Invisible Men Claudia Nelson, 2010-09-01 Invisible Men focuses on the tremendous growth of periodical literature from 1850 to 1910 to illustrate how Victorian and Edwardian thought and culture problematized fatherhood within the family Drawing on political scientific domestic and religious periodicals Claudia Nelson shows how positive portrayals of fatherhood virtually disappeared as motherhood claimed an exalted position with imagined ties to patriotism social reform and religious influence The study begins with the pre Victorian role of the father in the middle class home as one who led the family in prayer administered discipline and determined the children's education marriage and career In subsequent decades fatherhood was increasingly scrutinized while a new definition of motherhood and femininity emerged The solution to the newly perceived dilemma of fatherhood appeared rooted in traditional feminine values

nurturance selflessness and sensitivity The critique presented in Invisible Men extends our contemporary debate over men's proper role within the family providing a historical context for the various images of fatherhood as we practice and dispute them today

Sex and Gender Hilary M. Lips, 2020-04-10 Are sex and gender really two different things How malleable is gender identity Do both gender and sex have to be conceptualized as binaries as having two distinct but complementary categories Should we emphasize gender differences or is that the wrong question When should we call a gender difference small Are women really nonaggressive or does that label stem from stereotyping How does subtle or modern sexism work on its targets Scholarship on these and other gender related questions has exploded in recent years Hilary Lips synthesizes that research for students in an accessible and readable way Concepts on sex and gender are presented with the social context in which they were developed As in previous editions Lips takes a multicultural approach discussing the gender experiences of people from a wide range of races cultures socioeconomic statuses and gender and sexual identities She emphasizes empirical research but takes a critical approach to that research

Regeneration Through Empire Margaret Cook Andersen, 2015-01-01 Following France's defeat in the Franco Prussian War in 1870-71 French patriots feared that their country was in danger of becoming a second rate power in Europe Decreasing birth rates had largely slowed French population growth and the country's population was not keeping pace with that of its European neighbors To regain its standing in the European world France set its sights on building a vast colonial empire while simultaneously developing a policy of pronatalism to reverse these demographic trends Though representing distinct political movements colonial supporters and pronatalist organizations were born of the same crisis and reflected similar anxieties concerning France s trajectory and position in the world Regeneration through Empire explores the intersection between colonial lobbyists and pronatalists in France s Third Republic Margaret Cook Andersen argues that as the pronatalist movement became more organized at the end of the nineteenth century pronatalists increasingly understood their demographic crisis in terms that transcended the boundaries of the metropole and began to position the French empire specifically its colonial holdings in North Africa and Madagascar as a key component in the nation s regeneration Drawing on an array of primary sources from French archives Regeneration through Empire is the first book to analyze the relationship between depopulation and imperialism
