Past In Perspective An Introduction To Human Prehistory:

The Past in Perspective Kenneth L. Feder, 2004 This engaging introduction to the human prehistoric past presents the chronicle of human physical and cultural evolution Rather than an encyclopedic all inclusive survey of the human evolutionary story this text presents human prehistory within a framework of themes issues and debates The Complete Idiot's Guide to Human Prehistory Robert J. Meier, 2003 From the 3.5 million year old Lucy one of our most famous early ancestors to the rise of Homo sapiens and the spread of our species throughout the globe this guide explores everything curious readers want to know about prehistory Archaeological Oddities Kenneth L. Feder, 2019-03-06 Here is an offbeat field guide for sites in North America that reflect the rejection of the facts of prehistory and history They are the physical equivalents of fake news about America's ancient past Feder provides an entertaining summary forty sites along with the practical information you'll need to visit these fun and fascinating sites Patterns in Prehistory Robert J. Wenke, 1990 This comprehensive review of world prehistory is organized around the five topics central to archaeology the origins of culture the development of physically modern people Pleistocene cultures the establishment of agricultural economies and the rise of complex states and empires It presents a coherent philosophy of the field reflecting the new archaeology of the 1960s and 70s while reviewing the methodological revisions of the 80s and relates the archaeological data from hundreds of sites to the great questions of prehistorical change Thoroughly revised and updated to include new scholarship and the most recent discoveries the Third Edition features new material on the Neanderthals Pleistocene cave art and ancient Egypt as well as many new illustrations and an analysis of modern archaeological theory within the context of Western intellectual history Always clear and lively Patterns in Prehistory is that rare book that will fascinate general readers and scholars alike

Macroevolution in Human Prehistory Anna Prentiss, Ian Kuijt, James C. Chatters, 2009-09-18 Cultural evolution much like general evolution works from the assumption that cultures are descendent from much earlier ancestors Human culture manifests itself in forms ranging from the small bands of hunters through intermediate scale complex hunter gatherers and farmers to the high density urban settlements and complex polities that characterize much of today's world The chapters in the volume examine the dynamic interaction between the micro and macro scales of cultural evolution developing a theoretical approach to the archaeological record that has been termed evolutionary processual archaeology The contributions in this volume integrate positive elements of both evolutionary and processualist schools of thought The approach as explicated by the contributors in this work offers novel insights into topics that include the emergence stasis collapse and extinction of cultural patterns and development of social inequalities Consequently these contributions form a stepping off point for a significant new range of cultural evolutionary studies The Human Journey Kevin Reilly, 2012-11-10 The Human Journey offers a truly concise yet satisfyingly full history of the world from ancient times to the present The book's scope as the title implies is the whole story of humanity in planetary context Its themes include not only the great questions of the humanities nature versus nurture the history and meaning of human variation the sources of wealth and causes of revolution but also the major transformations in human history agriculture cities iron writing universal religions global trade industrialization popular government justice and equality In each conceptually rich chapter leading historian Kevin Reilly concentrates on a single important period and theme sustaining a focused narrative and analytical perspective Chapter 2 for example discusses the significance of bronze age urbanization and the advent of the Iron Age Chapter 3 examines the meaning and significance of the age of classical civilizations Chapter 4 explains the spread of universal religions and new technologies in the postclassical age of Eurasian integration But these examples also reveal a range of approaches to world history The first chapter is an example of current Big History the second of history as technological transformations the third of comparative history the fourth the history of connections that dominates and thus narrows so many texts Free of either a confined limiting focus or a mandatory laundry list of topics this book begins with our most important questions and searches all of our past for answers Well grounded in the latest scholarship this is not a fill in the blanks text but world history in a grand humanistic tradition The Past in Perspective Kenneth L. Feder,1996-10-01

Creativity in Human Evolution and Prehistory Steven Mithen,2005-08-10 The book examines how our understanding of human creativity can be extended by exploring this phenomenon during human evolution and prehistory Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries Kenneth L. Feder,1996 Studyguide for the Past in Perspective Cram101 Textbook Reviews

Helga Dommasnes,2007-12-01 This book brings together archeologists historians psychologists and educators from different countries and academic traditions to address the many ways that we tell children about the distant past Knowing the past is fundamentally important for human societies as well as for individual development The authors expose many unquestioned assumptions and preformed images in narratives of the past that are routinely presented to children The contributors both examine the ways in which children come to grips with the past and critically assess the many ways in which contemporary societies and an increasing number of commercial agents construct and use the past Principles of Geoarchaeology

Michael R. Waters,1992 Geoarchaeological studies can significantly enhance interpretations of human prehistory by allowing archaeologists to decipher from sediments and soils the effects of earth processes on the evidence of human activity While a number of previous books have provided broad geographic and temporal treatments of geoarchaeology this new volume presents a single author s view intended for North American archaeologists Waters deals with those aspects of geoarchaeology stratigraphy site formation processes and landscape reconstruction most fundamental to archaeology and he focuses on the late Quaternary of North America permitting in depth discussions of the concepts directly applicable to that research Assuming no prior geologic knowledge on the part of the reader Waters provides a background in fundamental geological processes and the basic tools of geoarchaeology He then proceeds to relate specific physical processes microenvironments deposits and landforms associated with riverine desert lake glacial cave coastal and other environments to archaeological site formation location and context This practical volume illustrates the contributions of geoarchaeological investigations and demonstrates the need to make such studies an integral part of archaeological research The text is enhanced by more than a hundred line drawings and photographs

Detecting and Explaining Technological Innovation in Prehistory Michela Spataro, Martin Furholt, 2019-12-19 Technology refers to any set of standardised procedures for transforming raw materials into finished products Innovation consists of any change in technology which has tangible and lasting effect on human practices whether or not it provides utilitarian advantages Prehistoric societies were never static but the tempo of innovation occasionally increased to the point that we can refer to transformation taking place Prehistorians must therefore identify factors promoting or hindering innovation This volume stems from an international workshop organised by the Collaborative Research Centre 1266 Scales of Transformation at Kiel University in November 2017 The meeting challenged its participants to detect and explain technological change in the past and its role in transformation processes using archaeological and ethnographic case studies The papers draw mainly on examples from prehistoric Europe but case studies from Iran the Indus Valley and contemporary central America are also included The authors adopt several perspectives including cultural historical economic environmental demographic functional and agent based approaches These case studies often rely on interdisciplinary research whereby field archaeology archaeometric analysis experimental archaeology and ethnographic research are used together to observe and explain innovations and changes in the artisan s repertoire The results demonstrate that interdisciplinary research is becoming essential to understanding transformation phenomena in prehistoric archaeology superseding typo chronological description and comparison This book is a scholarly publication aimed at academic researchers particularly archaeologists and archaeological scientists working on ceramics osseous and metal artifacts The Human Past Christopher Scarre,2013 The most thorough and authoritative introductory survey of human prehistory and the development of civilizations around the globe back cover First Islanders Peter Bellwood,2017-04-10 Incorporating research findings over the last twenty years First Islanders examines the human prehistory of Island Southeast Asia This fascinating story is explored from a broad swathe of multidisciplinary perspectives and pays close attention to migration in the period dating from 1.5 million years ago to the development of Indic kingdoms late in the first millennium CE A Village of Outcasts Kenneth L. Feder,1994 This book presents a case study in historical archaeology Specifically it presents the story of the archaeological and documentary investigation of the Lighthouse site in the town of Barkhamsted Connecticut It is intended for students in courses in archaeology anthropology ethnography and history as well as those readers with a general interest in archaeology and history p iii Hunter-Gatherers' Tool-Kit Juan F. Gibaja,2020-01-06 This volume provides the reader with a multifaceted overview of the study of stone tools used by humans in the past Including case studies from various geographic regions and different continents and covering a wide range of chronologies the contributions here are centred on the study of human communities based on a hunter gatherer lifestyle A number of essays in this volume focus on tool production and use and address major paleoanthropological questions related to past human economic and social behaviour The book also includes detailed and careful studies of human technology during Prehistory

Prehistory and Early History of the Malpai Borderlands Paul R. Fish,2006 Prehispanic and early historic archaeological information for the Malpai Borderlands of southwest New Mexico and southeast Arizona is reviewed using data derived from field reconnaissance discussion with relevant scholars archival resources from varied agencies and institutions and published literature Previous regional research has focused on late prehistory A.D. 1200 to 1450 shaping the scope of cultural historical overview and providing an opportunity to examine relationships with Casas Grandes Paquime to the south A second important objective of current study is the exploration of prehispanic and early historic human impacts to Borderlands ecosystems particularly in relation fire ecology A recommended sequence of future research is intended to address significant questions surrounding both culture history and anthropogenic environments in the Malpai Borderlands

Tropical Forests in Prehistory, History, and Modernity Patrick Roberts,2019-01-03 In popular discourse tropical forests are synonymous with nature and wilderness battlegrounds between apparently pristine floral faunal and human communities and the unrelenting industrial and urban powers of the modern world It is rarely publicly understood that the extent of human adaptation to and alteration of tropical forest environments extends across archaeological historical and anthropological timescales This book is the first attempt to bring together evidence for the nature of human interactions with tropical forests on a global scale from the emergence of hominins in the tropical forests of Africa to modern conservation issues Following a review of the natural history and variability of tropical forest ecosystems this book takes a tour of human and human ancestor occupation and use of tropical forest environments through time Far from being pristine primordial ecosystems this book illustrates how our species has inhabited and modified tropical forests from the earliest stages of its evolution While agricultural strategies and vast urban networks emerged in tropical forests long prior to the arrival of European colonial powers and later industrialization this should not be taken as justification for the massive deforestation and biodiversity threats imposed on tropical forest ecosystems in the 21st century Rather such a long term perspective highlights the ongoing challenges of sustainability faced by forager agricultural and urban societies in these environments setting the stage for more integrated approaches to conservation and policy making and the protection of millennia of ecological and cultural heritage bound up in these habitats
