Regions Local Power Economic:

Net Loss Nathan Newman, 2015-12-16 How has the Internet been changing our lives and how did these changes come about Nathan Newman seeks the answers to these questions by studying the emergence of the Internet economy in Silicon Valley and the transformation of power relations it has brought about in our new information age Net Loss is his effort to understand why technological innovation and growth have been accompanied by increasing economic inequality and a sense of political powerlessness among large sectors of the population Newman first tells the story of the federal government's crucial role in the early development of the Internet with the promotion of open computer standards and collaborative business practices that became the driving force of the Silicon Valley model He then examines the complex dynamic of the process whereby regional economies have been changing as business alliances built around industries like the Internet replace the broader public investments that fueled regional growth in the past A radical restructuring of once regionally focused industries like banking electric utilities and telephone companies is under way with changes in federal regulation helping to undermine regional planning and the power of local community actors The rise of global Internet commerce itself contributes to weakening the tax base of local governments even as these governments increasingly use networked technology to market themselves and their citizens to global business usually at the expense of all but their most elite residents More optimistically Newman sees an emerging countertrend of global use of the Internet by grassroots organizations such as those in the antiglobalization movements that may help to transcend this local powerlessness

Kings and Usurpers in the Seleukid Empire Boris Chrubasik, 2016-10-13 Kings and Usurpers in the Seleukid Empire The Men who would be King focuses on ideas of kingship and power in the Seleukid empire the largest of the successor states of Alexander the Great Exploring the question of how a man becomes a king it specifically examines the role of usurpers in this particular kingdom those who attempted to become king and who were labelled as rebels by ancient authors after their demise by placing these individuals in their appropriate historical contexts through careful analysis of the literary numismatic and epigraphic material By writing about kings and rebels literary accounts make a clear statement about who had the right to rule and who did not and the Seleukid kings actively fostered their own images of this right throughout the third and second centuries BCE However what emerges from the documentary evidence is a revelatory picture of a political landscape in which kings and those who would be kings were in constant competition to persuade whole cities and armies that they were the only plausible monarch and of a right to rule that advanced and refuted on so many sides simply did not exist Through careful analysis this volume advances a new political history of the Seleukid empire that is predicated on social power redefining the role of the king as only one of several players within the social world and offering new approaches to the interpretation of the relationship between these individuals themselves and with the empire they sought to rule In doing so it both questions the current consensus on the Seleukid state arguing instead that despite its many strong rulers the empire was structurally weak and offers a new approach to writing political history of the ancient world

China's Regions in an Era of Globalization Tim Summers, 2018-06-19 The rise of China has been shaped and driven by its engagement with the global economy during a period of intensified globalization yet China is a continent sized economy and society with substantial diversity across its different regions This means that its engagement with the global economy cannot just be understood at the national level but requires analysis of the differences in participation in the global economy across China's regions This book responds to this challenge by looking at the development of China's regions in this era of globalization It traces the evolution of regional policy in China and its implications in a global context Detailed chapters examine the global trajectory of what is now becoming known as the Greater Bay Area in southern China the globalization of the inland mega city of Chongqing and the role of China's regions in the globally focused belt and road initiative launched by the Chinese government in late 2013 The book will be of interest to practitioners and scholars engaging with contemporary China's political economy and international relations Countries and Regions Guang Yang, Jing Zhang, Lanyu Liu, Xinghan Xiong, 2024-08-22 This open access book aims to present the cutting edge research of scholars from the Global South where scholars from developing countries have begun to join in the production of knowledges of Area Studies and have produced a large body of excellent works of Area Studies based on a variety of disciplines Articles of this book have been developed from 11 papers which were presented at the 2nd Tsinghua Area Studies Forum to represent a range of area studies subjects and regions The book is divided into five chapters that either analyze regional country issues regions in the world from the perspective of global linkages and cross regional linkages or discuss internal issues such as national governance ethnicity economy and civil war using the nation state as the unit of analysis

Interactions Between China's National Emissions Trading Scheme and Electricity Market: Practices and Policies Tsun Se Cheong, Xunpeng (Roc) Shi, Yongping Sun, Jian Yu, Xin Yao, 2023-11-03 China's national carbon market the world's largest emissions trading scheme ETS kicked off its first online trade recently This can be called a milestone for the country towards the nation's goals of having CO2 emissions peak before 2030 and achieving carbon neutrality by 2060 China's national ETS initially covers the power sector before being expanded to a much broader set of energy intensive industries On one hand the electricity sector the largest carbon emitting industry is responsible for about 40% of China's emissions and it has great significance to response to global climate change On the other hand the effectiveness of China's ETS will rest on how well it is coordinated with power market regulations and policies In this regard the deepening of reform as well as the advanced technology and its applications in the electricity market will add new challenges and opportunities to electricity trade which in turn influences national ETS Therefore this brings urgency to accurately capture the dynamic interactions between national ETS and electricity market to transform carbon trading into a practical and effective way to decarbonize the power sector
