Joan Schwartz,1996 Echoes of Coinherence W. Ross Hastings,2017-07-28 This book re imagines the universe and the scientific study of it through the lens of a triune Creator three persons of irreducible identity in a perichoretic or coinherent communion It modestly proposes that Trinitarian theology and especially the coinherent natures of the Son in the incarnation provides the metaphysic or theory of everything that manifests itself in the subject matter of science The presence of the image of the triune God in humanity and of traces of this God in the non human creation are discussed highlighting ontological resonances between God and creation resonances between the being of God and his creation such as goodness immensity yet particularity intelligibility agency relationality and beauty This Trinitarian reality suggests there should be a similarity also with respect to how we know in theology and science critical realism something reflected in the history of ideas in each These resonances lead to the conclusion that the disciplines of theology and science are in fact coinherent not conflicted This involves recognition of both the mutuality of these vocations and also importantly their particularity Science its own distinct guild yet finds its place ensconced within an encyclopedic theology and subject to first order credal theology
