Regional Security In South Asia:

Regionalism and Regional Security in South Asia Zahid Shahab Ahmed, 2016-04-08 Zahid Shahab Ahmed evaluates the progress of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation SAARC. This study goes beyond economic integration to present a detailed appraisal of cooperation under the overarching themes of economic cooperation, environmental security, human welfare, and cooperation in security matters. According to the author, SAARC is making progress in addressing the myriad of issues on its agenda. The transition from agreements to actions and frequent interactions among the member states has boosted confidence. The progress of SAARC is more evident in the less controversial areas of human security such as poverty alleviation, health and safety, human resources development, and higher education. Notwithstanding enthusiastic commitments reflected in agreements and action plans, there is a gulf between rhetoric and implementation, most notably in sensitive areas relating to traditional security. In the light of the findings of this study, the author proposes that greater cooperation in common human security areas has a potential to pave the way for a cooperation on issues of a contentious nature, particularly terrorism.

Regional Security in Southeast Asia Mely Caballero Anthony, 2005. The book examines ASEAN's mechanisms in managing challenges and threats to regional security. Its extensive analyses of the ASEAN story of managing regional security cover the different phases of ASEAN's development as a regional organization and explore the perceptible changes that have occurred in regional mechanisms of conflict management. The book also examines the roles of relevant actors beyond the states of ASEAN and the key interactions that have evolved over time, which have been instrumental in moving regional mechanisms beyond the ASEAN way. The book argues that the ASEAN way has not been impervious to change. As the association finds its way through periods of crises and continues to confront the many challenges ahead, ASEAN and its mechanisms are already being transformed beyond the narrow confines of the modalities associated with the ASEAN way. The changes in the political and security landscape of the region, as well as the democratic transitions taking place in some member states, have set the stage for a much more dynamic set of regional actors and processes that bring into question the kind of regionalism that is now taking place in the region. The way regionalism is changing in Southeast Asia.

Indian Foreign and Security Policy in South Asia Sandra Destradi, 2012-02-27. This book examines Indian foreign policy and security relations in its eastern regional neighbourhood. Indian Foreign and Security Policy in South Asia conducts an in-depth analysis into India's foreign policy towards the three main countries in India's Eastern neighbourhood: Sri Lanka, Nepal, and Bangladesh. In particular, it deals with India's role in the final years of the civil war in Sri Lanka, its approach to the peace and democratisation process in Nepal, and Indian foreign policy towards Bangladesh on a range of issues including Islamist militancy, migration, border security, and insurgency. Set within an analytical framework centred on the notions of empire, hegemony, and leadership, the study reveals that India pursued predominantly hegemonic strategies and was not able to generate genuine followership among its smaller neighbours. The South Asian case therefore shows the discrepancy that may exist between the possession of power capabilities and the ability to exercise actual influence a conclusion which lifts the study from geographical specifics and extends its relevance to other cases and cross regional comparisons This text will be of much interest to students of Indian foreign policy Asian security foreign policy analysis strategic studies and IR in general

Security and Southeast Asia Alan Collins,2003 From internal oppression in Burma to interstate conflict in the South China Sea the people of Southeast Asia face a range of threats This book identifies and explains the security challenges both traditional and nontraditional confronting the region Collins addresses the full spectrum of security issues discussing the impact of ethnic tensions and competing political ideologies the evolving role of ASEAN and Southeast Asia s interactions with key external actors China Japan and the United States The final section of the book explores how the region s security issues are reflected in two current cases the South China Sea dispute and the war on terrorism

South Asia and the Great Powers Sten Rynning,2017-02-23 Where the implications of war and peace are open to question the possibility of change depends more on politics than economics This book asks whether the region s great powers can overcome opposing interests and commit to political restraint The concept of regional security is based on great power support for regional order However there are many pitfalls to consider notably the politics of contested nationalisms the Asia Pacific rivalry of China and the US and India s inclinations to function or be seen as a benevolent hegemon for the region Yet there are signs of renewed determination to move the region in new directions While China s Silk Road projects are long term regional investments that hinge on regional stability the US is attempting to fashion new partnerships and India strives to reconcile regional differences to promote a peaceful environment This book as it sets out the emerging agendas of the great powers and local powers makes a significant contribution to a better understanding of the international relations and diplomatic politics of South Asia

Emerging Conflicts and Regional Security in South Asia,2019

Internal Conflict and Regional Security in South Asia Shiva Hari Dahal,2003 The South Asia region is one of the most populous and ethnically diverse in the world but its social political and economic development has been severely hindered by numerous inter state and intra state conflicts This paper seeks to provide a more effective multidimensional framework for the analysis and management of internal conflict and security issues in this region through the establishment of Peace Commissions These bodies could operate at national and regional levels in a similar manner to a human rights commission in order to establish effective institutional mechanisms to resolve social and political differences and so avoid violent conflict
