From Rodinia to Pangea Richard P. Tollo, 2010 The

Appalachians constitute one of Earth's major tectonic features and have served as a springboard for innovative geologic thought for more than 170 years. This volume contains 36 original papers reporting the results of research performed throughout nearly the entire length and breadth of the Appalachian region including all major provinces and geographical areas. Memoir 206 was designed to commemorate the near fortieth anniversary of the publication of the classic Studies of Appalachian Geology volumes that appeared just prior to the application of plate tectonic concepts to the region. Contributions concerning structural evolution, sedimentation, stratigraphy, magmatic processes, metamorphism, tectonics, and terrane accretion illustrate the wide range of ongoing research in the area and collectively serve to mark the considerable progress in scientific thought that has occurred during the past four decades. pub desc Index Medicus, 2004

Leading Dynamic Information Literacy Programs Anne C. Behler, 2023-04-07 Leading Dynamic Information Literacy Programs delves into the library instruction coordinator's work. Each chapter is written by practicing coordinators who share their experiences leading information literacy programs that are nimble, responsive, and supportive of student learning. The volume discusses the work of instruction coordinators within five thematic areas: Claiming our Space, Library Instruction in the Landscape of Higher Education, Moving and Growing Together, Curriculum Development, Meaningful Assessment, and Leading Change. Readers will gain insight from their colleagues' advice for situating information literacy within the higher education institution, developing meaningful curricula, and using assessment in productive ways. Many of the stories represent a departure from traditional models of library instruction. In addition, this book is sure to spark inspiration for innovative approaches to program leadership and development, including strategies for growing communities of practice. From leadership skills and techniques, methods for cultivating shared values, pedagogical approaches, team building, assessment strategies, and everything in between, the aspiring or practicing instruction coordinator has much to gain from reading this work.

Education and Social Media Christine Greenhow, Julia Sonnevend, Colin Agur, 2016-05-13 How are widely popular social media such as Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram transforming how teachers teach, how kids learn, and the very foundations of education? What controversies surround the integration of social media in students' lives? The past decade has brought increased access to new media and with this, new opportunities and challenges for education. In this book, leading scholars from education, law, communications, sociology, and cultural studies explore the digital transformation now taking place in a variety of educational contexts. The contributors examine such topics as social media usage in schools, online youth communities, and distance learning in developing countries; the disruption of existing educational models of how knowledge is created and shared; privacy, accreditation, and the tension between the new ease of sharing and copyright laws. Case studies examine teaching media in K-12 schools and at universities; tuition-free open education powered by social media as practiced by the University of the People; new financial models for higher education; the benefits and challenges of MOOCs (Massive Open Online Courses); social media and teacher education; and the civic and individual advantages of teens' participatory play.

Nature Next Door Ellen Stroud, 2012-12-15 The once denuded northeastern United States is now a region of trees Nature Next Door argues that the growth of cities the construction of parks the transformation of farming the boom in tourism and changes in the timber industry have together brought about a return of northeastern forests Although historians and historical actors alike have seen urban and rural areas as distinct they are in fact intertwined and the dichotomies of farm and forest agriculture and industry and nature and culture break down when the focus is on the history of Northeastern woods Cities trees mills rivers houses and farms are all part of a single transformed regional landscape In an examination of the cities and forests of the northeastern United States with particular attention to the woods of Maine New Hampshire Pennsylvania and Vermont Ellen Stroud shows how urbanization processes there fostered a period of recovery for forests with cities not merely consumers of nature but creators as well Interactions between city and hinterland in the twentieth century Northeast created a new wildness of metropolitan nature a reforested landscape intricately entangled with the region's cities and towns

Sociological and Philosophical Perspectives on Education in the Asia-Pacific Region Chi-Ming Lam, Jae PARK, 2015-12-12 This book demonstrates the value of approaching education from a sociological and philosophical perspective Specifically it addresses current and long standing educational issues in the Asia Pacific region integrating sociological and philosophical insights with practical applications in four key areas educational aims moral education educational policy and the East West dichotomy It discusses educational aims in terms of rationality philosophical thinking and sustainable development and presents the literary religious and analytical approaches to moral education Four educational policies are then considered Hong Kong's language policy Hong Kong's policy on the internationalization of education East Asia's policies on English education and Australia's policy on teacher education Different aspects of the East West dichotomy are analysed Confucian rationalism versus Western rationalism Confucian learning culture versus Western learning culture and Asian research methodology versus Western research methodology Taken as a whole the book shows that issues in education are rarely simple and looking at them from multiple perspectives allows for rich and informed debates It presents a rare philosophical and sociological analysis of the cultures and experiences of education in the Asia Pacific region and promotes research that leads to more culturally rooted educational policies and practice
