Passion's Gold N. Kovats, Nancy Kovats, 1986-02

Governance of Cons Passion A. Hunt, 1996-10-01 This book explores the sumptuary laws that regulated conspicuous consumption in respect to dress ornaments and food that were widespread in late medieval and early modern Europe It argues that sumptuary laws were attempts to stabilize social recognizability in the urban world of strangers and in the governance of cities The gendered character of sumptuary laws are viewed as components of gender wars These laws are explored as projects directed at the reform of popular culture and in their links to the governance of vagrancy and of popular recreation This study challenges the view that the sumptuary actually died and develops an argument that in the modern world the regulation of consumption persists but becomes dispersed throughout a range of both public and private forms of governance The conclusions stresses the persistence of projects of governance of personal appearance and of private consumption

Slaves of the Passions Mark Schroeder, 2007-12-13 Long claimed to be the dominant conception of practical reason the Humean theory that reasons for action are instrumental or explained by desires is the basis for a range of worries about the objective prescriptivity of morality As a result it has come under intense attack in recent decades A wide variety of arguments have been advanced which purport to show that it is false or surprisingly even that it is incoherent Slaves of the Passions aims to set the record straight by advancing a version of the Humean theory of reasons which withstands this sophisticated array of objections Mark Schroeder defends a radical new view which if correct means that the commitments of the Humean theory have been widely misunderstood Along the way he raises and addresses questions about the fundamental structure of reasons the nature of normative explanations the aims of and challenges facing reductive views in metaethics the weight of reasons the nature of desire moral epistemology and most importantly the relationship between agent relational and agent neutral reasons for action
