Maggs,2019-03-04 In the past Soviet policymakers planners and jurists in their enthusiasm for economic and technological development devoted little attention to the often negative consequences of modernization New concerns however have become apparent in recent literature statutes and decrees In this book political scientists and experts on Soviet law address many of those concerns analyzing the legal issues associated with economic modernization in the USSR The central themes of the book are the increasingly centralized nature of the policymaking process in the USSR and Eastern Europe and the marked tendency to rely on law as a principal mechanism for managing the undesirable consequences of scientific and technological progress The authors also assess the impact of the scientific technical revolution on Soviet East European relations and East West relations emphasizing the foreign policy consequences of increased financial and technological interdependence The study does not deal with narrow legalistic issues of technical progress rather its focus on policy questions reflects the inclination of Soviet and Eastern European governments to view those questions in terms of law and legislative activity and to see law as an instrument of social engineering Regional Planning ... United States.
