Emma Donoghue, 2014 Passions Between Women looks at stories of lesbian desires acts and identities from the Restoration to the beginning of the nineteenth century Far from being invisible the figure of the woman who felt passion for women in this period was a subject of confusion and contradiction she could be put in a freak show as a hermaphrodite denounced as a tribade or lesbian revered as a romantic friend jailed as a female husband or gossiped about as a woman lover tommy or Sapphist Through an examination of a wealth of new medical legal and erotic source material together with re readings of classics of English literature Emma Donoghue uncovers the astonishing range of lesbian and bisexual identities described in British texts between 1668 and 1801 Female pirates and spiritual mentors chambermaids and queens poets and prostitutes country idylls and whipping clubs all take their place in an intriguing panorama of lesbian lives and loves Controversial erotic and radical Emma Donoghue's lesbian voyage of exploration outlines an astonishing spectrum of gender rebellion which creates a new map of eighteenth century sexual territories and identities Patricia Duncker PAST PASSION Penny sociology child development and medicine have contributed to the book Deleuze and the Passions Ceciel Meiborg (Ed.), Sjoerd van Tuinen, 2016 In recent years the humanities social sciences and neuroscience have witnessed an affective turn especially in discourses around post Fordist labor economic and ecological crises populism and identity politics mental health and political struggle This new awareness would be unthinkable without the pioneering work of Gilles Deleuze who replaced judgment with affect as the very material movement of thought every concept is an affective experience a becoming Besides entirely active affects the highest practice of thought there is no thought without passive affects or passions Instead of a calm and rational philosophy of passions Deleuzian thought is therefore inseparable from isolated and passionate cries that deny what everybody knows and what nobody can deny every true thought is an aggression This inseparability of reason and passion is by no means an anti intellectualist or irrationalist stance Rather it is critical since it protects reason from its self imposed stupidity by relating it to the unthought forces that condition it And it is clinical because thought becomes possessed by a power of selection The purely active i e free floating unrecorded desire is never enough to produce a consistent relation to the future which is why we need the passions to give us an initial orientation to force and enable us to think Passions are the beliefs perceptions representations and opinions that attach us to the world they make up the very material of which our lives and thoughts are composed Instead of truth as the ultimate criterion of judgment the only principle according to which affective becomings can be selected and evaluated is the extent to which they proliferate joy Spinoza and Marx show how the recruitment of desire traditionally takes place through the tyrants and priests who inspire sad passions in us Similarly the work of Deleuze and Guattari on capitalism and schizophrenia can be read as an encyclopedia of the passions that constitute the affective infrastructure of the socius of contemporary capitalism If it takes a lot of inventiveness or imagination to be able to diagnose our present becomings this is because becomings are always composites of joyful and sad passions Capitalism could not exist if it did not also inspire happiness love courage and perhaps even beatitude That is why today we witness the spectacle of the happily dominated Fr d ric Lordon of the self entrepreneur the managerial class the flex worker the citizen consumer the bean roasting hipster and the self managed team It is within this field of contradictory and heterogeneous passions that the authors of this volume pursue the diagnosis of our past and present becomings Their contributions add up to a systematic taxonomy of the passions and indicate their importance for a thinking that reaches beyond itself
