Vertical Stephen Graham, 2016-11-08 A revolutionary reimagining of the cities we live in the air above us and what goes on in the earth beneath our feet Today we live in a world that can no longer be read as a two dimensional map but must now be understood as a series of vertical strata that reach from the satellites that encircle our planet to the tunnels deep within the ground In Vertical Stephen Graham rewrites the city at every level how the geography of inequality politics and identity is determined in terms of above and below Starting at the edge of earth s atmosphere and in a series of riveting studies descending through each layer Graham explores the world of drones the city from the viewpoint of an aerial bomber the design of sidewalks and the hidden depths of underground bunkers He asks why was Dubai built to be seen from Google Earth How do the super rich in S o Paulo live in their penthouses far above the street Why do London billionaires build vast subterranean basements And how do the technology of elevators and subversive urban explorers shape life on the surface and subsurface of the earth Vertical will make you look at the world around you anew this is a revolution in understanding your place in the world Agency Florian Kossak, Doina Petrescu, Tatjana Schneider, Renata Tyszczyk, Stephen Walker, 2009-12-04 While the potential of agency is most frequently taken to be the power and freedom to act for oneself for the architectural community this also involves the power and responsibility to act as intermediaries on behalf of others Presenting current thinking from practitioners and scholars from around the world this book asks for a more active relationship between the humanities the architectural profession and society Considering issues of architectural research as an agency of transformation this book explores how humanities research can better contribute towards understanding current architectural needs
