Teaching Death and Dying Christopher M. Moreman, 2008 The academic study of death rose to prominence during the 1960s Courses on some aspect of death and dying can now be found at most institutions of higher learning These courses tend to stress the psycho social aspects of grief and bereavement however ignoring the religious elements inherent to the subject This collection is the first to address the teaching of courses on death and dying from a religious studies perspective The book is divided into seven sections The hope is that this volume will not only assist teachers in religious studies departments to prepare to teach unfamiliar and emotionally charged material but also help to unify a field that is now widely scattered across several disciplines

Death, Dying and Bereavement Cecilia Lai Wan Chan, Amy Yin Man Chow, 2006-01-01 Fear marks the boundary between the known and the unknown Some Chinese people believe that talking about death will increase the likelihood of occurrence Also by talking about death evil spirits will be attracted to haunt people In facing death individual response is inevitably moulded by the values attitudes and beliefs of one's culture Despite the large Chinese emigrant population in major cities in the world available material in English on death dying and bereavement among Chinese people is scarce As Hong Kong is a place where East meets West most professionals working in the field of death dying and bereavement adapt knowledge from the West to their practice with the Chinese population The intention of this volume is to consolidate and disseminate valuable practical wisdom with professionals in the local and international communities who serve Chinese patients and their family members Both Editors are from the Department of Social Work and Social Administration University of Hong Kong Professor Cecilia Lai Wan Chan has done extensive research in psychosocial oncology behavioral health grief loss and bereavement Amy Yin Man Chow an Honorary Clinical Associate in the department is a registered social worker specialized in bereavement counselling

American Mourning Simon Stow, 2017-07-25 This insightful study employs public mourning as a lens to identify and address the shortcomings of American democracy When All the Friends Have Gone Duane Weeks, Catherine Johnson, 2016-12-05 This volume is a collection of writings from pioneers who have created aftercare programs The perspectives they offer are wide from the practical how to s in developing a program to the more personal stories that enlighten the reader on the motivation behind those who founded the programs The chapters include information on funeral home based programs as well as those based in schools hospitals and the military Men Don't Cry, Women Do Kenneth J. Doka, Terry L. Martin, 2014-03-05 Do men and women grieve differently This text while emphasizing that there are many ways to cope with grief offers a refreshing change from the popular gender stereotypes of grief Two patterns of grieving are described an intuitive pattern where individuals experience and express grief in an affective way stereotyped as female and an instrumental pattern where grief is expressed physically or cognitively stereotyped as male A third pattern representing a blending of these two is also introduced Of critical importance is that such patterns are related to but not determined by gender and each has distinct strengths and weaknesses Organized into three main parts this topical new text begins by defining terms introducing and delineating the grief patterns and rooting the book s concept in contemporary theories of grief The second part speculates on factors that may influence individuals patterns of coping with loss e g personality gender culture etc The final part considers implications and therapeutic interventions likely to be effective with different types of grievers Spirituality in Hospice Palliative Care Paul Bramadat, Harold Coward, Kelli I. Stajduhar, 2013-07-25 This groundbreaking book addresses the spiritual aspect of hospice care for those who do not fit easily within traditional religious beliefs and categories A companion volume to Religious Understandings of a Good Death in Hospice Palliative Care this work also advocates for renewed attention to the spiritual the often overlooked element of hospice care Drawing on data from clinical case studies new sociological research and the perspectives of agnostics atheists those who emphasize the spiritual rather than institutional dimensions of a traditional religion and the rapidly growing cohort of those who describe themselves as spiritual but not religious the contributors to this volume interpret the shift from predominantly Christian based pastoral services to a new approach to the spiritual shaped by the increasing diversity of Western societies and new understandings of the nature of secular society How do we speak of this spirituality How do we use it in a way that enables caregivers to assist patients Clinicians and policy makers will appreciate the book s practical recommendations regarding staff roles training and resource allocation General readers will be moved by the persuasive call for greater religious and spiritual literacy at every level of health care in order to respond to the full spectrum of human needs in life and in death Death and the Quest for Meaning Stephen Strack, Herman Feifel, 1997 Essays in tribute to pioneering researcher Herman Feifel cover all aspects of thanatology the study of death and dying and the care of the dying and bereaved Topics include the role of the caregiver the process of grief religious and spiritual perspectives how children cope with death and assisted death Of interest to social workers nurses psychotherapists physicians clergy and educators Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Memory and Representation Dena Elisabeth Eber, Arthur G. Neal, 2001 Eber and Neal address some of the theoretical issues connected with symbolic constructions of reality through human memory and its subsequent representation Linkages between what we remember and how we represent it give humans their distinctive characteristics We construct our reality from how we perceive the events in our lives and from that reality we create a symbol system to describe our world It is through such symbolic constructions that we are provided with a usable backdrop for shaping our memories and organizing them into meaningful lines of action These case studies present a new and creative synthesis of the multiple meanings of memory and representation within the context of contemporary perceptions of truth
