists primarily of an internal disordering of the faculties that results from the withdrawal of original grace concupiscence or the fomes peccati Yet even in this framework the devil plays a significant role in Thomas's account of postlapsarian temptation On the basis of these differing frameworks for human temptation Heidgerken demonstrates the centrality of Christ's exemplarity in the Greek account and the centrality of Christ's moral perfections in the Latin account As a consequence of these emphases the Greek tradition of Maximus places distinct limits on the ability of human emotionality even that of Christ to be perfected in this life whereas Thomas's approach allows Christ to completely embody a perfected form of human emotionality in his earthly life Reciprocally Thomas's account of Christ's moral perfections and virtue places distinct limits on his affirmation of Christ's experience of postlapsarian temptation whereas Maximus's account allows for Christ to experience interior forms of temptation that more closely mirror the concrete moral experiences and circumstances of fallen human beings Salvation through Temptation recommends a retrieval of early ascetic theology and demonology as the best contemporary systematic and ecumenically viable approach to Christ's temptation and victory over the devil Not Passion's Slave Robert C. Solomon, 2003-01-30 The idea that we are in some significant sense responsible for our emotions is an idea that Robert Solomon has developed for almost three decades Here in a single volume he traces the development of this theory of emotions and elaborates it in detail Two themes run through his work the first presents a cognitive theory of emotions in which emotions are construed primarily as evaluative judgments The second proposes an existentialist perspective in which he defends the idea that as we are responsible for our emotions Indeed sometimes it even makes sense to say that we choose them While the first claim has gained increasing currency in the literature his claim about responsibility for emotions has continued to meet with considerable resistance and misinterpretation The new emphasis on evolutionary biology and neurology has mistakenly reinforced the popular prejudice that emotions happen to us and are entirely beyond our control This volume is also a kind of intellectual memoir of Solomon's own development as a thinker The essays written in the 1980s elaborate the themes of the intentionality of emotion and the claim that emotions are judgments in this period he is also increasingly preoccupied with how emotions vary and are identified in a variety of cultures In the 1990s his interests evolve to consider the social and political role of emotions and theories about emotion The final section presents his current philosophical position on the seeming passivity of the passions Despite his own critical assessment of his earlier work he continues to argue that in the final analysis we are responsible for our emotions and existential quality of our lives
