Berhanykun Andemicael, 1979      Regionalism and the United Nations B Andemicael, 1979-09      Networked Regionalism as Conflict Management Anna Ohanyan, 2015-04-15 Most regions of the world are plagued by conflicts that are made insoluble by a confluence of complex threads from history geography politics and culture These frozen conflicts defy conflict management interventions by both internal and external agents and institutions Worse they constantly threaten to extend beyond their local geographies as in the terrorist bombings in Boston by ethnic Chechens or to escalate from skirmishes to full scale war as in Nagorno Karabakh Consequently such conflicts cry out for alternative approaches to the classic state focused and sovereignty based conflict management models that are practiced in traditional diplomacy which most often produce rather short term ad hoc fragmented interventions and outcomes Drawing upon the cases of the South Caucasus the Western Balkans Central America South East Asia and Northern Ireland Networked Regionalism as Conflict Management offers a theoretical and practical solution to this impasse by arguing for regional collective interventions that involve a long term reengineering of existing conflict management infrastructure on the ground Such approaches have been attracting the attention of scholars and practitioners alike yet thus far these concepts have rarely involved more than simple prescriptions for regional cooperation between grassroots actors and traditional diplomacy Specifically says Anna Ohanyan only the cultivation and establishment of regional peace systems can provide an effective path toward conflict management in these standoffs in such intractably divided regions      The Rise of Post-Hegemonic Regionalism Pía Riggirozzi, Diana Tussie, 2012-01-07 This book offers a timely analysis and a novel and nuanced argument about post neoliberal models of regional governance in non European contexts It provides the first in depth empirically driven analysis of current models of regional governance in Latin America that emerged out of the crisis of liberalism in the region It contributes to comparative studies of the contemporary global political economy as it advances current literature on the topic by analysing distinctive overlapping and conflicting trajectories of regionalism in Latin America The book critically explores models of transformative regionalism and specific dimensions articulating those models beyond neoliberal consensus building As such it contests the overstated case of integration as converging towards global capitalism It provides an analytical framework that not only examines the what how who and why in the emergence of a specific form of regionalism but sets the ground for addressing two relevant questions that will push the study of regionalism further What factors enable or constrain how transformative a given regionalism is or can be with respect to the powers and policies of states encompassed by it and What factors govern how resilient a given regionalism is likely to be under changing political and economic conditions      The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Regionalism Tanja A.
