Islam in the Middle Ages Jacob Lassner, Michael Bonner, In the Middle Ages a varied and vibrant Islamic culture flourished in all its aspects from religious institutions to legal and scientific endeavors Lassner Reisman and Bonner detail how all three monotheist traditions are linked to the same sacred history They trace the most current scholarship on the Arabian background to Islam the prophet's early religious message and its appeal They the Qur'an and how it would have been understood by the earliest generations of Muslims How much does historical memory come into play in current depictions of this early era Beyond religious institutions Muslim scholars and scientists were vital to both the transmission of knowledge from the Greek civilization and to the uninterrupted progress of science The authors explore the role that non Muslim minorities played within this culture and they detail the splits within the Muslim world that continue to this day

Conversion to Islam in the Medieval Period Richard W. Bulliet, 1979-02-05

Writing History in the Medieval Islamic World Foia Bora, 2019-06-13 In the encyclopaedic fourteenth century Arabic chronicles produced in Mamluk cities bore textual witness to both recent and bygone history including that of the Fatimids 969-1171CE For in two centuries of rule over Egypt and North Africa the Isma'ili Fatimids had left few self-generated historiographical records. Instead it fell to Ayyubid and Mamluk historians to represent the dynasty to posterity. This monograph sets out to explain how later historians preserved, interpreted and re-organised earlier textual sources. Mamluk historians engaged in a sophisticated archival practice within historiography rather than uncritically reproducing earlier reports. In a new diplomatic edition, translation and analysis of Mamluk historian Ibn al-Furāt's account of late Fatimid rule in The History of Dynasties and Kings, a widely known but barely copied universal chronicle of Islamic history, Fozia Bora traces the survival of historiographical narratives from Fatimid Egypt. Through Ibn al-Furāt's text, Bora demonstrates archivality as the heuristic key to Mamluk historical writing. This book is essential for all scholars working on the written culture and history of the medieval Islamic world and paves the way for a more nuanced reading of pre-modern Arabic chronicles and of the epistemic environment in which they were produced.

Medieval Islamic Maps Karen C. Pinto, 2016-11-01. Hundreds of exceptional cartographic images are scattered throughout medieval and early modern Arabic, Persian and Turkish manuscript collections. The plethora of copies created around the Islamic world over the course of eight centuries testifies to the enduring importance of these medieval visions for the Muslim cartographic imagination. With Medieval Islamic Maps, historian Karen C. Pinto brings us the first in-depth exploration of medieval Islamic cartography from the mid-tenth to the nineteenth century. Pinto focuses on the distinct tradition of maps known collectively as the Book of Roads and Kingdoms (Kitāb al-Masālik wa al-Mamālik or KMMS), examining them from three distinct angles: iconography, context and patronage. She untangles the history of the KMMS maps, traces their inception and evolution and analyzes them to reveal the identities of their creators, painters and patrons, as well as the vivid realities of the social and physical world they depicted. In doing so, Pinto develops innovative techniques for approaching the visual record of Islamic history, explores how medieval Muslims perceived themselves and their world and brings Middle Eastern maps into the forefront of the study of the history of cartography.

Western Views of Islam in Medieval and Early Modern Europe M. Frassetto, D. Blanks, 1999-12-09. Western Views of Islam in Medieval and Early Modern Europe considers the various attitudes of European religious and secular writers towards Islam during the Middle Ages and Early Modern Period. Examining works from England, France, Italy, the Holy Lands and Spain, the essays in this volume explore the reactions of Westerners to the culture and religion of Islam. Many of the works studied reveal the hostility toward Islam of Europeans and the creation of negative stereotypes of Muslims by Western writers. These essays also reveal attempts at accommodation and understanding that stand in contrast to the prevailing hostility that existed then and in some ways exists still today.

Islam and Travel in the Middle Ages Houari Touati,2010-08 In the Middle Ages Muslim travelers embarked on a rihla or world tour as surveyors emissaries and educators On these journeys voyagers not only interacted with foreign cultures touring Greek civilization exploring the Middle East and North Africa and seeing parts of Europe they also established both philosophical and geographic boundaries between the faithful and the heathen These voyages thus gave the Islamic world which at the time extended from the Maghreb to the Indus Valley a coherent identity Islam and Travel in the Middle Ages assesses both the religious and philosophical aspects of travel as well as the economic and cultural conditions that made the rihla possible Houari Touati tracks the compilers of the hadith who culled oral traditions linked to the prophet the linguists and lexicologists who journeyed to the desert to learn Bedouin Arabic the geographers who mapped the Muslim world and the students who ventured to study with holy men and scholars Travel with its costs discomforts and dangers emerges in this study as both a means of spiritual growth and a metaphor for progress Touati s book will interest a broad range of scholars in history literature and anthropology

A History of the Islamic World, 600-1800 Jo Van Steenberg,2020-08-11 A History of the Islamic World 600 1800 supplies a fresh and unique survey of the formation of the Islamic world and the key developments that characterize this broad region's history from late antiquity up to the beginning of the modern era. Containing two chronological parts and fourteen chapters, this impressive overview explains how different tides in Islamic history washed ashore diverse sets of leadership groups, multiple practices of power and authority, and dynamic imperial and dynastic discourses in a theocratic age. A text that transcends many of today's popular stereotypes of the premodern Islamic past, the volume takes a holistically and theoretically informed approach for understanding, interpreting, and teaching premodern history of Islamic West Asia. Jo Van Steenberg identifies the Asian connectedness of the sociocultural landscapes between the Nile in the southwest to the Bosphorus in the northwest and the Oxus, Amu Darya, and Jaxartes, Syr Darya in the northeast to the Indus in the southeast. This abundantly illustrated book also offers maps and dynastic tables enabling students to gain an informed understanding of this broad region of the world. This book is an essential text for undergraduate classes on Islamic History, Medieval and Early Modern History, Middle East Studies, and Religious History.

Elementary Education and Motivation in Islam, State and Rural Society in Medieval Islam. Tsugitaka Sato, 2021-12-06. This book deals with the evolution of Islamic state and society from the 10th to the 14th centuries, focusing on the history of the Arab society under the iq' allocated tax revenue system. The book offers a well-documented study of the system with its use of hitherto unpublished Arabic manuscripts. The introductory chapter deals with the historical origins of the iq' system, while chapters that follow discuss the history of the system in Iraq, Syria, and Egypt, including systematic studies on the rural life and peasantry in Egypt. State and Rural Society in Medieval Islam is the first thorough book-length study to show how this system may explain various historical phenomena in medieval Islam. The iq' system now can be seen as a system with a comprehensive life of its own.

Islamic History. R. Stephen Humphreys, 1991. This book will be immensely helpful to those who wish to orient themselves to what has become a very large body of literature on medieval Islamic history. Combining a bibliographic study with an inquiry into method, it opens with a survey of the principal reference tools available to historians of Islam and a systematic review of the sources they will confront. Problems of method are then examined in a series of chapters, each exploring a broad topic in the social and political history of the Middle East and North Africa between A.D. 600 and 1500. The topics selected represent a cross section of Islamic historical studies and range from the struggles for power within the early Islamic community to the life of the peasantry. Each chapter pursues four questions: What concrete research problems are likely to be most challenging and productive? What resources do we possess for dealing with these problems? What strategies can we devise to exploit our resources most effectively? What is the current state of the scholarly literature for the topic under study?
